ARIZONA DEPUTY DIES; BLONDE FACES SECOND MURDER CHARGE

Today

Home Weather.
Will Hays, and Purity.
Aimee McPherson's Debut.
Two Fine Buildings.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 29.

AFTER the rain that means prosperity, the sun is shining, hot and bright.

Angelenos, as the inhabitants of this happy city call themselves, early or recent arrivals from different states, tell you about their home weather.

An ex-New Yorker says New York is cold and slushy, and seems to glory in it.

A former Oregonian tells you, with intense satisfaction, that in his part of the world the big Willamette River is frozen solid, automobiles driving over it. Ice breakers are clearing a water path for boats.

WILL HAYS, czar, censor, and loving big brother of the movies, is here. To say that everything is pure in moving picture production is putting it mildly.

Miss Norma Shearer, doing the "Ex-Wife" in a sound proof building, says "because my play has a dubious name it has to be sweeter and purer than Pollyanna and Little Rollo. Even the sophisticated would hardly know that the ex-wife had any kind of a past or present."

MISS AIMEE SEMPLE McPHERSON, brilliant young revivalist who has caused many to mend their ways, will make talkies and preach on a really big scale.

"Sermonettes" to make heaven and hell as real as Santa Monica and Wall street will be sent far and wide, preaching the gospel to all the world, literally.

THE directing gentleman got useful experience directing the production of "Dante's Inferno." Miss McPherson promises to make Dante's effort seem as mild as a Mother Goose story.

ARCHITECTS and business men should see two buildings recently erected here. The Richfield Oil building, corner of Sixth and Flower streets, is a monument of black and gold, something in the style of Mr. Woolley's American Radiator building in New York, but blacker, with much more gold. It rebukes dull brick and stone.

THE "Bullock-Wilshire" Building, a branch of Bullock's big downtown establishment, almost eclipses in lavish expenditure the Bamberger store in Newark, N. J.

OWNERS of Bullock's wish you to know that the new store was produced entirely by Los Angeles architects and workmen, no materials bought outside of Los Angeles, except marble from Missouri.

Concentrated Los Angeles civic pride has a good deal to do with this city's progress.

If an Angeleno lady falls downstairs in the suburbs and sprains her ankle, that's more important to Los Angeles newspapers than would be the simultaneous blowing up of Vesuvius, Aetna, Mount Pelee and Popocatpetl.

LOWER CALIFORNIA, long peninsula owned by Mexico, stretching a thousand miles along the Pacific south of the California border, offers opportunity to some young man with millions and ambition—Harkness, who has given millions to Harvard and Yale; young Leeds, the tinplate heir, who seems anxious to do something, or some other.

THERE has been offered to this writer a tract on that peninsula running 400 miles along the coast, 16 miles wide.

With this fair-sized kingdom many interesting experiments could be made, if the experimenter had millions of dollars as well as millions of acres.

THE British, while they talk sweet peace, maintain their ancient common sense. The Los Angeles Herald prints a photograph taken inside of "the largest airplane producing factory in the world." This photograph by International News Reel shows scores of small, all steel planes in process of construction. These planes called "British Bulldogs" are built to provide a warm welcome for any air invaders.

PLANS now under way will make the Boeing plant, in Seattle, one of the important units in Charles E. Mitchell's "United Aircraft," the biggest airplane factory in the world.

At present the British have the biggest factory. The French have the biggest fighting air fleet. We have hopes.

AGITATION against our brown brothers from the Philippine Islands continues.

Within the last 12 hours five Filipinos have been cruelly beaten by gangsters in San Francisco. Police reserves were sent to check rioting that threatened every section where Filipinos live.

Extensive Asiatic immigration is an impossibility in this country, and most dangerous for the immigrants.

BORKOWSKI'S WIFE TELLS OF KILLING

Doctor, Present When Miner Was Beaten, Identifies Policemen as Attackers

By JOHN P. COWAN,
Staff Correspondent.

FRANKLIN, Pa., Jan. 29.—Mrs. Sophie Borkowski took the witness stand today to help convict the three former coal and iron policemen who are charged with involuntary manslaughter in the killing of her husband, John Borkowski, the miner of Tyre.

Tears clouded the eyes of the middle-aged widow as she sobbed out the story of a hearse carrying her husband's broken body back to their modest farm.

"His head was full of holes," the widow testified. "There was a scar on his head and his face was scarred. His ears were badly marked, his arms were swollen and his chest was caved in."

DOCTOR TO TESTIFY

With unchanging countenances the three defendants listened to Mrs. Borkowski's testimony. They are Walter J. Lyster, Harold P. Watts and Frank Slapikas—the same three who were acquitted of the murder of Borkowski in Allegheny County.

IDENTIFIES POLICE

This afternoon Dr. J. M. Patterson, of Imperial, took the stand and surprised the defense by identifying Watts and Lyster as two of those in the barracks of the Pittsburgh Coal Company at Imperial when Borkowski was beaten.

At the murder trial Dr. Patterson had been unable to identify any of the defendants, but, he explained, "they have been out of prison now for some time and they look more like themselves."

Dr. Patterson retold the beating of Borkowski by Lyster, told how Lyster whipped and kicked the miner before and after Dr. Patterson had dressed Borkowski's wounds.

Early witnesses included John Higgins, close friend of the Tyre miner; Constable Ross Schaefer, Harry Ewing and M. F. Lesie, cor-

MERCURY RISE TO CHASE COLD

Another cold wave gripped Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania today, sending the mercury to 13 degrees.

A minimum of about 10 degrees was predicted for tonight by Forecaster W. S. Brotzman. Skies will be clear, he said.

Tomorrow the mercury will begin rising and by Friday considerably milder weather will arrive, the forecaster asserted. Some suburbs reported temperatures as low as 9 today.

2 BANK BANDITS BIND WOMAN

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 29.—Two young bandits held up the Community Savings and Loan Company today, tied up the woman clerk, gathered together bundles of currency—and then left without their loot, apparently frightened.

Mrs. Alice Baughman, 26, the clerk, was alone in the offices on the first floor of the Clifford Building, in busy West Second street, at noon when the two young men pushed a revolver through the cashier's cage.

They forced her to unlock the cage door, tied her feet and hands, hid her behind a partition and then emptied the safe and cash drawers of approximately $1,200.

PAIR BECOME CONFUSED

While they were gathering the money into a pile, two customers entered the bank. The bandits, unseen, ordered Mrs. Baughman, who was also hidden, to shout to

Doctors Say Jail May Kill Pantages

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—A hearing on the petition of Alexander Pantages, multi-millionaire showman, recently convicted of a criminal assault, was continued until late this afternoon after two doctors, one a county physician, had testified he was a victim of angina pectoris, a heart disease, and that further incarceration might prove fatal.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Judges J. Willis Martin and Frank Smith in Common Pleas Court No. 5 today dismissed a taxpayer's suit to restrain the County Commissioners from installing voting machines in Philadelphia.

CABS STONED, 3 HURT, 2 IN HOSPITAL

Taxi Drivers, Attacked in Brentwood Siege, Balked By Woman With Toy Gun

BULLETIN.

Strike sympathizers stoned two cabs near Millvale and Baum boulevards this afternoon, injuring three men, two of whom were removed to the Homeopathic Hospital.

A crowd of strikers hurled missiles at two deputy sheriffs and the driver of one cab, then dragged them out of the cab and beat them, according to the report. A moment later strikers who had followed a cab from the Green Cab headquarters in Ellsworth avenue, showered it with pieces of ice at Baum and Melwood avenues, breaking the windshield.

Besieged by more than 100 striking taxicab drivers and sympathizers, two deputy sheriffs, four guards and two drivers of the Yellow Cab Company were held prisoners in a lonely farm house off Willett road, Brentwood, for two hours and a half last night.

An air rifle leveled at the mob by Mrs. Dorothy Klenk and Mrs. Pauline Jones, her daughter, whose home was besieged, kept the rioters at bay. Mrs. Klenk was struck by flying bricks as she rushed from the house and flourished her harmless toy, which was mistaken by the troublemakers for a real gun.

Chief Deputy Sheriff B. V. Coffey and County Detective David Carlin led the squad of detectives and deputies who rescued the trapped men.

Brentwood is out of the city, and not within the jurisdiction of city police. Police Supt. P. P. Walsh, when appealed to by telephone by the besieged, notified county authorities and the sheriff's office.

OFFICERS JEERED

Jeers and cat calls greeted the new drivers and detectives and sheriffs as the caravan of machines pulled away from the farm. An escort of 10 automobiles

ACTION STARTS IN VOTE FRAUD

Action on the charges of fraud made by Attorney Ward Bonsall, chairman of the special recount board, was taken today by M. Barney Cohen, assistant district attorney, who petitioned court to have ballot boxes in 18 districts in which irregularities were found transferred from the sheriff's custody to the district attorney for investigation.

Ballot boxes sought are from the following districts: Third Ward, Third, Sixth and Seventh; Fourth Ward, Second, Fifth and Sixth; Fifth Ward, Twenty-ninth; Sixth Ward, First and Second; Ninth Ward, Fourth, Sixth, Fifteenth and Seventeenth; Fourteenth Ward, Seventh; Nineteenth Ward, Thirtieth, Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth; Twenty-first Ward, Seventh.

M'CANN'S PLAN BRANCH STORES

The McCann Company has obtained sites in East End and Dormont as the first steps in an expansion program, the Sun-Telegraph learned today.

A 20-year lease, with an option to buy, has been obtained on the Rittenhouse Hotel at 124 North Highland avenue. Plans for a store at this site will be announced at a banquet of McCann officials tonight. Part of the building will be used for the store and the remainder will continue as a family hotel.

The negotiations for the Dormont site have not been officially closed, but the culmination of the deal is expected soon.

Peter V. Bouterse, general manager and treasurer of the McCann Company, announced that these moves are the opening steps in a program designed to include all sections of Pittsburgh.

The deal was handled by the Real Estate Company through L. W. Monteverde, manager of the sales department.

Quick Justice For Dry Raider Who Slew Boy

Another youth, 18-year-old Clarence Bailey, of Ashland, Ala., is listed among those who went down as "martyrs" in the vain attempt to enforce prohibition. He was the son of a respected farmer and had never been in any previous trouble. Following is the story:

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Quick justice followed the killing of Clarence Bailey, 18-year-old Ashland (Alabama) high school boy. The youth was shot to death by Cecil Guthrie, a deputy sheriff of Clay County, Ala., early in September, 1929. The officer was sentenced to 10 years in the Alabama penitentiary, November 9.

Guthrie shot young Bailey as he was attempting to escape arrest on the officer's suspicion that he was transporting liquor. The boy was the son of a respected farmer and had never been involved in any previous trouble, so far as the records disclose. The congressman from that district, Representative Lafayette L. Patterson, was among those attending his funeral.

"Much feeling was aroused in the community by the shooting," a dispatch to the Washington Herald stated, adding:

"Young Bailey and his family have a host of friends. Because of the feeling in the small town, proceedings were hurried, but after the indictment for first degree murder there was a lessening of the tension until the commencement of the trial."

TWO FLY TO SAVE TRAPPED DIVER

QUEBEC, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—The two planes which left here yesterday taking two divers to assist in the rescue efforts at Riviere aux Outardes where diver Peter Trans is submerged, took off from Rimouski in perfect weather today for the scene of the accident.

The divers, Casenel Morency and Lekvis Begin, widely experienced men, were to start rescue operations immediately upon their arrival at the Ontario Paper Company's plant.

Latest reports from the scene indicated that Trans, who has been submerged since Monday afternoon, is jammed in the crib work which he was repairing. It will be necessary for divers to saw him out.

In the meantime gangs of men, working in three shifts, have been maintaining a steady stream of air through the hose to Trans' suit. Whether he is being kept alive in the intense cold was not known.

DIDN'T SHOOT HIM, SAYS IRENE

Schroeder Woman Defiant in Jail; Dague Stunned by News of Officer's Death

Deputy Sheriff Lee Wright, picturesque peace officer of the Arizona deserts, died today from bullet wounds alleged to have been inflicted by Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague. The shooting occured as Irene and her companions were fleeing from Chandler, Ariz., a short time before the capture.

Told of Wright's death, in her cell in the Lawrence County jail, Irene asserted that Wright had been shot by one of his own companions.

County Attorney G. T. Wilson, of Phoenix, announced that murder charges would be filed against Mrs. Schroeder, Dague and Joseph Wells, Texas convict, who accompanied the pair.

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Jan. 29.—"Dead?"

Walter Glenn Dague, erstwhile Wheeling automobile salesman and sweetheart of Irene Schroeder, blonde trigger woman suspect in the slaying of Corp. Brady Paul, stood aghast at the news of Deputy Sheriff Lee Wright's death in Arizona.

Wright was wounded in the encounter with Dague and Irene when they shot their way through Chandler, just a short time before their capture in the desert wastes at the foot of the Estrella Mountains.

DENIES BLAME

Irene was more composed, but still defiant.

"We didn't shoot anyone," she snarled in reply. "If any one was shot, he was shot by one of his own deputies. We fired only a couple of shots out of the side of the car as we passed through Chandler, but they opened up on us and even shot one of their own men in our car." (Chapman, kidnaped a short time before at Florence.)

Both Irene and Dague were reticent after hearing of Wright's death. They refused to talk about it other than Irene's insistence that they had nothing to do with it.

DAGUE RETICENT

Dague, when pressed for a statement, declared:

"I have nothing to say, only to an attorney."

Just before being notified of Wright's death, Dague received a letter from his son Delman, 6, which asked, "When are you coming home "daddy?" You promised to come home Christmas."

Thus far Dague has not been represented by counsel, Irene's ultimatum that she will stick to Dague and the attorney who represents her must also defend her lover, having produced but one half-hearted effort on the part of her counsel to interview Dague.

Judge W. P. Barnum, of Mellet murder fame, who has announced himself as chief counsel for the blonde, is expected to visit his client today. Attorney Kedgewin H. Powell, his associate, having conferred here yesterday with two local lawyers, former District Attorne, Thomas W. Dickey and

But it will cost 5 cents each time you ask them. The new service will be statewide. The telephone company, not the operator, gets the nickel, of course.

Dudley Field Malone Weds, Rogers, Mencken Guests

LONDON, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Dudley Field Malone, American divorce lawyer, was married at noon today to Edna Louise Johnson of Brooklyn. The civil ceremony took place in Mayfair. There was no church service.

The bride, 24, has been studying art and music in Paris. She met Malone about three years ago in Southern France.

Sir William Jowitt, attorney general, and Lady Cynthia Mosley acted as witnesses for the couple.

Among intimate friends who were present at the wedding were Will Rogers, H. L. Mencken, Peggy Wood, the Baroness Ravensdale, and Sir Thomas and Lady Bridges.

Malone recently was divorced from Doris Stevens, the feminist.

HOUSE COMMITTEE SETS HEARING ON PROHIBITION REPEAL

ACTION FIRST SINCE LAW'S ADOPTION

Hearings on Enforcement Transfer Nearing End; Glass Assails Reform

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The House Judiciary Committee will begin hearings February 12 on seven measures for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, Representative George S. Graham (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, the chairman, announced today. This is the first time since prohibition that such a course has been taken by the committee, previous attempts by liberals to obtain hearings having always failed.

TRANSFER FAVORED

Other developments in the prohibition controversy were:

Hearings on the bill to transfer enforcement from the Treasury to the Justice Department were virtually concluded by the House Committees on Executive Expenditures, with prospects of a favorable report tomorrow.

President Hoover's proposal to confer police magistrate powers on United States Commissioners in minor dry cases was assailed by Senator Carter Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, a leading prohibitionist, in the Senate.

The move by some of the Congressional liberals for 2.75 per cent beer was met by notice from the drys that the only test they would recognize would be that on the major issue of prohibition or no prohibition.

A "model" prohibition bill, indorsed by the Hoover administration and designed to dry up the big cities of the nation, was before Congress for study.

GLASS RAPS CHANGE

Senator Glass, in attacking the proposal to let United States Commissioners handle dry cases, filed a protest from Federal Attorney John Paul, of the western district of Virginia, who said such a system would produce "unsatisfactory conditions" in rural districts. Glass gave the Senate a laugh by referring to President Hoover's "so-called commission on law enforcement."

Senator William E. Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, condemned the movement for 2.75 beer as failing to meet the issue.

"That wouldn't help the situation at all," he said. "Such legislation wouldn't settle any of the questions before us, and would merely add a little aroma to your drinks."

The Hoover "model city" dry bill applies to the District of Columbia only, but subsequent general legislation could be drafted in the same form if it met with success.

It would punish drinking in public by a jail term or fine; swear every city policeman as a dry agent; permit court judges to issue search warrants for private dwellings; permit police to keep and use all seized vehicles and punish "giving" as well as selling liquor to adolescents. Any policeman criminally charged would be defended by United States attorneys.

Ex-Mayor, 15 Others Guilty in Rum Ring

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Sixteen persons named as defendants in the Pottawatomie County liquor conspiracy case, including Homer Knappenberger, former mayor of Earlsboro, entered pleas of guilty to conspiracy charges at the opening of the trial in Federal District Court here today. Judge Edgar S. Vaught announced sentences would be imposed February 15.

Knappenberger, who previously had pleaded not guilty, was the first to change his plea. He was followed by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Burdett, who likewise reversed pleas of not guilty. Burdett, Knappenberger's son-in-law, is a former chief of police at Earlsboro.

oner's deputies; Dr. T. R. Helmbold, coroner's physician.

The first witnesses were heard yesterday after a jury of eight men and four women had been selected. Twice the defense tried to halt the trial by contending that the indictment was illegal and that the defendants were being placed in double jeopardy.

"SURPRISE" IN VIEW

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, assisting Clunk in the prosecution, has indicated that the state will follow a new line of procedure.

The nature of this "surprise" is secret, but Gardner has assured the court that the testimony will not be exactly the same as that which failed to convict the defendants of murder in Allegheny County.

Borkowski died in Sewickley Valley Hospital almost one year ago. The state contends that Borkowski was dragged from his mother-in-law's home at Santiago, taken to the barracks and further beaten.

Defendants Watts and Slapikas admitted being in the mother-in-law's home, but contended they had gone there searching for violations of the liquor laws.

House Reports Kelly Bill Marking Battle

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Representative Clyde Kelly's resolution to create a commission to arrange for the observance in July of the one hundred and seventy-fifth anniversary of the battle of the Monongahela was reported today by the House Library Committee. The battle was known as "Braddock's defeat."

The commission is to consist of two senators, two representatives and one person to be appointed by the President.

Sawmill Operator Killed By Motorist

Strenuous Sports Retard Scholars, Doctor Warns

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Dr. Edward L. Bauer told the Philadelphia County Medical Society last night that many healthy normal children were "burned out" physically and retarded mentally by the intensive training to which they were subjected for participation in "highly competitive" sports in the public grade and high schools. The doctor is a member of the staff of the Children's Hospital.

"Warning should be issued against the development of highly competitive sports for school children," Dr. Bauer declared. "Such competition spells ruin to the child engaged therein because it drives to the point of fatigue which is beyond the normal state."

FOX REFUNDING TASK BEGINS

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(INS.)—Efforts of reorganization bankers to finance the William Fox Film Corporation were launched today after all applications for an equity receivership were stayed by Federal Judge Frank J. Coleman.

About $45,000,000 will be required for permanent funding, attorneys for Fox said. The reorganization committee will have until February 11 to complete its plans and report in court.

Meanwhile two judgments were filed in the Supreme Court by bank creditors of the Fox Film Corporation because of [illegible] company's failure to answ[illegible]. One was for $392,080 and the other for $298,246.

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the Fox Film Corporation, said these judgments were "measures of over-abundant caution on the part of the banks," and that the company's net assets were "admittedly many times the amount of these debts."

DEPUTY DIES; IRENE FACES NEW CHARGE

Gun Wound Kills Member of Posse

Irene Schroeder, the blonde trigger woman, and her sweetheart, W. Glenn Dague, face another murder charge.

Deputy Sheriff Lee Wright, who for 40 years fought and vanquished all sorts of Western gunman, but fell with a bullet wound in his head, received in a battle with a woman, died early today in Arizona, according to word received by the Sun-Telegraph.

Deputy Wright was one of the leaders of the little army of Arizona law enforcement officers who engaged in a gun fight with the fleeing Irene, Dague and Joseph Wells in a little Arizona town. He was wounded when, with the others, he tried to stop the fugitives' car. Another deputy, Joe Chapman, of Florence, Ariz., was kidnaped.

According to an Associated Press dispatch from Phoenix, County Attorney G. T. Wilson announced that murder charges would be filed against the trio at once. He said copies of the murder charges would be sent to New Castle, and the return of Irene and Dague to Arizona would be sought if they escaped conviction in Pennsylvania.

CONSIDER ACTION

Although it was realized that Wright's condition was serious, it was not believed he would die at the time Arizona authorities turned Irene and Dague over to New Castle authorities to be returned to face a charge of murdering Corp. Brady Paul, highway patrolman.

News of the death of Deputy Wright was received by the Sun-Telegraph within 20 minutes after he died at 4 o'clock this morning.

Maricopa County, Arizona, authorities, saddened by the death of the man they have respected for two score years as one who was ever willing to face the worst and fastest shooting desperadoes Arizona and the Mexican border offered, had not decided on what action they might take to avenge his death.

MAY DEMAND PRISONERS

It was suggested that should the trigger woman and Dague escape lightly in the New Castle killing that they be returned to Arizona to face stern Western justice.

The prisoners were to be told of the death of Wright sometime today.

Yesterday Wells was arraigned in the Arizona courts and pleaded guilty to a charge of robbery. This complaint charged him with taking $8 and a gold watch and other valuables from Deputy Chapman, who was kidnaped by Wells, Dague and Irene.

Wells, also identified as Vernon Ackerman, former Texas convict, will be held on a murder charge in connection with the deputy's death, Sheriff Charles H. Wright said.

The bandits became confused, Mrs. Baughman said. They argued as to which one should carry the loot. Apparently afraid that the departing customers had become suspicious, they suddenly took flight.

Mrs. Baughman hobbled to a telephone. Her hands tied, she was unable to call for aid. Another customer, Miss Wilhelmina Sheppard, 23, entered and loosed the knots.

AMATEURS IN CRIME

The authorities believe the bandits escaped in an auto, but there were no eyewitnesses to the flight. Mrs. Baughman reported that they seemed amateurs in crime.

Elmer E. Lyon, manager of the bank, said that a preliminary check of the funds indicated that nothing was missing, or, at the most, a few dollars.

SUBMARINES PUT FIRST BY JAPAN

Tokio to Forego All Other Demands if Undersea Minimum Tonnage Carries

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Japan's absolute minimum defensive strength in submarines consists of 80,000 tons of undersea boats, a spokesman for the Japanese delegation to the five-power naval conference told press representatives here today.

If that figure is granted, Japan will be conciliatory to all demands made by the other powers, it was said. The spokesman intimated that if Japan is conceded these submarines, no attempt will be made to obtain a 70 per cent ratio with the United States and Great Britain in 10,000 ton cruisers.

The Japanese spokesman made it crystal clear that his nation considers submarines the most valuable means of defense, and that she will stand on her right to build sufficient undersea craft to protect her interests.

If the submarines are granted, Japan will be willing to limit her destroyer tonnage to an almost negligible figure, the spokesman declared.

SHOWDOWN TOMORROW

The naval arms conference was in a state of suspended animation today while the chiefs of the delegations of the five powers labored intensely in preparation for tomorrow's "showdown."

The second plenary session of the conference tomorrow—forced by pressure from the American delegation—will compel at least a partial showing of the cards which up until now have been held extremely close to the chest.

Ten days of conversations behind closed doors have failed to produce an acceptable agenda, thanks to the Franco-Italian and Franco-British differences.

It was on the theory that this state of affairs might continue until Christmas that the American delegates forced the situation into the open.

BLAME FOR DELAY

Whatever else the plenary session will reveal, it certainly will show that the lack of progress made in the negotiations was not due to the American attitude and will thus permit the placing of responsibility for the tardy deliberations where it belongs.

Thus Premier Tardieu of France will have to deny Italian parity before the world—it is to be denied—and defend the theory of global tonnage with elastic categories against the British proposals for limitation strictly by categories.

It is understood that Secretary of State Stimson, speaking first under the alphabetical arrangement of speeches, will seize the opportunity to re-state and re-emphasize that the primary purposes of the conference, which as far as America is concerned, are the limitation of those categories below warships not provided for in the Washington treaty and the effecting of maximum reduction in Europe, will stand.

Manufacturers Asked For Prosperity Data

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(INS.)—Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the national business survey conference, today sent a circular letter to the leading manufacturers of the country for reports on increased construction and other work to be undertaken in their plants during 1930.

Barnes outlined in his letter the achievements of the conference since it was organized in November at the call of President Hoover—the great expansion projects the railroads, shipbuilder, electrical utilities and the major communication agencies have pledged.

Hutchinson Ready to Tell Of Double Life

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Samuel G. Hutchinson, millionaire Chicago film distributor, was ready to tell from the witness stand here today his story of how two women, each unaware of existence of the other, had loved him for 20 years.

Hutchinson yesterday sat in the courtroom where his wife, Mrs. Mattie Deane Hutchinson, Chicago society leader, is suing Mrs. C. P. Taylor for $300,000 on a charge of alienation of affections, and heard both women reaffirm their love for him.

Mrs. Taylor, who testified she met Hutchinson in 1908 and did not know he was married until long after the birth of their first child, Jane, now 18, answered "I do, oh, I do," when asked in cross-examination if she still loved the film distributor.

Mrs. Hutchinson told in detail of her life with Hutchinson from the date of her marriage when he was working in a bank for $65 a month to the time 12 years later when wealth came after he entered the film distributing business with A. C. Roebuck, of Sears Roebuck Company.

She told of the discovery of her husband's double life when she found letters addressed to Cornelius P. Taylor, the name he assumed in his life with Mrs. Taylor, in his pockets.

She became suspicious late in 1927, she said, and trailed her husband to the home of Mrs. Taylor.

Mrs. Taylor had testified she met Hutchinson in Valparaiso, Ind., at the time he was just starting his film enterprise, and fell in love with him.

Pajamas, Answer of Paris To Long Skirt War

PARIS, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Long trousers rather than long skirts are seemingly occupying the minds of important dressmakers who showed summer styles for the first time here.

Unprecedented crowds of excited buyers and style writers jammed the salons for the first peek of the couturiers' answer to the organized opposition of American women to the long skirts and general back-to-bondage styles of the winter.

The style makers have proceeded to add an inch or so to skirts here and there, pull in waist lines generally and tidy up their work, already well started, of creating a new outline for Eve.

The style makers' big feature, however, is the creation of many varieties of trouser costumes which are labled pajamas for the beach, for sun bathing, for the interior, for the studio, and even for dinner. It appeared as though they intended to lead modern women back to long skirts for daytime wear by irresistible trousers which are as long and wide as evening skirts but neater and snappier. Even the old-fashioned men among the buyers, who were frankly pulling for the old-fashioned girl with her short hair and skirt were enthusiastic about the new trousers.

Indications were that it would be a big sunburn year, with even grandmothers exposing bare backs to old Sol.

Some skirts will be worn, however. There is little change in the length of sport skirts although here and there an extra inch or so is added. Knees are simply not good form, according to Paris. If women insist on wearing dresses instead of trousers for tennis and the beach they should have them long enough to reach the top of the calf.

SPAIN'S NEW PREMIER CONTINUES RULE OF IRON

QUELLS RIOT STAGED BY STUDENTS

Country at Large Accepts De Rivera's Fall Calmly; King Alfonso Stronger

By THOMAS A. LOAYZA
International News Service.

MADRID, Jan. 29.—Called upon to fill the place left vacant by the resignation of Gen. Primo De Rivera, who ruled Spain with an iron hand for more than six years as premier and dictator, Gen. Damaso Berenguer today prepared to take a firm grip on the reins of government.

One of his first acts was to take measures to prevent disorderly elements from using the political upheaval necessarily accompanying a change in government as an opportunity for spreading unrest throughout the country.

HALTS DEMONSTRATION

A demonstration in the streets of this capital staged by more than 3,000 students and others with radical tendencies was promptly squelched by the police.

For a time last night, however, the demonstration threatened to take on the aspect of a serious riot as the streets echoed with shouts of "no more generals," "Long live liberty" and "Down with monarchy."

Two hundred students were arrested and several injured when the police charged them with drawn sabres.

Spain generally accepted the fall of the dictatorship of Primo De Rivera with an unruffled calm. The country appeared to be favorably inclined toward Gen Berenguer. Strict censorship of the press was continued, however, to prevent criticism of either the new government or the departing cabinet of the former dictator.

It is believed that the King, feeling that the days of the dictatorship were numbered, thought it best to take control of the situation and win back the disaffected quarters, thereby strengthening his own position in whatever government should follow the dictatorship.

The immediate cause of the dictator's resignation is believed to have been the King's refusal to sign Gen. De Rivera's decrees removing Gen. Goded, the military governor of Cadiz, on charges of seditious intentions, and the captain-general of Andalusia on charges of abetting Gen. Goded.

END DICTATORSHIP

The new premier announced he would reinvoke the constitution of 1876 in abolishing the dictatorship and re-establishing constitutional government.

The Duke of Alba, one of the most popular nobles of Spain, has accepted the ministry of education in the new cabinet.

Berenguer's choice as premier was regarded as a bitter pill for Primo to swallow. They have been enemies for years.

The new premier is one of the closest friends of the King and is the head of His Majesty's military household.

One of the leaders of the Liberals before Gen. de Rivera's ascension to power, he was made high commissioner of Morocco but was forced to resign after the troops he commanded suffered a terrible defeat at the hands of the Moorish tribes in 1922. He was tried by a court-martial, but acquitted.

Later he was sentenced to serve six months imprisonment for attending a dinner at which the former dictator was severly criticized, but the sentence was commuted.

FILIPINO CLUB BOMBED IN STOCKTON

Dozens Hurled From Beds as Blast Wrecks Buildings; Race Battles in Streets

STOCKTON, Cal., Jan. 29.—(AP.)—A terrific explosion blew out the front of the Filipino center, an old mansion used as a club house here, early today. Although dozens of Filipinos were sleeping in the structure no one was reported injured seriously.

The facade of the building, which is located in one of the poorer residential sections in the southern portion of the city, was hurled across the street by the blast. Police reservists surrounded the structure. Powder experts said the explosion was probably caused by a blast of black powder set under the front porch.

HURLED FROM BEDS

Many of the Filipino occupants of the building were thrown from their beds by the blast, but a few bruises were the only injuries reported.

Police viewed the explosion as an aftermath of recent anti-Filipino rioting in Watsonville, San Jose and other central California cities.

The Filipino center, used as a dance hall and dormitory, hired white girls as entertainers. The hiring of white girls as entertainers in a club at Watsonville was contributory cause to the trouble there.

Police at Monterey were worried yesterday when a Filipino mess boy from the Presidio started a story that his fellow-countrymen, in retaliation for the recent riots, planned to fire the army barracks and steal weapons during the confusion. Army officials posted additional sentries.

Philippine Independence Bill to Reach Senate Soon

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—(AP.)—A vote in the Senate on Philippine independence during the present session of Congress appeared likely today with an announcement by Chairman Bingham, of the Senate Territories Committee, that the committee would report a bill as soon after February 10 as possible.

Bingham's announcement followed an assertion by Senator Tydings, (Dem.), Maryland, that recent labor riots on the west coast involving Filipinos and white workmen were ample grounds for granting early independence.

$500 FINE FOR POLISH CLUB

The Polish-American Citizens and Beneficial Society, of Canton Township, Washington County, better known as the Polish Club, was today fined $500 by Judge F. P. Schoonmoker in Federal Court here on charges of violating the prohibition law. The plea of guilty was made through Joseph Polka, of Washington, president of the society.

The steward, Stanley Parsia, was sentenced to three months in jail after he pleaded guilty to destroying evidence in an effort to prevent its seizure when dry agents raided the place November 8.

Prohibition agents reported confiscating 353 pints of home brew and a pint of moonshine, along with a large amount of brewing equipment.

TRINITY MEET ENDS TODAY

Three hundred lay and clerical delegates are meeting today in Trinity Cathedral, Sixth avenue, attending the sixty-fifth annual convention of the Episcopal diocese of Pittsburgh which opened in the Cathedral yesterday. The convention was to close with a business session this afternoon.

Bishop Hugh L. Burleson, of South Dakota, assessor to the presiding bishop, and Bishop Alexander Mann, of the Pittsburgh diocese, delivered addresses last night. Bishop Burleson is a member of the National Council of the Episcopal Church and is an adopted member of the Oneida Indian tribe.

The local diocese quota for missionary work last year was $63,800 and all this has been paid, Bishop Burleson said. This year's pledges have not yet reached last year's total but church leaders are confident the need will be met.

Banana Monopoly Laid to Company

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Charges that the United Fruit Company has a monopoly on the American banana industry were made today by Representative Reid (Rep.), of Illinois, during a hearing before the House Merchant Marine Committee on the Davis amendment, which would prohibit mail contracts from going to concerns operating foreign flag ships in competition with American flag ships.

"I think the company has a monopoly, and controls every banana we eat," Reid asserted.

German Bigamist Goes Unpunished

BERLIN, Jan. 29.—A German can leave his wife at home and get married in Russia with impunity. Karl Schmitzdorf did it. He was arrested on returning to Germany. It was decided that he was liable only to the punishment of the place where his crime was committed. Russia has no punishment for such an offense.

Workers Delayed By Frozen Rails

Wilkinsburg residents who use the Verona street cars to take them to work, early today had long waits on street corners due to a frozen switch. Shortly before 6 o'clock a switch at Swissvale and Franklin avenues, Wilkinsburg, froze and the motorman of a Verona car was unable to proceed along his regular route. He detoured over another route and it was more than a half-hour before those waiting for the car could be informed of the change.

Weather Conditions.

The principal high pressure area is now centered over the central Mississippi valley, and covers most of the country east of the Rocky Mountains, except the East Gulf states, where an active low pressure is centered. The high caused a decided drop in temperature everywhere east of the Mississippi River, below zero weather in Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Minnesota and Wisconsin and freezing temperatures far into the South. Over the Northwest the temperatures are rising due to a low pressure area moving down over Alberta and British Columbia. The East Gulf low pressure area caused heavy rains over South Carolina and Alabama, with thunderstorms. The 24-hour amount at New Orleans was 3.16 inches, Mobile, 2.30, and Montgomery, 2.32. Low temperatures will continue over this section tonight and Thursday, but quite as cold Thursday night and rising temperature Friday.

CHILD KILLER'S FATHER DIES

CAMDEN, N. J., Jan. 29.—(INS.)—George M. Parks, 65-year-old father of Gladys Mary Parks, recently convicted for the murder of two Woodbury, N. J., children, died here during the night.

He was grilled for hours by police as they attempted to find what he knew of his daughter's treatment of the two little children. He attempted to shield his accused daughter and when placed on the witness stand during her trial he became confused and sparred with the prosecutor in an attempt to give as favorable testimony as possible for his daughter. He failed, however, and she was sentenced to 25 years' imprisonment in the New Jersey woman's prison.

Police suspect the aged man's death was self-inflicted due to despondence over his daughter's conviction.

GANG KIDNAPS, BEATS DRY

SEATTLE, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—A federal prohibition agent, D. Dunning, was abducted by a gang of alleged liquor racketeers here early today and was found in the south end of the city an hour and a half later, badly beaten and wandering about in a daze.

Dunning was reported to have had one eye gouged out, but an examination later showed that it was not as badly hurt as was first believed.

FILE DETAINER FOR PRISONER

Federal officers today lodged a detainer at the Western Penitentiary against Arthur McCleary, alias "John Gilbert," 24, who was recently sentenced by the Washington County courts to serve a four to eight year term, following his conviction on a larceny charge.

McCleary was indicted January 7 in Federal Court here on a charge of altering postal money orders. The detainer automatically provides that as soon as McCleary is released from the Penitentiary he will have to face the more recent Federal charge, according to Federal Court attaches.

10 Firemen Injured In $200,000 Blaze

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Three of 10 firemen injured late last night while fighting a four-alarm blaze were reported in a serious condition today. The fire, which started in a paper box factory in the Kensington district of the city, set ablaze every building in the block, causing damage estimated at $200,000. The 10 men were hurt when a fire escape from which they were directing hose lines on the flames broke away from the wall and hurled them to the street.

Wounded Soldier Hasn't Slept In 15 Years

BUDAPEST, Jan. 29.—(INS.)—After a fruitless trip to Berlin seeking a cure for the most baffling case of chronic insomnia known to medical science, Capt. Paul Ker, former Hungarian army officer, was back in Budapest today.

Ker has not slept for 15 years. He spends his nights in cabarets and restaurants to pass away the hours other persons spend in sleep.

Ker was struck on the temple by a Russian bullet in 1915. He fell unconscious and regained his senses some days later. Since then he has not slept a moment, nor has he had the desire for sleep.

He is employed by a state insurance office and is considered a highly efficient worker.

Schoeber Honored For War Debt Work

DESTINN, OPERA STAR, DIES

BERLIN, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—The prima donna, Emmy Destinn, died today at Budweis, Czechoslovakia, of heart disease. She was 51 years old.

Mme. Destinn was one of the most famous figures of European opera of the first quarter of the century. She was born at Prague, Bohemia, February 20, 1878, the daughter of Emanuel Kittel, and began her education as a violinist under Lachner.

From 1892 to 1898 she studied under Maria Loewe-Destinn, whose name she adopted. In 1898 she joined the Royal Opera Company in Berlin.

In 1910 she participated in the then new production of Puccini's "Girl of the Golden West" with the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York, an opera revived only this season by the present Metropolitan management.

She took out her first citizenship papers in the United States shortly before America's entrance into the World War. In 1923 she married a Capt. Haisbach, Czech aviator, who was much younger than herself.

Her voice was a soprano of extraordinary range.

Well Dressed Man Needs But 5-10 Grand a Year

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Lawrence N. Heppner, first vice president of the National Association of Merchant Tailors, figures that between $5,000 and $10,000 is enough to keep the well dressed man well dressed for a year. The association is holding its annual convention here.

Here are the minimum requirements:

One dressy black coat for evening wear, either of the cape or inverness type; at least half a dozen sack suits in the new powder blue, gray-blue and silver-green colors; one or two morning coats; several pairs of striped trousers; two formal overcoats for day use; one heavy winter ulster; one medium weight town coat of semi-rough materia' and one polo coat.

Clothes for spring, Heppner said, will be wide-shouldered, narrow-waisted and with fairly wide trousers.

"Tuxedos are no longer formal," he continued. "The formal dress for 1930 will be the full-dress coat in oxford, very dark blue or black. The pique waistcoat and tie in white will be the thing."

Fred Stone Dances Again, Months After Air Crash

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 29.—Little over 18 months ago Fred Stone lay on a hospital cot in New London with many bones broken and dislocated after the crash of his airplane. Specialists said that Stone never would dance again, and even might die.

Last night Stone danced again.

The flying legs, the twinkling heels, the youthful abandon of his entire performance belied the gray in the 53-year-old star's curly locks. And no one seeing him in the opening performance of "Ripples" could believe that a year and one-half ago he was overjoyed because he found he could wiggle his toes through the hip-high plaster casts that bound both his broken legs.

Stone's best number was a tap dance on crutches, one of the most remarkable exhibitions of his career. Midway of the dance he was joined by Dorothy and Paula, his daughters, also on crutches.

WOMAN BALKS MOB IN SIEGE OF CABMEN

brought the two cabs and their occupants safely to the company's garage at Fifth avenue and Ross street.

The drivers of the two cabs involved first realized they were in trouble when they noted in Brentwood that they were being trailed by machine loads of men. Attempts on the part of the taxis to return to the city were ineffectual. Their road, the drivers said, was blocked by cars at every corner in the borough.

William Klenk Jr., 23, whose father operates a green house on the outskirts of Brentwood, decided to drive his cab into the yard off Willett road. The other driver, Floyd Jones, 24, a brother-in-law of Klenk, followed. The latter resides at the Klenk home.

Taking refuge in the farmhouse of his parents, Klenk and his companions barricaded themselves, while the attackers laid down a barrage of missiles against the frame building.

BRICKS HIT WOMAN

Mrs. Klenk, mother of the taxi driver, realizing the seriousness of the situation grabbed an air-rifle, and rushing to the front porch, defied the men to advance. As she leveled the toy gun at the belligerent men, a shower of brickbats fell about her. She was struck by several.

According to Mrs. Klenk, as the crowd surged over the field in the direction of the house, threats were made that if the two cabs and the drivers were not turned over to them, they would set fire to the house.

"Turn the cabs and the drivers over to us," one of the men shouted, according to Mrs. Klenk, as the mob moved forward.

"This is private property, and I defy you to come any closer," Mrs. Klenk shouted back as she leveled the air gun in the direction of the men. Believing it was a rifle, the men fell back and retreated to Willett road, where they remained until dispursed by detectives and deputies.

BREAK WINDOWS

Mrs. Jones also defied the crowd when she went to the aid of her mother and shouted to them to keep off the property. She used the rifle to frighten the mob.

The eight men besieged were Deputy Sheriffs C. F. Stader, 23, of Munhall; Will Johnston, 46, of 52 Boyd street; Guards Floyd Barton, 36; Joseph W. Mathews, 22; Frank Denough, 34, and R. C. Johnson, 36, all of First avenue and Ross street. The drivers were Klenk and Jones.

Young Klenk and Jones called their home by telephone late last night and informed the family they would not continue driving cabs. However, they failed to return to their home today.

The outbreak developed a half-hour after two girls were arrested in front of the striking cab drivers' "soup kitchen" at 1013 Liberty avenue, for passing Communist literature without a city permit. They were charged with violating a city ordinance. In Morals Court today they were fined $10 each with the alternative of serving 10 days in jail. They were Agnes Sneer, 19, of 119 Federal street, and Pearl Mann, 21, of 805 James street. They gave their occupations as factory workers.

ENCOURAGE STRIKERS

They were passing out mimeographed notices of a meeting of strikers at 119 Federal street at 2 p. m. today. The pamphlets urged the strikers to hold their ground and "stick until the strike is won."

C. E. Warne, of the Civil Liberties Union, issued a statement denouncing Inspector James N. Hoey for holding the two girls without bail and added th "we are taking under advisement bringing suit to curb this stupid and autocratic action."

Scores of cabs were being operated today in the downtown district and an occasional cab was to be seen in the outlying districts.

The striking taxicab drivers' committee has registered a vigorous protest against the use by the Yellow and Green taxicab companies in a newspaper advertisement of a photograph purporting to show the drivers voting on the Davis agreement at a meeting held in Moose Temple.

"This photograph was taken before the drivers had voted. Newspaper photographers were escorted into the meeting before any vote was taken. One of the photographers shouted for the men to hold up their hands. They did so and the flashlight was set off. The men did not vote on the Davis agreement until two and one-half hours after this photograph was taken."

This was the statement today of Charles H. Waddle, vice chairman of the committee.

NATIVES HUNT EIELSON

NOME, Alaska, Jan. 29.—(INS.)—Search for the bodies of Lieut. Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, his mechanic, continued today with natives digging through the deep drifts that surround the wrecked cabin plane ten miles inland from the coast of Siberia.

Capt. T. M. (Pat) Reid, with Pilot Edward Young and two mechanics prepared to take off from the ice-bound schooner, Nanuk, today for the wreckage. They plan to join the search.

Reid, a veteran Arctic flier, after reading the reports of Pilot Joe Crosson asserted that he, too, believes Eielson and Borland were killed in the crash. Crosson and Harold Gillam located the half buried plane Saturday.

The altimeter taken from the shattered plane registered an altitude of 1,000 feet, indicating, according to Reid, that Eielson struck a slight hummock and crashed in the storm when he thought he was at a safe altitude.

BRITTINGHAM'S FUNERAL

The funeral of Frank J. Brittingham, 46, formerly district manager of the Cleveland Crane and Engineering Company in Pittsburgh, will be held from his home, 2118 Beechwood boulevard, at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Burial will be in Homewood Cemetery. The Rev. Dr. William M. Woodfin, of the Third United Presbyterian Church, will conduct the home services.

Mr. Brittingham was born in Michigan City, Ind., May 9, 1884. After his graduation from Purdue University in 1905 he served an apprentice course for two years with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. Later he was transferred to Minneapolis, and returned to Pittsburgh in 1911, with the Cleveland Crane and Engineering Company.

Trinity Court
Mr. Brittingham

He was a member of the Duquesne Club, the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, the Keystone Athletic Association, the Association of Iron and Steel Electrical Engineers, and Crescent Lodge No. 576, F. and A. M.

Honorary pallbearers will be J. E. Artz, Peter Smith, Edward Polwell, D. K. Coyle, Joshua Hunter, Don Ballard, Thomas Rees, J. R. Lewis and William H. Petterson.

Mr. Brittingham leaves his widow, Mrs. Annabelle Collins Brittingham, a son, J. W. Brittingham, and his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Brittingham, of New Orleans.

Aged Woman Dies As Clothes Burn

ROCHESTER, Pa., Jan. 29.—Mrs. Alice Eckles, 73, Beaver, died in the hospital here from burns sustained two hours earlier, when her clothing ignited from a gas stove at the home of Grant Grimm, Beaver, where she had gone to care for Mrs. Grimm, who is ill.

Man, 103, Too Busy Hunting Job to Turn to Home

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—The age of Eli Hoffman, of Peoria, is 103 years. When he begins to get really old, he said, will be time enough to think about the old folks' home. Right now he is too busy looking for a job to worry about his remote future.

Hoffman spent last night at the Oak Park Police Station where he had asked lodging. He apologized, explaining that ordinarily he would be working but that his arm was injured in a corn sheller.

SHOT ALARMS DEPUTIES

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—There was a near panic in the Chamber of Deputies last night when, during an extraordinary session to elect officers for the impending presidential inauguration, a pistol shot was heard from somewhere in the chamber.

The two most excited were two deputies who were surprised in the middle of the floor while embracing each other in a huge Latin hug or "ambrazo."

After considerable excitement and investigation it was found that one of the affectionate deputies had left the safety catch on his automatic pistol, which he had strapped to his belt, open, and that the other, throwing his arms about him in resounding affectionate slaps, had smacked the pistol, causing it to go off.

The shot went into the floor.

Deputy Melchior Ortega was elected president of the joint session of Congress, which will swear in President-elect Ortiz Rubio.

County Tabulates Bids on 4 Bridges

Bids are being tabulated by the county controller on the West End-North Side bridge, the McKees Rocks bridge, two small bridges and the Ohio River and Babcock boulevard. The bids were opened at the commissioners' meeting yesterday. There were about 30 contractors' representatives at the meeting.

ASK NEW TRIAL IN BRIBE CASE

CANTON, O., Jan. 29.—(AP.)—A jury found Albert L. Thayer, New Castle, Pa., architect, guilty of soliciting a $7,500 bribe in connection with construction of the Molly Stark Hospital. Defense attorneys declared a new trial will be sought and, if that is denied, an appeal will be taken.

Thayer faces a sentence of from one to 10 years as the result of his conviction of having changed contract specifications for the hospital so as to bring about a separate contract for floor coverings after the contract of the George F. Melbourne company had included the requirement.

BISHOPS' MEET CALL EXPECTED

ROME, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—The Vatican City correspondents of several Rome newspapers report that Pope Pius is thinking of calling the first Ecumenical Council since 1870 in the relatively near future, which is interpreted as meaning the end of 1930.

Ecclesiastical circles, however, strongly doubt the accuracy of the report because the council requires the presence of bishops from all over the world, and a large number of them have only recently returned to their dioceses after visits to Rome. To avoid interfering with diocesan duties and incurring doubled expense, Pope Pius probably will let much more time elapse before summoning the council.

SPREADS THE NEWS OF THE GREATEST FURNITURE VALUES IN YEARS

A Pause in the HAHN February Furniture Sale to Dispose of the WATER-SPRINKLED SUITES
damaged by the automatic sprinkler system which extinguished the small blaze in our East Liberty store

To Be Sold at Prices That Are Almost Like Giving Them Away!

There is a very broad selection left right now, but, judging from the way the furniture has been selling, one more day should be sufficient to dispose of everything. We hope so, at any rate, as we want to resume our February Furniture Sale. As only our floor samples were marred, we cannot begin to describe the suites in detail. No two of them are alike. We do emphasize that this blaze occured in that part of the store where our finest furniture was on display—suites that averaged $300.00 in price. These living room, bedroom and dining room suites are now being sold at $75.00, $100.00, $125.00. Other pieces, such as Lamps, Chairs, Tables, Smokers, Desks, Day-Beds, Breakfast and Sun-Parlor Suites, and other articles too numerous to mention — can be purchased at half-price and even less than half-price.

Two days . . . between completing inventory and beginning our new store year . . . and we devote them to this Store-Wide Clearance Sale. It's a Month-End Clearance . . . and More! It's a Season-End Sale and More! It's the end of the most successful year this store has ever had. And so if we say we scarcely care what these remnants, odd lots and short lines bring just so they go and leave our stocks clear for the reception of new merchandise, you can readily see what we mean.

It's a Straight Thrift Story

None of it is old merchandise. This store turns its stocks from six to twelve times a year. So this disposal event, like every other held here, consists of small lots left from fast selling lines. Paradoxically, the more we sell the more we have left. True, too, the more we sell the less we care about the price the left-overs bring. We are determined to clear everything that does not belong in our Spring stocks in this two-day event.

You'll Be Glad You Read It

Just now we looked over the list of things that make up this sale. There's a long, long list from many departments and the Clearance prices are amazing. There's just a little short list from other departments but the prices are just as amazing. Clever the woman who comes down here tomorrow to glean the best of the savings where she finds them. Buying the home things she needs in fixing up the house for Spring. Buying this little extra suit that Junior needs and a supply of new underwear for herself . . . saving, saving on every hand.

And Glad If you Decide to Come

All through the store you'll find this Clearance merchandise marked with special red cards. If in the whole year there's one sale that pays dividends to those who come out early in the morning, it's this one. Look at the list of departments, think over your needs and come.

DOPE ENSLAVES EGYPT SINCE WORLD WAR

One in Every 28 Persons Victim in Land Free of Problem 15 Years Ago

By WINIFRED BLACK

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 29.—What would you think if President Hoover issued a statement that one person in every 28 persons in the United States of America was a "dope slave."

That's just exactly what Gen. T. W. Russell, chief of the narcotic police of Egypt announced at the Geneva opium conference yesterday.

Of course Egypt is a long way off and we don't know much about it over here.

A few of us have heard lectures on the Sphinx and the ancient tombs of the ancient cities—but for the most part Egypt means to most of us just something in a romantic song with the Nile in the chorus somewhere.

But just think of it, one person in every 28, a hopeless, hopeless human slave, and before the World War there was no dope problem in Egypt.

The European powers didn't pay the least attention to dope over there—why should they?

MILLIONS IN DOPE

There's money in dope, millions of money in it.

Money for France, money for Great Britain, money for Switzerland, money for Germany, money for Holland, money for India, money for Persia, money for China and money, too, in a smaller degree, for America.

What is human slavery and human degradation and human despair compared to money?

Dope rushed over Egypt like some terrible miasma rising from horrible hidden swamps—and all the nations of Europe looked on and listened to the clinking of gold and silver—and thought about something else.

And Egypt awoke with a start.

And now Egypt has gone to the dope conference at Geneva and Egypt is "telling the world."

France has employed General Russell at a salary of $50,000 a year and France is looking to General Russell to suppress the hideous evil which France—like the other nations of Europe—has smilingly allowed to flourish.

GIVEN FREE ENTRY

Dope went into Egypt as heroin and as dionyl—there is no law against the manufacture or importation of either of these drugs in Europe and there is no law against the manufacture or importation of either of them in the United States today.

How do we know that the same thing that has happened in Egypt will not happen in the United States.

Dionyl is just one of a hundred different drugs that are nothing in the world but opium with the addition of a little acid of some sort, and disguised under another name.

These drugs are flowing into the United States year in and year out, month in and month out, yes day in and day out, too.

Why should the world permit their manufacture at all, they are not needed in legitimate medicine—what need is there for them?

Why should they be allowed to grow and flourish and make fortunes for unscrupulous dealers just because we are too stupid and too pleased with ourselves to wake up and look real conditions actually in the face.

Watch the news from the Geneva narcotic conference—its worth understanding.

PORTER ASKS ACTION

Here in our own country Mr. Porter of Pennsylvania has just introduced two excellent bills into Congress.

One of them is a bill taking the narcotic administration out from under the wing of the prohibition bureau and giving it full and efficient power to do full and efficient work.

The other bill is one which will limit the power of questionable druggists and physicians to prescribe and sell those deadly drugs.

Watch the progress of both of those bills in Congress.

Make up your mind what you want your representative to do about them and write and tell him how you feel.

This dope situation is no thrilling dream, it is no foolish fanaticism, it is here now, this very day.

They laughed at the idea in Egypt fifteen years ago—and now the world is aghast at what has happened there.

How long are we going to sleep here in America?

Missouri Rabbit Travels Far in Freight Car

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Jan. 29.—A lonely rabbit is roaming Westmoreland County among strange kin. When the doors of a car of hay shipped to the United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry Company from Missouri was opened in the mill yard, the bunny hopped out.

It had come all the way from the Mid-West in the freight car.

ELK HILLS OIL CLAIM HEARD

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Testimony was taken here in the government's action to recover rich oil lands in the Elk Hills field, Kern County, from the Standard Oil Company, Edward L. Doheny and others by representatives of the United States Land Office.

The lands involved, some already drilled and partly producing, are understood to be worth millions although government officials declined to estimate their value.

Section 36 of the Elk Hills district became school land in 1903, and later was transferred to the predecessors of the present owners. The government now maintains that the section was "known mineral land" at the time of the 1903 survey, and that the government thus, under federal law, is entitled to all minerals produced on the tract. The defendants assert that the mineral value of the tract was not known until later.

The chief witness was Dr. Kirtley W. Mather, professor of geology at Harvard University.

Defendants are the State of California, Standard Oil Company of California, Pan-American Oil Company, Associated Oil Company, Valley Natural Gas Company, Mr. Doheny, Frank J. Carman, Mrs. Sidney Greeley, Charles O. Fairbanks, and Thomas A. O'Donnell.

Flee Through Snow For Aid During Fire

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 29.—While fire did but $25 damage to the two story frame home of Mrs. Frank Cerutti at Macheesneytown, near here, the woman and her two children, Frank, 3, and Harry, 18 months, fled in their night clothing through the snow to summon help some distance away. Firemen soon putout the blaze.

IDENTIFY BODY, MISSING MAN

YUMA, Ariz., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The body of a man found in an irrigation canal three days ago at Cuervos, Mexico, and buried by Mexican officials, was exhumed and identified as that of W. Paul Loveland, wealthy Pasadena, Cal., contractor.

Sheriff J. C. Hunter, of Yuma County, said identification was made by means of dental work and two pairs of spectacles. Loveland is known to have had with him when he disappeared from a tourist camp near here shortly after Christmas.

Cuervos is 24 miles south of Algadones, Mexico, which is on the international line.

Sheriff Hunter and Chief of Police Henry Levy, of Yuma, who had been engaged in a search for the missing man, went to Cuervos when they learned an unidentified man had been buried there.

Loveland registered at a Yuma automobile camp December 27, after having informed his wife in Pasadena that he would spend some time here fishing. Shortly thereafter he was reported missing, and an investigation revealed that most of his effects, including his wallet and watch, were in the cabin he had rented. His automobile was parked nearby.

Investigators gave consideration to a theory that Loveland fell into the reservoir. The dam backs water for some distance into Mexico and it is believed that his body may have floated across the international line and been diverted into the Mexican irrigation canal in which it was found.

Sheriff Hunter said due to the length of time since death apparently occurred, it had been found impossible to ascertain definitely whether Loveland may have been dead before his body entered the water.

U. S. DEFENDS DOPE KILLING

BALTIMORE, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Extradition proceedings instituted by the Dominion of Canada for the return to its jurisdiction of Sarra Vaccaro, wanted for the murder of Amedee Billodeau, Canadian citizen, in a raid by United States narcotic officers near Cannan, Vt., in May, 1925, continued here with American officers defending Vaccaro, insisting the Canadian was killed on the Vermont side of the international boundry.

Vaccaro took the stand and told of the incidents leading up to the shooting. He admitted that he was not a Federal officer and that he had never taken the oath of such an officer, but that he had been employed by the narcotic service for the last seven years. Canada also accuses Vaccaro of kidnaping Robert Price, of the Province of Quebec, and larceny of a car owned by the slain man's wife.

Vaccaro testified at the extradition hearing, conducted before United States Commissioner J. Frank Supplee, he and Fred G. Mertz, a Federal agent, had gone into Canada and connected Price and Billodeau with a purchase of opium in Montreal which was to be smuggled out of the country to a hotel in West Stewartsville, N. H.

The witness said he and Mertz accompanied the two Canadians back to a hotel on the international boundary line in the Billodeau car and that the shooting occurred when all four were on the Vermont side, and the two Canadians were trying to run back to their country after being placed under arrest. Vaccaro said Mertz shot Billodeau and he took Price in the Billodeau car to a Vermont jail.

GANG CHIEFTAIN FOUND SLAIN

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Charles (Red) Donnelly, said by police to have been the last of the men who ruled the Bill Lovett gang of waterfront racketeers since the slaying of Lovett six years ago, was found shot to death in a shanty on a Brooklyn pier.

Last night police arrested four men and charged them with complicity in the slaying. Detectives said that one of the men, Matthew Martin, 32, was seen near the shack soon after the body was discovered. He denied any knowledge of the crime, as did Cornelius Clifford, 29; James Clifford, his brother, 39, and Henry Shields, 37, the other three arrested.

Donnelly was a boss loader in charge of a gang of stevedores that handle freight on the Brooklyn piers. While he was directing his gang, police said, a youth approached and told him some men were waiting to see him in an automobile near the pier.

"I guess they want to take me for a ride," Donnelly said jokingly as he walked down the pier.

He was not seen again until his body was found by a pier official in the shanty. The body was propped up in a chair. There were two bullet holes in the head.

A group that illustrates the fact there are "treasures" to be found in the January Clearance, if one just takes a little time to look around. Limited in number but wonderful in value.

The Women's Dresses include lovely, sheer ones for afternoon wear, with even or near-even hemlines; some of flat crepe; a very few velvet costumes; and a small group of Evening Gowns . . . Sizes are broken, of course, and in the dresses which have been very high priced there is only one of a kind.

In Misses' Frocks, a limited number . . . Afternoon ones of flat crepe, chiffon or satin, and a small number of Evening Frocks.

Dressy Types of New Frocks

$19.50

This is a new Fashion-Thrift group, which offers the new, feminine type of frock in wide variety.

There are frocks of silk crepes, lace, a few of georgette, with the soft shirrings, the novel sleeves, the beaded necklines and sleeve finishes, and bolero jackets, which define the new trends in fashion.

In black, bright and medium colors. And in a complete range of regular sizes for women and misses.

. . . Horne's, Second Floor . . .

Black Coats In All Sizes

$65

All regular sizes 34 to 44, and small women's sizes 35½ to 45½—imagine that complete size range in specially priced coats, this late in the season!

They are of fashionable, flat-surfaced black fabrics, trimmed with black caracul or skunk. Hundreds of women are buying them because, they say, they are the best-looking coats they've seen at anything near the price.

. . . Horne's, Second Floor . . .

Hand-Made Rayon Nightgowns

$1.65

Dainty but not fragile . . . is the description of these gowns. The fine rayon permits you repeatedly to launder these attractive gowns without marring their prettiness . . . and the embroidered designs add a colorful note to the yokes. Round and V-necklines are in the selection . . . and the colors are Nile green, peach, pink and coral.

. . . Horne's, Second Floor . . .

Beach Tan and Rosita

*The New Shades in Pearls

Of course, they're wearing pearls* this season . . . but so artfully colored they look like rose-petals that have acquired a lovely coat of suntan. Beach Tan is the hue of sunburn just before it becomes tan . . . and Rosita is a slightly rosier shade. Both shades are lovely with the new pastel frocks. They may be selected in necklaces, two-stone rings, long earrings and novel pins.

Pins, 50c and 95c; Rings, 95c; Earrings, 50c and 95c; Necklaces, 95c to $3.50.

VICTORIA TO BAN RUM STORAGE

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 29.—(AP.)—All liquor warehouses in British Columbia will be abolished June 11 under legislation which will be introduced by the provincial government at the present session of the legislature, Premier S. F. Tolmie announced.

The action was decided upon by the provincial cabinet after the federal government had canceled the customs bonds of British Columbia warehouses effective June 11.

The abolition of the export houses together with further amendments to the liquor act which also will be introduced shortly, will go a long way to improve the government's control over the handling of liquor, Premier Tolmie declared.

"We believe that a very large quantity of liquor which could be exported legally has been moved from the warehouses and bootlegged," the premier said. "This system which might be termed the short circuiting of liquor has been one of the chief obstacles to the effective enforcement of our liquor act."

MOTIVE SOUGHT IN SLAYING

BEAVER, Pa., Jan. 29.—Absense of motive for the killing of Earl J. Stanich, alias Outbert Cietovich, found slain in his automobile Sunday near his home in Harmony Township, puzzled county detectives and state police.

Peter Cietovich, stepson of the slain man, and George Karaloovich, a boarder at the Stanich home, are detained in the county jail for questioning. No charges have yet been made against either man, it is said.

Police say the stepson, who lives in Rankin, Pa., was visiting his mother and had a disagreement with Stanich over putting away the car.

Waynesburg Forms New Scout Troop

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Jan. 29.—Re-organization of the Waynesburg Boy Scouts under direction of the Washington County Council has been completed, one troop having already been organized. Twenty youths are in the troop. A second troop will be recruited later. John Dinsmore has been named secretary.

Lumberman Dies, Sick Short Time

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 29.—Walker T. Harshman, 52, assistant manager of the Millsboro Lumber Company of Millsboro, Pa., died at his home in Deemston after an illness of a few days. He leaves his wife and three children, a son, Glenn, being a member of the Waynesburg College football squad.

Rockefeller Gives Firestone Dime For Long Putt

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Harvey S. Firestone and John D. Rockefeller, Sr., played golf together yesterday.

It was the first time Firestone had met the oil magnate. He was introduced by John P. White, of Cleveland, O., a friend of Rockefeller, and was invited to join the game.

On the second green Firestone made a remarkably long putt and received one of the Rockefeller dimes.

CONVICT KILLED AS THREE BOLT

LUMBERTON, N. C., Jan. 29.—(AP.)—One man was killed and another wounded in an attempted prison break by three convicts yesterday at the state prison farm at Rock Hole, Bladen county, about 40 miles from here.

F. A. Faggart of Cabarrus County, serving a five year term, was shot down, it was said, by a guard as he attempted to escape from the prison. William Croker was shot in the arm and recaptured. Robert Booth, the third prisoner, was apprehended, unhurt.

Franklin Prepares To Widen Streets

FRANKLIN, Pa., Jan. 29.—Franklin City Council has decided on immediate expenditure of $13,000 for widening three streets adjacent to the business section. The appropriation is only part of that to be used for street improvements during 1930.

Grand Jury Winds Up Work in Day

FRANKLIN, Pa., Jan. 29.—Setting a record for efficiency, the Venango County grand jury completed its work in one day. It returned nine true bills, one of them for murder, against Floyd Flick, 20, City Negro.

SAVARIN CHIEFS BANQUET HERE

High officials and managers of all units attended the semi-annual meeting and banquet of The Savarins, Inc., in the William Penn Hotel. The company operates restaurants in the Pennsylvania Railroad stations at Pittsburgh and in New York, Jersey City, Philadelphia, North Philadelphia, Baltimore, Harrisburg and Washington.

President L. M. Boomer presided, assisted by E. J. Horwath, general manager. Mr. Boomer also is in charge of Savarins' operations in connection with the construction of the new $52,000,000 Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York. His address covered activities and expansion of the company during the last six months. Reports were made by supervisors and unit managers covering the same period.

Miss Grace Hall, the only woman present, manages the largest unit of the Savarins, located in the heart of the financial district of Wall street.

Following the business meeting at which prizes were awarded for the most efficient management and best suggestion for operations adopted, the annual banquet was served in a private dining room. The members of the party, before leaving, inspected the Pittsburgh unit of the Savarins.

Ask Bids March 4 On New Postoffice

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Jan. 29.—Word was received today that bids for Waynesburg's $100,000 postoffice building will be received at Washington on March 4. It will be a one-story stone structure located at Greene and Morris streets.

Cemetery Ordered Sold to Pay For Paving

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Who wants to buy a cemetery?

The city of Rock Island confidently believes nobody does, but nevertheless at a session of the city council City Attorney Robert R. Reynolds was instructed to take foreclosure steps, which means that Chippiannock cemetery, long a landmark, will be offered for sale.

The action was taken to compel the cemetery association to pay an assessment of $1,000 due for paving.

The only way to collect was to foreclose, Attorney Reynolds said, "but what good is a foreclosure prospect of sale?" he asked.

FLYING CLINIC IN COSTA RICA

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Latest developments in medicine and surgery were brought yesterday to Costa Rican practitioners by flying surgeons of the United States, who offered also a good-will message asking correlation of professional effort and enterprise through the three Americas.

Members of the flying clinic are Dr. William Sharpe, New York; Dr. Fred H. Albee, New York; Dr. George W. Hawley, Bridgeport, Conn.; Dr. Charles H. Gratz, New York, and Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, health commissioner of the city of Chicago. They were accompanied by Dr. Molloy, representative of the Rockefeller Foundation at Merida, Yucatan, who joined them at Managua.

Woman Gives $500 To Greene Co. Church

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Jan. 29.—A bequest of $500 to the Pursley Creek Baptist Church is made in the will of Mrs. Elizabeth Hoge, of near Waynesburg, which was probated here.

BANK ROBBERS SLAY DEPUTY

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Two robbers invaded the Broadway and Twentieth avenue branch of the American Trust Company here yesterday, shot and killed a deputy sheriff and escaped with more than $1,000.

The victim was Joseph Fox, a real estate man and a customer in the bank at the time of the robbery.

Fox, a special deputy sheriff and captain of a machine gun company during the World War, fell mortally wounded after he had whipped out his pistol and opened fire on one of the robbers engaged in rifling the safe. The robbers returned the shots and Fox fell with a bullet through his head and two through his body, but continued firing until his pistol was empty.

Others in the bank fell to the floor and escaped harm as the bullets whizzed over their heads.

The two men dashed to an automobile at the curb and sped away. About four miles distant they were seen by a woman to transfer to a parked blue sedan, where the car used in the holdup was found abandoned.

Police lost trace of the sedan in Castro Valley, in the hills east of Oakland.

Pantages Witness Jury Fails to Agree

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—The jury which heard the second trial of Garland Biffle, Alhambra, Cal., law book salesman, charged with giving perjured testimony in defense of Alexander Pantages, was dismissed last night after failing to reach a verdict in 30 hours of deliberation. The jurors stood 10 to 2 for acquittal.

4 Killed, 4 Escape As Train Hits Auto

EULATON, Ala., Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Three women and a child were killed here last night when an automobile occupied by them was struck by a Southern freight train at a crossing. Four other persons in the car escaped injury. The dead are Mrs. J. W. Cato, Mrs. Ethel Karr, Mrs. Nannie Robinson and Mary Frances Karr, 3. All lived at Eulaton.

Man Faces Charge Of Slaying Victim

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 29.—Charged with first degree murder in a warrant sworn out by Chief of Police Fred L. Frazier, John Smith, 49, a resident of Springdale, W. Va., was remanded to the county jail without bond to await the action of the grand jury.

Smith is charged with the murder of Frank Brown, whose body was found in a ravine near his home last week with a bullet through the temple.

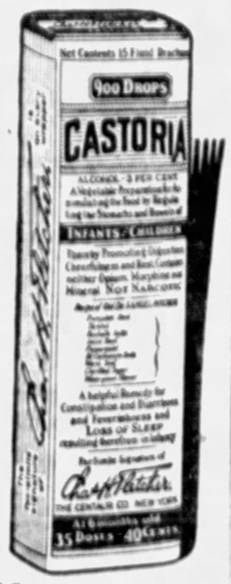
COLIC



A cry in the night may be the first warning that Baby has colic. No cause for alarm if Castoria is handy! This pure vegetable preparation brings quick comfort, and can never do the slightest harm. Always keep a bottle in the house. It is the safe and sensible thing when children are ailing. Whether it's the stomach, or the little bowels; colic or constipation; or diarrhea. When tiny tongues are coated, or the breath is bad. Whenever there's need of gentle regulation. Children love the taste of Castoria, and its mildness makes it suitable for the tiniest infant, and for frequent use.

And a more liberal dose of Castoria is always better for growing children than some needlessly strong medicine meant only for adult use. Genuine Castoria always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Prescribed by doctors!

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Local people, many of whom you know, are highly endorsing Tanlac. For example, Mrs. Ellen White says: "For years I suffered from indigestion. I got no relief from anything until I took Tanlac. After my fourth bottle, I feel like a new person and have a fine appetite."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation, or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you. Accept no substitute.

FINDS KIN AFTER 36 YEARS

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 29—(AP.)—The reunion of an aged father with a daughter whom he has not seen since she was an infant 36 years ago, will be brought about in Richmond in June. The meeting will take place as the result of a notice inserted in a small Maine weekly clipped in California, forwarded to Connecticut, and finally reaching Mrs. J. C. Paulson, of Richmond.

Frank A. Brown, 70, of Sioux Falls, S. D., is the parent who will come here in the Summer to visit the daughter who cannot recall him.

For 15 years Brown had sought to establish communication with two daughters whom a divorced wife took away with her from Minneapolis, Minn., in 1894.

A lawyer he hired recently traced Mrs. Brown's family to Maine, where he inserted advertisements in the press. A branch of the family, formerly residents of Machias, Me., but moved to California, subscribed to the "home town" weekly and saw in it the ad. Relatives in Waterbury, Conn., who knew Mrs. Paulson's residence were communicated with and they in turn advised the Richmond woman.

Mrs. Paulson's sister is dead.

MOSES SCORES FARM BLOC

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—(AP.)—Calling the senate "an Arcadian body ruled by an agricultural bloc," Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire last night predicted that whatever happens to the tariff schedules, "the downtrodden farmers' demands will be heeded."

In a speech at a convention of the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association, Moses made several humorous thrusts at the farm bloc and other colleagues in the senate.

"I hesitate to criticize the farmer," he said, "because no slave ever speaks ill of his master."

The senator expressed the belief, however, that when the tariff bill goes from the senate to conference "all the elements that spread prosperity in the United States will be provided for."

A nation-wide network of pathways to make the world safe for pedestrians who now have to walk on motor highways was proposed by Edward A. Filene, president of William Filene's Sons Company, Boston.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

WHAT HO, HEROIC D'ARTAGNAN MAY JOIN SCREEN'S MELODY PARADE

BY DOROTHY HERZOG

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 29.

NEWS of an exciting production nature meanders to the stately portals of this bureau. I am told that Douglas Fairbanks is not only considering remaking "The Thief of Bagdad" as a music offering, but has engaged a prominent composer to write the score immediately.

"The Thief of Bagdad" was produced years ago by Fairbanks with Julanne Johnstone the princess who joyrided with the miraculous Doug aboard the magic carpet. Both artistically and financially the offering was a success.

Doug Fairbanks

In this talky era, 'tis quite the accepted thing to cull yesterday's and excavate manuscripts that earned their keep in the silent days. Whether Fairbanks can sing or not is a matter of small importance. He'll get by in a canary capacity. Assiduous application to vocalizing and the generosity of the mike would do the trick. What ho, and a bundle of notes. D'Artagnan joins the melody parade.

Quoth David Butler to Walter Catlett apropos of the dinner to be given tonight in honor of William Collier, Sr., dean of the Friars, and his 50 years on the stage.

"Didja hear about that dinner?"

Didn't Queen Klow Bill was hungry," mumbled Catlett.

'Ex-Wife' Comes to Film as 'Divorcee'

When M. G. M. plunked over $25,000 for the screen rights of "Ex-wife," the story was intended for Greta Garbo. Ex-wife was subsequently mulled into matisha low-finger shake and the exploits of the lady restrained to non-censorial range. The screen version was shown to the Will Hays offices. And approved as film fare. But the Hays offices said in point, the title will have to be changed." And has been to "The Divorcee." With Norma Shearer, the name part. Being to this department's gibberish humor, a studio travesty. . . .

Norma Shearer

Dixie Wilson pens about the fem who marched into a furniture store and complained the Louis XIV bed she purchased was too small. Please send her a Louis XV.

In response to an item run in this column a few days ago regarding extras being paid five dollars to listen to John McCormack concert in a scene for his vocalloid, one who signs herself Native Daughter writes:

Yes, yes, and one good looking one in my family got ten dollars for being in evening clothes and would have given five of it back to get out of hearing the same song sung a dozen times that day because it was too tough to properly record.

Not a break, sister. We would have to be paid $10 to see the Prince of Wales do his knitting also. No one gets so bored with so-called celebrities doing their stuff as the extra and that goes for imported European talent too.

Radio Broadcast Hinders Picture

Radio fans may be interested in this. It happened during the filming of "Young Eagles." Buddy Rogers' flick. Director Billy Wellman wanted to reveal an airplane battle. He rented a balloon rigged up a mike 'neath the basket, and had it hoisted some 600 feet in the air. The site for this activity was in the San Fernandez Valley within a mile of the KNX Station. KNX is described as a powerful 5 KW station, whatever that may mean.

To get back to the picture. Wellman was prepared to shoot the scene of airplanes booming, et cetera. Gene Merritt was in charge of registering the sound. No sooner did he clap the soundmuffs to his ears than he heard music playing and a voice, at the conclusion of the number, explain: "Ladies and Gentlemen. You have been listening to, etc., etc."

Investigation of this dumbfounding plight revealed that the cable suspended from the microphone 600 feet in the air was not carrying sound to amplifiers of the recording set on the ground. Instead, the cable served as a radio receiving antenna. The antenna picked up the electro magnetic waves from the KNX Station. So as to record the sound of fighting 'planes, Merritt had to have the balloon lowered from 600 to 100 feet. This decreased the cable and did the trick.

Montague Love tells about an Englishman who a-golfing went. He was ambitious and dressed correctly. The caddy teed the ball. The Englishman nonchalantly reached for a driver. He swung. And missed. He reached for a mid-iron. Swung. And missed. He reached for every conserned stick in his bag. Swung. And missed. He paused, then, to gaze musingly at the satanic golf ball. The caddy said nothing. Finally, the Englishman sighed:

"Look here, what would you use to hit that ball?"

"I'd try the golf bag sir!"

And—that's all.

BERT LYTELL Answers

Bert Lytell, stage and screen star, now appearing in the Nixon in "Brothers," a legitimate drama, today answers more questions that have been asked him by readers of the Sun-Telegraph. The replies follow:

MILTON L. FRANKEL — (1) Laguna Beach and Santa Cruz Island, Cal. (2) Your conception is correct. (3) The audible screen is here to stay. (4) Hollywood is "heaven" to the fortunate. But stay away unless you have enough money to insure you against hardships. (5) John Gilbert. (6) I don't know. (7) Write to the Fox Studio, Hollywood, for information.

ESTHER MAIER—Can't account for it, unless it was sentimental reasons. Norma Shearer is married to Irving Thalberg.

G. R. N.—Last time I heard, Greta Nissen was in a Broadway show with James Rennie. Write to Fox Studios, Hollywood.

GEORGE M. DODD—(1) Marion Davies' latest talkie is "Dulcy." (2) Louis Wolheim and Ronald Colman were the convicts, Ann Harding and Dudley Digges. (3) Warner Baxter, Antonio Moreno, Mary Duncan, Robert Edeson and Mona Maris. (4) Write Greta Garbo, Lewis Stone, Lon Chaney and Anita Page at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios, Culver City, Cal.; Mary Brian and Clive Brook, Paramount-Famous-Lasky Studios Hollywood; Billie Dove and Alice White, First National Studios, Burbank, Cal.; and Lupe Velez, United Artists Studios, Hollywood.

Laughs

Ruth Chatterton, in "The Laughing Lady," in the Penn, laughs about most everything in life, except one thing and that makes the drama.

Shakespeare!

Fritz Leiber will open a week of Shakespeare in the Alvin Monday night, the first presentation being "Richard III."

OTIS SKINNER AND LEIBER COMING

The eight Shakespearian plays to be presented by Fritz Leiber in the Alvin Theater, starting next Monday night with "Richard III," have sets and Elizabethan costumes that are said to be dazzlingly beautiful. Each production, it is pointed out, is a spectacle in semi-balance handling in which color-balance dominates and vitalizes. Yet, with all this, six minutes is the longest intermission required for changing scenes. It is heralded as the speediest Shakespeare, from a mechanical view, in existence.

Otis Skinner returns to Pittsburgh next week and will appear in the Nixon in the title-role of his play, "Papa Juan." Mr. Skinner has played many parts in the 52 years he has been before the public, some 329 roles in all.

Mable Kroman, who has been spending a brief vacation with her sister, Anne Forrest, in the South, returns to the Pitt stage next week in "Jones." Henry Wadsworth, new juvenile, will make his initial appearance with the company in the role of Willie Jones, whose love for an actress forms the basis of the story.

Nick Carter is master of ceremonies at the Winter Garden Roof. He croons melodies and plays the guitar. He is heralded as a "discovery" of Texas Guinan.

Will Be Hostess To Bible Class

The monthly business and social meeting of the Belle Christon class, Bellevue Methodist Episcopal church, will be held tomorrow night at the home of Miss Pearl Kroegher, 823 Florence avenue, Avalon. Associate hostesses will be Mrs. K. C. White, Mrs. C. P. Dils and Mrs. J. G. Thompson.

Long-Lost Mother To Get Estate Of Man, 64

PRINCETON, Ky., Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Word that his mother, from whom he had been separated since infancy, is still living was received here by relatives of R. E. Butler, 64, merchant, who died last week, leaving an estate valued at $100,000, and with no direct heirs and no will.

Butler's father and mother were separated when he was a baby and his father always claimed that she deserted him and the child. Both remarried.

Two half-sisters were thought to be Butler's only heirs until word came that his mother, now Mrs. Frank Hill, is living at the age of 85, at Doctors Inlet, Fla., with a daughter by her second marriage, Mrs. Finley Simpson.

Real Estate

The Pittsburgh Real Estate Board were shown how talking motion pictures are made in an illustrated lecture yesterday by Albert F. Randolph of Electrical Research Products, Inc. The talk followed the noon luncheon at the William Penn Hotel. James W. Cree, Jr., presided.

A brick double duplex dwelling at 3011 Center avenue, a double brick dwelling at 511-15 Landleiss place, and two brick dwellings at 519-21 Landleiss place, Fifth Ward, have been conveyed by Ralph D. Schmertz to Max Zeff.

A brick residence at 125 Stratford avenue, East End, lot 50x100 feet, has been sold by Harry G. Weiner to Martin Silverman.

The Gold Realty Company was the broker in the sale for Jacob Domb to Helen R. Russ of a three-story apartment at 333 Melwood street, Fifth Ward.

A house in Cooper avenue, North Side, has been sold by John L. Crown to Arthur H. Mensing. The lot is 40x206 feet.

A property on the north side of Lemington avenue, Twelfth Ward, lot 25x100 feet, has been sold by W. C. Mathews to A. J. Bradford.

A property in Ophelia street, Oakland, lot 19x75 feet, has been sold by Jacob Krieger to Wolf Gordon.

In Mt. Lebanon, Joseph Jay sold to Tony Cuccarese 43x122 feet in Serpentine drive. The lot is restricted to an individual home.

A property on the north side of Braddock avenue, Swissvale, lot 116x130 feet, has been sold by Rudolph Berg, Jr., to Martin Moran.

A house in Cleveland avenue, Avalon, lot 37x105 feet, has been conveyed by Augusta Shoemaker to Edna Post.

Building permit applications included:

Sixteenth Ward—Jacob Walker, brick dwelling, 518 Ormsby avenue, $8,000.

Twenty-fourth Ward — Peter Paracco, brick dwelling, 953 Yetta street, $6,000.

Twenty-second Ward — Watson Standard Company, alterations, 225 Galveston avenue, $5,000.

Eleventh Ward—C. W. Pearson, brick and tile store, 325 Aiken avenue, $5,000.

Nineteenth Ward—E. J. Williams, brick dwelling and garage, 1656 Dagmar avenue, $5,000.

Injured in Door, Sues for $35,000

Mrs. Carrie M. Van Deusen, widow, of 5634 Hampton street, filed suit against the East End Savings and Trust Company in Common Pleas Court, seeking to recover $35,000 damages for injuries claimed as the result of being hurled through a revolving door. She alleges that, upon leaving the banking quarters, someone violently pushed the revolving door and she was thrown violently to the street, breaking her arm.

Cruelty Is Made Basis in Wife's Suit

Mrs. Jean Carleton, of the Fairfax apartments, filed suit in Common Pleas Court seeking a divorce from James E. Carlton, of 606 Cedar avenue, North Side, on the grounds of cruelty and indignities. They were married January 2, 1923, and separated October 4, 1929.

FALSE ALARM SENDER FINED

Fireman John Larkins' long vigil to catch the person believed responsible for sending in numerous false alarms from the Mt. Washington district was rewarded, last night, he testified in South Side Police Court today.

As Larkins was at his lookout post opposite Box 459, Craighead and Eureka streets, he saw a man pull the box and hasten away, he testified. Larkins apprehended the man. His hands were daubed with indelible ink with which alarm box handles had been painted in an effort to identify the offender.

The suspect, James Connelly, 28, a milk wagon driver of 455 Kathleen street, admitted he had sounded last night's alarm but denied sending in 16 others from the district. He was fined $25 with the alternative of serving 30 days in the workhouse by Magistrate John J. Sweeney.

HEARING FRIDAY ON FILM SAFETY

Prompted by the recent X-ray film fire disaster in a Cleveland hospital, Pennsylvania authorities will meet here to consider tentative rules and regulations for the safe storage of X-ray negatives.

The Industrial Board of the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry will meet in the offices of the department in the Fulton Building to hold a public hearing on the subject at 10 o'clock Friday morning.

The proposed regulations to safeguard storers of X-ray films are, officials say, the result of exhaustive inquiry. Copies of the proposed rules, ready for inspection, will be applicable to all establishments outside of Pittsburgh, Scranton and Philadelphia, which have their own rules. Officials of the board have asked all persons affected by these rules to be at the hearing.

BRIDGE REPAIR WORK GIVEN

In a joint meeting commissioners of Allegheny and Westmoreland counties have awarded a contract for repairs to the bridge spanning the Youghiogheny River at Buterville.

The contract was awarded to the Parris Engineering Company, the low bidder at $26,607.

Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong was made chairman of the joint meeting. Commissioners E. L. Hibbs, James F. Torrance and John T. Kilgore, Controller Garfield A. McDowell and County Engineer W. A. Wynn, of Westmoreland County, attended the meeting with the local officials.

Woman Vanishes On Pittsburgh Visit

Police today were conducting an investigation in the disappearance of Mrs. William Nebel, 55, a relative of a North Braddock policeman, of 1521 Grant avenue, North Braddock, who left her home yesterday morning for Pittsburgh and had not returned today. When last seen by members of her family she was wearing a brown hat, checkered brown coat, black shoes and stockings. Mrs. Nebel had gray hair, blue eyes, weighed 165 pounds and was 5 feet 3 inches in height.

Cited in Insurance Plot, Brothers Freed

Dominick Consentino and his brother, Samuel, of Imperial street, charged with surety of the peace, were discharged when arraigned late yesterday before Alderman Thomas Flanigan. It was charged by a sister-in-law that they insured her for $4,500 and then threatened to kill her. Action against the brothers came after the woman complained to city detectives of the alleged plot against her.

Former Pittsburgh School Teacher Dies

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 29.—Miss Lavinia Mae Swartz, 36, daughter of Squire and Mrs. H. L. Swartz, of Centerville Borough, and former teacher in Pittsburgh and Washington County, died following a lingering illness. She was graduated from California State Teachers' College in 1917.

Von Stroheim Cast In Role of Kaiser

BERLIN, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Erich von Stroheim is to play the role of the Kaiser in a film depicting the rise and fall of the empire under Wilhelm II.

Veteran Blacksmith Drops Dead At 68

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 29.—L. E. Smith, 68, retired Brownsville blacksmith and a lifelong resident of Fayette County, died suddenly at his home here yesterday. Had he lived until February 12, he and his wife, Mrs. Jennie M. Core Smith, would have celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. He was 68 years of age last Thursday.

He leaves his wife and four children, Mrs. W. W. Hughes, of Amity, Pa.; Mrs. Frank Headlee, of McKeesport, and E. Ray and J. Clark Smith, of South Brownsville.

Jury Awards $1 In $100,000 Balm Suit

ROMNEY, W. Va., Jan. 29.—Lee Sions, of Cold Stream, was awarded $1 damages in his $10,000 alienation of affections suit in Circuit Court here against David Hawkins, 74, a neighbor. Mrs. Sions is 24. The trial took four days before the jury reached agreement. Mr. and Mrs. Sions are reunited.

Pair in Shooting Claims Accident

FRANKLIN, Pa., Jan. 29.—The shooting in which Isabelle McKean, 17, was wounded in the hand, and Howard Reisinger, 19, was shot in the chest, remains unexplained. Both say the shooting was accidental. Miss McKean was discharged from the hospital, but Reisinger is still a patient, the bullet not yet removed from his body.

Tax-Paying Hours Extended by City

City taxes may be paid after regular office hours up until 9 p. m., today, tomorrow and Friday, according to announcement by City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley.

Delay in completing tax statements postponed the beginning of collections until January 7 from January 2, thereby denying taxpayers the usual time in which to take the discount allowed during the first month, Schooley said.

Breaks His Arm In Hurrying to Safety Rally

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 29.—Charles Brabitz of Hopwood, assistant mine foreman of the Trotter plant of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, had his right arm fractured when he slipped on an icy street while hurrying to a safety rally in the First Methodist Episcopal Church here.

Kin of Rochester Pioneer Is Dead

ROCHESTER, Pa., Jan. 29.—Mrs. Annie Reno Leroy, for many years engaged in the furniture and undertaking business here, died yesterday at her home in Santa Monica, Cal. She was a descendant of the Rev. Francis Reno, who built a log cabin here and established the first place of worship in this section.

She was prominent in the Daughters of the American Revolution and the American Colonists.

Stunning Frock of Tweed

Pattern 1835

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

Always a favorite with smart women, the sports frock of tweed or jersey is the outstanding fashion note again this season. The model shown today has slender lines that point to chic in bodice and skirt. Skirt pleats afford freedom and grace.

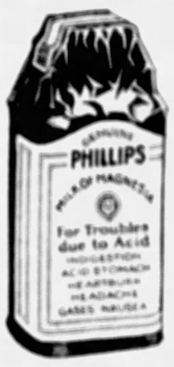
Woolen frocks are charming trimmed with collar and cuffs of linen or pique. Mixtures of red, black and white; brown, green and tan; blue, gray and white; are smart now and especially chic in spring when top coats are discarded.

May be obtained only in sizes 18, 20, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 18 requires 2⅞ yards of 54-inch fabric and ⅛ yard trimming.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model. The pattern has ample and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

The NEW WINTER FASHION BOOK is FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.



When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been overstimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians for 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali to water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any druggists.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade-Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

Just a drop of VAPEX and your cold vanishes

ITS DELIGHTFUL VAPOR KILLS THE GERMS OF COMMON COLDS

Relief for head colds is swift and pleasant with Vapex, because Vapex is very concentrated. Just a drop on your handkerchief in the morning gives off a freshening vapor that keeps its strength throughout the whole day. Breathe it any time—any place—and your cold is relieved instantly. Breathe Vapex often and you breathe your cold away. . . . At night, put a drop at each end of your pillow. Vapex lets you sleep, if your cold is keeping you awake, and fights the infection while you rest. . . . Recently one of the foremost laboratories in the country strikingly proved the efficacy of Vapex. Sterile silk threads were saturated with the germs of common colds and immersed in Vapex vapor. In ten minutes the vapor killed them. . . . Vapex has a delightful odor—crisp and fresh. And it is very economical. One application costs only 2c. The $1 bottle contains fifty applications. . . . Ask any druggist for V-A-P-E-X in the trim white box with the green triangle and insist on getting the genuine product. Don't expect the same results with cheaper imitations. . . . Distributed by E. Fougera & Co., Inc., New York.

Winnie Lightner to Sing On Radio Tonight

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

WINNIE LIGHTNER of the movies will do three popular numbers on the Kolster Hour tonight at 10 o'clock through WJAS.

The usual quick change will be effected in Columbia studios to accommodate the Fast Freight at 8 o'clock, after which the railroad ties will become spars for a shipwreck by the Trawlers at 8:30. Both WJAS features.

Winnie Lightner

KDKA will contribute the Barn Warmers again at 6:30, the usual Westinghouse Salute at 7:30 dedicated this time to the Merchant Marine — and The Cuckoo of KUKU at 9:30.

A hit which made them even more popular than "The Girl Friend" will be sung by the Revelers for the Palmolive Hour, WCAE at 9:30. It is "My Blue Heaven."

We Now Present

AND NO BOLONEY!

Irked at our manner of spelling bologna in the song "So I Ate the Boloney," a fan burned our ears yesterday over the telephone. Jim Hughes came to the rescue with an antiquated copy of the song with bologna spelled "Boloney." When Jim was with Eddie Leonard he often sang the song and did it once again last night on the Haller program.

Harry G. Harrington, Floreffe, Pa.—WMAQ is the key station for Amos and Andy but when they are on the road they broadcast over the nearest Blue Network station. They broadcast twice a night, at 7 and 11:30, Eastern Standard time.

H. G. Smith, president of the National Council of American shipbuilders, will present a five-minute address filled with vital facts concerning seafaring activities. This program pays tribute to the courage, skill and ability of those who transport our goods overseas and to the naval architects, marine engineers, shipbuilders and far-seeing executives whose firm fingers guide our water-borne commerce.

Music with the stirring feel of the ocean, the roll of the surf and the crashing of great waves, will prove a background for this tribute to the men who have gone down to the sea in ships.

Stomach and Liver Sufferers!

"Enjoy Better Health!" Says Washington Doctor Who Advises Flaxolyn

Dr. Oscar E. Lee of Olympia, Washington

Declares That Vitaminized Flaxolyn Discovery Relieves Constipation Condition Naturally; Brings Sound, Restful Sleep by Perfecting Digestion.

"Dear Dr. Luntz," writes Dr. Oscar E. Lee, head of the Sanitarium Baths of Olympia, Wash., "I want you to know how much both Mrs. Lee and myself think of Flaxolyn, and how happy we are to learn that you have perfected your formula in a pleasant liquid and vitaminized form.

"You will recall that both Mrs. Lee and myself used Flaxolyn personally with such wonderful results that we felt it our duty to interest as many people of the Northwest in Flaxolyn, as it was humanly possible for us to do. As a result we have distributed thousands of packages of Flaxolyn and feel overjoyed with the good it has wrought."

"The new vitaminized Flaxolyn is a blessing in disguise. It is so easy to take; so quick to act; so splendid in its results. I sincerely hope that before long every person who needs greater strength, greater energy, keener appetite and sounder sleep, will realize that Flaxolyn is the means to that end."

Let Karl Duane of McKeesport Tell How Flaxolyn Gave Him New Strength and Energy

How His Awful Gassy Condition Cleared Up Like Magic; How That Dizziness Vanished; How Heartburn and Headaches Disappeared Under the Healthful Influence of Flaxolyn.

"What a wonderful thing it is to have your health restored to you when you have given up all hope of ever finding relief," declared Mr. Karl Duane, of East McKeesport, Pa., to a special reporter who was sent to interview him.

"For some time," continued Mr. Duane, "I suffered from a very bad gas condition caused by chronic constipation. I would bloat very badly and the gas pains would seem to cause my heart to beat so fast, at times I could hardly breathe.

"Occasionally there was a ringing in my ears, and some times I would get dizzy headaches. After a while I felt worse and I was disturbed several times during the night. It seemed there was to be no relief.

"A friend who had taken treatments at Battle Creek and had used Flaxolyn with very good results, asked me to try it. More to satisfy him than in the hope of finding relief, I did so. I have used three bottles and feel like a new person. The gas and bloating are things of the past. My bowels are regular and I sleep all night, once again, I eat well and enjoy my food.

Mr. Karl Duane, of McKeesport, Who Says:—

"To my many friends who have remarked on my improvement, I give full credit to Flaxolyn. This is the first time I have ever allowed my name to be used in this manner, but in view of the help received from Flaxolyn, I think it only fair to do so."

Skin Aglow With Health Since Dr. Esther Wallin Used Herbal Flaxolyn

Proves the Great Merits of Dr. Luntz's Formula, and Shows How Her Own Stubborn Case of Skin Blemishes Disappeared When Flaxolyn Drove Out the Constipation Poisons in Her Body

If you have been reading any of the previous news concerning vitaminized Flaxolyn in this paper, you have probably noticed how many doctors say they tried Flaxolyn themselves before prescribing it for their patients. Was there ever a more wonderful recommendation of a health product than this?

Here is another example: Dr. Esther C. Wallin, of 223 Commonwealth Building, Cleveland, who writes: "I thought you would be interested to hear of the splendid results I have had from Flaxolyn. I had a very stubborn case of Acne, which I felt was due to chronic constipation, and thanks to Flaxolyn, my complexion is just fine and I can heartily recommend your formula."

Dr. Esther C. Wallin, Who Tells How Flaxolyn Brings Smooth Complexion

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

It is absolutely guaranteed in writing that Flaxolyn will help cases of general exhaustion, biliousness, sleeplessness, headaches, backaches, dizzy spells due to constipation gases—or druggists refund the purchase price.

Every reader of this paper who would like to feel better, eat better, sleep better and look better, can obtain a bottle of the wonderful new vitaminized herbal Flaxolyn on this liberal offer: If Flaxolyn does not bring satisfactory results by the sixth spoonful, you may bring back the partly used bottle and have the purchase price refunded!

Flaxolyn contains nothing that can hurt you, and it may prove to be the means of bringing joy to your existence.

Don't wait. Start taking Flaxolyn. The pure harmless ingredients are printed right on the package. You will feel the tonic change at once. You will enjoy renewed vigor, a new and better grip on life.

Clip this out NOW as a reminder to get a large, economical bottle of Dr. Luntz's new Vitaminized Flaxolyn at our engineers to establish a new standard of radio value . . . and they answered with . . .

"I CHALLENGED

THE New SPARTON

Model 589"

W. D. Parks
President—General Manager
The Sparks-Withington Company

A YEAR ago, I told them that the richness of Sparton reception must be brought within the limitations of every income. I told them that they were men with a mission, and that that mission was to place the cultural influence of true music in new millions of homes. I placed at their disposal every resource of radio, electrical and mechanical science. And I gave them time.

From this group of men . . . some of them my trusted associates of thirty years . . . has come what I regard as Sparton's greatest accomplishment . . . our new Model 589 at the lowest price ever asked for any Sparton Radio Console.

Every fine quality that has made Sparton the outstanding favorite in homes where there can be no compromise with quality, is embodied in this new instrument. New features bring about noteworthy improvement even in Sparton reception.

The new Model 589 reaches out to amazing distances with practically no aerial. Extreme selectivity makes this distance-getting power fully usable. Its ability to reach through local stations and capture others has been a source of wonder even to engineers. And with all this remarkable improvement in performance, Radio's Richest Voice retains its captivating purity.

So now Sparton offers . . . not a low priced radio set . . . but a true Sparton, worthy of the name, at a price all can afford. To you who know our past, nothing of greater significance can be said. We urge you to hear the new Sparton at once.

This is Sparton's 30th Anniversary Year

SKINNY WOMAN WAS ASHAMED

Says World's Tonic Proved Just What She Needed.

"Last fall I got so skinny I was ashamed of myself. No matter what I did it seemed I could find no food that did me any good. I kept on losing weight until everyone around me was alarmed at my appearance," said Mrs. Minnie Frye, of Barr Slope, Pa., to the World's Tonic man at her home. "I had all kinds of trouble with my stomach. After eating it felt like I had swallowed a lump of lead, and I belched and belched. I had severe pains on the top of my head, so that sometimes I had a feeling like something hot was laid on the top of my head, and if I sat down for a little while my legs went to sleep, so that I had to be careful when I got up that I did not fall over. I was so nervous that when the children made a sudden noise about the house I would clap my hands over my ears and scream.

"Of course I could not sleep well, and I became so wretched that it was the hardest kind of work for me to get the meals for my family. I got irritable and cross, until my two children were actually afraid of their mother. Nothing I took for these troubles seemed to do me any good. Nearly every night I used some strong physic, but I had to take bigger and bigger doses until I was afraid to take enough to do me any good.

"I read of the case of a woman in Ohio who had been relieved of trouble like mine by taking World's Tonic, and like most sick people I was willing to try anything once. The third night after I had begun taking World's Tonic I slept better than I had in months. Inside of a week my bowels were working as they should. In two weeks my belching had all stopped. In another two weeks I began to gain weight. I have no pain; I am getting more flesh; and I have a lot of real energy to do my work. If anybody had told me I could improve so rapidly I would not have believed it. But World's Tonic proved to be just what I needed, and several of my friends who have used it on my recommendation are just as enthusiastic about it as I am." FACTORY HEADS ORGANIZE

Believing the basic problems of vital interest to manufacturers of the Pittsburgh district may be better understood and more intelligently solved if they are discussed on a common meeting ground, the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce yesterday started a movement toward the formation of an organization of executives of local manufactories.

Although such organizations exist under various names in many communities in the United States, this district, with nearly 3,000 industries, has no medium whereby executives of concernns may meet on a common basis, it was brought out.

The committee which approved the plan consists of B. J. Cassidy, of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, chairman; R. L. Wilson, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company; P. C. Dunlevy, Miller Printing Company; George N. Glass, Keystone Lumber Company; E. P. Goetz, H. J. Heinz Company; O. Hommel, O. Hommel Company; W. T. Mossman, Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation; C. J. Ramsburg, Koppers Company; J. D. Tscopik, Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company; J. M. Yahres, Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Company; H. L. Donaldson, Philadelphia Company, and A. S. Keller, secretary of the committee.

Coraopolis Church Will Present Play

"In Hot Tomale Land," a two-act comedy, will be given by the Players' Club of St. Joseph's Church, Coraopolis, in the church hall, Monday and Tuesday nights, February 10 and 11. Proceeds will be given to the building fund of the parish.

The play will be under the direction of John B. Larkin, while the dancing will be supervised by Miss Catherine Kelly. Francis P. Naughton will be in charge of the music.

2 Contestants Quit In Music Marathon

The piano endurance contest at Milton D. Crandall's "Pet Show" held at Motor Square Garden, is minus the two banjo accompanists who dropped out at 6:30 this morning, after continuous playing since 8:45 Monday night. They are Alex Wise and Robert Hassner. The five pianists, including Miss Dorothy Sprague, the lone woman entry, are still going strong, show officials reported.

DAILY TRUE STORY

'From Auntie'

Modern Girl Turns Down Wealthy Suitor for Poor Man

"BUT MOLLY, Chad is just a young real estate agent," said Mrs. Fendon.

"Father was just a young real estate agent when your married him, mother."

"He had twenty-five thousand—and that was as good as twice as much now—what has Chad Swain got?"

"A house and two thousand."

"How long would that last if he got sick? Now, Bert Morrison is crazy about you—and he owns half of all those Morrison chain stores. Look at the home his father left him, and his cars and the big villa at the lake—"

"The villa looks like a mausoleum and Bert looks like he was half ready for one right now."

Molly's mother sighed.

"He works indoors and is a little pale but he is refined and wealthy, and it is a duty for every girl to make the best match possible."

Molly kissed her mother.

"At last we agree. Chad Swain is the best match possible for me."

"Nonsense!"

"I'm in love with him and—"

"In love! You are positively provincial. It isn't being done—it isn't smart—"

"I know a pretty mamma who told her daughter once that she married for love," cooed Molly.

Mrs. Fendon gave up for the time.

"I'll do all I can for you—I'll deposit enough so that you will have a little income for pin-money. You'll find that living on five thousand a year will be terrible," said Mrs. Fendon, thereby proving that she was a real mother despite her efforts to plan a brilliant match.

Ambitious Mother

So Mrs. Fendon greeted Chad Swain kindly enough that night when he called, told him what he already knew—that he had won the best girl in the world—and then started to plan for the wedding.

"That's up to Molly," said Chad.

The engagement had not been announced.

Bert Morrison called to make another of his many eloquent pleas that Molly change her mind. Molly wasn't home. Mrs. Fendon talked with him and finally said, "Bert, I can't do a thing with Molly—she thinks she wants to marry Chad Swain."

"But what has he got?" asked Bert.

Mrs. Fendon knew right down deep in her heart that Chad had "It," and that Bert lacked pep and personality.

"Mrs. Fenton, think what I could do for Molly," said Morrison, impressively. He leaned forward and added: "I will settle any amount on her on our wedding day." Then he named an amount that made Mrs. Fendon gasp.

Molly returned at this time.

Bert Morrison had no more than started his impassioned plea when Molly held up her hand.

He got red in the face.

"Goodness," he said, which was pretty strong language for him, "but that's a rather stingy little stone. Just think of the one I would give you—big as that—"

He indicated with crooked finger something the size of a walnut.

Molly's face grew very red.

"I wasn't thinking of the size of the diamond, Bert," she said, acidly. "I was thinking of the man who gives it. I had rather have a piece of cut glass from a real man like Chad Swain than a diamond as big as that piano from you!"

Morrison looked at her a moment and then got up.

"I guess," he said, "I had better be going."

"Clever of you—and Bert, be reasonable, when a girl is really in love don't try to buy her love—good girls aren't like that."

So Morrison departed and her mother came in then.

"I know," she said, between chuckles, "where I can get a diamond as big as this piano."

Molly Laughs

"I know," said her mother, "I overhead. Bert isn't diplomatic, but he meant all right—he's crazy about you. He will settle half a million on you—"

"Not for sale."

Mrs. Fendon went to Molly and kissed her.

"That sounds terrible. I didn't mean it that way. Try and be patient and happy with Chad," she said.

And so, as someone once wrote, they were married.

Chad's house was one he and Molly had planned more than a year before. They had been secretly engaged that long, just before Molly was out of Wellesley. It was as pretty a little modern home as one could wish.

After a honeymoon up at Mr. Redmond's lodge—Mr. Redmond was Chad's boss—they came back and settled down.

A belated wedding present had arrived.

It came from Salem, Mass., as they could see from the labels.

"I'll bet it's from auntie," said Chad.

"Have you an aunt in Salem?" Molly's mother asked him. She had run over to oversee getting the house ready when they got back.

"An Aunt Cynthia—sweet old lady—haven't seen her for years—lives in a little old white cottage there all by herself."

The box was marked "Fragile" so Chad worked carefully on it. He lifted out a sort of pillow.

Three more small pillows came out like the first and then Chad said with ever the slightest tone of disappointment: "It's a vase."

"Oh," said Mrs. Fendon.

"Vases are always handy," Molly declared.

Vase Put Away

Chad lifted out an odd-shaped thing in yellows and blacks.

"I—well—I must tell the truth—it's hideous," said Mrs. Fendon.

"We won't quarrel there," Chad agreed. "Poor auntie was always nutty about such junk, but she meant well—I'll bet that is something she had had for years and admired and she couldn't afford to buy anything so she sent that—to part with something one loves means a great deal if you look at it that way."

"We—we can put it away—and I'll write her a nice letter of thanks," said Molly.

The vase was tucked away on the wide top shelf of a closet.

Chad went out with the box. Molly was planning to put the four swansdown packing pads into one cushion.

And so Mr. and Mrs. Chad Swain settled down, another married couple starting out to find prosperity and happiness.

Chad's boss had been generous, he gave Chad a nice sporty little car for a wedding present.

One day they had mother-in-law in the rumble seat for a ride, and going up Prospect Hill along came Bert Morrison in a car that seemed four times as long as Chad's.

It was an Italian car. The chauffeur was in smart livery.

Bert Morrison leaned back in all his solitary glory as the car spurted up the steep hill. He bowed and made a grand gesture with one yellow gloved hand, as though he were unbending terribly to recognize them.

"Ha-ha," shrilled Mrs. Fendon, "you could put this car right inside of the trunk on Bert's car, almost."

Molly saw Chad getting red. She admired him for keeping quiet.

She had a secret talk with her mother after this.

At the end of two years Molly was more certain than ever that she had married the right man.

To Sell Property

It was true that Chad was getting only seven thousand then, but they were saving the time would come when Chad could buy into this or some other company.

And then there was little Molly, aged six months.

Mrs. Fendon laughed and cried—laughed because she loved that baby, and cried because its advent made her a grandmother.

Chad was made general manager of the big concern at this time. They had several paying developments going. He was getting ten thousand in his third year of married life.

"If we could save half of it, I'd be able to buy into the firm in a few years," Chad said.

For a year and a half they did save half of it.

And then Mr. Redmond suddenly died.

"Now what?" asked Molly, somewhat frightened.

"I'll carry on until the estate is settled," he told her.

But while he did do this in a way, Mrs. Redmond had brought on her wealthy brother to oversee things.

Mr. Willoughby, the brother, apologized. He said he didn't know anything about real estate or care about it, but he had to do as his sister said to please her.

Finally word came that the widow did not propose to carry on the business and was going to sell it.

Chad went to her. He could dig up ten thousand cash and make big payments on the remainder.

"But it is worth more than a hundred thousand right now," she said, "and I want to go to the Riviera and build a villa—I'll have to have cash."

Chad said he would see what he could do.

Then Mrs. Fendon came over with great excitement. She had heard that Bert Morrison was going to buy the Redmond Real Estate Company, outright.

"That will make him your boss, Chad, and he won't keep you because you took Molly away from him," she said.

"He never had Molly, so I couldn't have taken her away from him, and if he buys it I'll pop him—sic in the jaw and go find a new job," Chad said.

"If you don't, I will," Molly agreed.

Morrison went over to the main office to talk about it to Mr. Willoughby. Mr. Willoughby listened and told him that he would consult with his sister and let him know. Then he drove over to Chad's pretty little home and told him. He had become quite fond of Chad.

Auntie's Gift

The first goldenrod was out and Molly had wheeled baby down a crossroad and picked quantities of it. At home she had locked for a tall vase and remembered that queer thing Chad's aunt had sent. She got it down. Really, the goldenrod looked beautiful in that ugly old yellow and black vase.

Mr. Willoughby called and was admitted.

"I came over to tell you—my god!"

He ran across the room and stared at the ugly vase. He lifted it up and looked under it—he felt it all over. He went out on the veranda, removed the goldenrod, emptied out the water and took the vase in his lap.

"I knew it—it's a Wan-li beaker, about the year 1580. Where did you get it?" he asked.

Chad told him.

"Will you sell it—you've got to sell it—a museum would pay you around sixty thousand for it—I'll pay more—I'll write a check right now," he cried.

Molly nudged Chad and nodded.

"Sold on one consideration," said Chad, "and that is that you see that I get the real estate company. I'll give you the vase at your price, add ten thousand cash and owe you thirty thousand!"

Chad has a car like Morrison's now, and a big house. He is very prosperous. Even Mrs. Fendon admits that it was a rather nice present from aunty.

THE LADY DEMANDS

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

"FAIN would I climb—but that I fear to fall!"

Once a girl took him wilfully and gently blind. Now she questions his divinity, his promises. "Fain would she" know the rapture of the dizzy foot-hold at the heights of love, where brilliant flowers grow in sun and ice, but she's seen others come down, boom into the valley below, all because Love's a promiser, and doesn't always keep his pledges. Now she threatens him—the god of love himself. "If you don't give me this or that, and never take it away, I'll stay a bachelor-lady!" Living without you is a mighty pain, like the sad inside of an empty circus-tent when the crowd is gone, but it isn't as bad as the pain of a panic inside the circus-tent, which is what living unhappily with you would be!"

Gloriette, in slinky satin or tweed, casts the same desirous eye upon Love that Araminta in muslin and tarlatan and pantalettes did some centuries ago, but she asks to know him better before she throws her bags out of the window, skins down the ladder and goes off with him in the moonlight—dear Araminta was more "ingenue" with Love. La Femme moderne wants her swim in the sea of marriage, also, out to the dream islands that hold three things—a man, a house which has another name, called home, and a child that laughs and makes life sweeter. But in her ear Doubt whispers. We have no way of knowing if Araminta was troubled, too—this way. But I don't believe she was. I think she had more faith in Love.

AE—HF—seems the same. Love dazzled then as now. Promised—and broke faith. Promised, like Adonis' garden which bloomed one day and bore fruit the next, and kept his promise. Dealt out pain and bliss with the same hand. Came and—went. Was himself in fact, the same fellow that gives Gloriette, and you and me unrest.

It is the girl who's changed.

—NELL BRINKLEY.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Sweet, Sweet Home! With a Dash of Tobasco

LOVE is such a simple thing, yet it is almost as hard to find in this artificial modern life as a plain, uncamouflaged boiled potato in a smart hotel.

There are only two vital causes for the failure of any marriage. One is the husband—the other is the wife.

Why do so many girls make the mistake of trying to run a man down, when it is so much easier and simpler just to trip him up?

For discouraging the unwelcome kisses of a self-elected Lothario nothing has ever yet been found quite so effective as a well-placed YAWN.

Mother's cooking is always identified in a man's mind with a hearty young appetite; and doubtless, the young husbands of the next generation will go right on bragging of the wonders that dear old Mother could perform with a can-opener and a bottle of mayonnaise.

Many a girl marries a man because he is a "tower of strength"—only to discover that he is a leaning tower.

Two thoughts cannot occupy the same man's mind at the same time—unless they happen to be a blonde and a brunette.

them marry for "moral support."

Funny how full the world is, these days, of "separated" women who are in a state of suspended divorce—neither wife, widow nor free lance. Apparently with marriage, as with an ankle, a sprain is more painful than a break.

Household Hints

A little lemon juice in a glass of water makes an excellent tooth wash.

Mildew can be removed by soaking the affected garments in buttermilk.

If fat becomes burned while frying, drop a few pieces of raw potato into it and leave for a minute or so after which all traces of burning will have disappeared.

When a fur is wet, it should never be dried by the heat of a fire, as it causes the skin to become brittle. The moisture should be wiped off and the fur shaken well and hung up to dry in an airy room.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

The Bride's Day

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My aunt is going to be married in the near future, and as maid of honor she is asking one of her friends. As best man the groom is asking one of his brothers. This brother has asked my aunt not to have anyone too young for him as a partner. He is about 25 years of age.

I am the oldest niece and I am 17—almost 18. My aunt is not asking me to be maid of honor—she thinks I am too young.

A says that age has nothing to do with it, and if she has a niece that age she ought to have her as her maid of honor, and be proud she has one so near to her to be her maid of honor.

B says if she thinks more of her friend than her niece, she should ask her friend.

Whis is right?

E. L. S.

THE bride is right—the bride is always right in her judgments or in her choices. At least that is what we must all take for granted. For the wedding day is the Bride's Day, and all of us, relatives, friends, acquaintances, must bow to her will. If she thinks that it is best to invite her friend to be her maid of honor, then you, dear girl, must accept this judgment.

A Card, Too Perfunctory

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have received a card from a first cousin who lives in another town, announcing the birth of a son. I have not seen my cousin for about 13 years and I have never met his wife. What would be the proper way to acknowledge the card? Must I send a gift, or will a card of congratulations do? It is their first born.

T. K.

QUITE adequate, since it is so long since you have seen your cousin, would be a note of congratulations and kind thoughts, and some newsy sentences. A card will not do—it seems too crowded, too perfunctory, too much like "anything will do." You may send a gift, but this isn't a "must." Not in this case.

LOVEJOY :: By BEATRICE BURTON

going out by way of the back door.

At two minutes after seven Lovejoy was telephoning Steve Ogleby.

"Steve, if you're not doing anything special tonight I'd like to see you," she told him. "I'll meet you in front of Aunt Em's place any time you say. How about 8 o'clock?"

He said that eight o'clock would be all right, and Lovejoy rang off.

She was tense with excitement as she dressed. . . . She could hardly believe that she was doing this. Getting dressed to go out and meet Stephen Ogleby. Getting dressed to keep a tryst. Cheating.

I'm a bad wife, she told her starry-eyed, smiling reflection in the mirror.

She didn't care whether she was a bad wife or not that night. . . . All she cared about was getting out of the house, just then.

I'm not going to be left alone on Saturday nights when everybody else is having a good time somewhere, she thought, backing Tom's car out of the driveway. I'll have plenty of time to sit alone and twiddle my thumbs when I'm "old and cold and gray."

And if Tom Nicholson thought that he could leave her at home and go out to enjoy himself—well, he had another couple of thinks coming! That was all.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge and Harry Are Spied Upon by Hotel Guest

I WASTED no time in questioning Harry Underwood's command to get my wraps, tennis racquet and balls in readiness for a trip to the roof with him. His peremptory tones and manner, and the lines in his face told me that he had found much work and worry since I had brought him the mysterious message fastened to an arrow. It was not for me to detain him with question or quibble.

But when I came into the living-room with a beret on my head, wearing a sweater and carrying the tennis things, Mr. Underwood looked up approvingly.

"You're a quick dresser, Lady Fair," he said. "I've got a minute or two left, so join the circle while I spill what I've found out."

Lillian made a place for me on the couch beside her, while Harry and Dicky drew their chairs opposite.

"They're trying the old psychology stuff," he said. "That note said all our precautions were 'vanity, vanity,' or words to that effect. They want Prince Georges, it goes on, and if he will give himself up to them, they will give the word of the Kenellos that neither Mary nor Olina will be harmed. Otherwise—well! the threats aren't exactly bedtime stories for nervous ladies. Don't worry, Lady Fair. The girls aren't in any danger. What's bothering me is the fact that those devils have been able to plant somebody here beside the dame we know about on the floor below."

"The supposed writer?" I asked as he paused.

"Yes. She's innocuous now, because we spotted her early enough to keep cases on her. She doesn't move anywhere without somebody trailing her. But she was here long enough before we got on to her to spy out the land for somebody else and that's the lad—or lady—we're wanting. For it's a cinch that somewhere in the hotel is a person posing as a guest, who in reality is a member of Kenellos. And that's distinctly bad medicine for us. But I'll spill the rest to you when we get back."

"Look here!" Dicky said peremptorily. "Is there danger for her up there. For if so, she doesn't go."

There was something in his tone which made my pulses jump. It was the dominant protective note, to which any woman responds, no matter how modern or how feministic she may be.

"Not a bit," Mr. Underwood returned. "You've got a crust to think I'd take her anywhere there'd be danger."

"Piffle!" retorted Dicky, "also Pap! and Pop! You wouldn't do it consciously, of course, but you and Lil have such confounded one-track minds that when you're on a proposition like this you lose all sense of perspective. And then, of course, there's no such word as danger in your own vocabularies. Everybody has to hand it to you there."

"Thanks for the cauliflower, even though served without cream sauce," Mr. Underwood grinned imperturbably. "But word of honor, there's no danger for your frau. I shall deliver her back intact. Come on, Lady Fair."

He rushed me out of the room with an air nonchalant but determined. I did not dare look at Dicky for I was afraid he would see something mirrored in my face which I was not yet ready to show to him. I had been through so many emotional crises with my Peter Pan, had so many bitter memories as well as tender ones, that I feared to yield to the affection which I once had thought dead, and which later I had feared to risk the return of the heartaches which our tempestuous marital disagreements had brought to me. I had found a certain numbed peace in the pact of outward amity and concealed indifference which we had kept up since Grace Draper's suicide had cleared Dicky's mind of the awful suspicion he had held against me. But my heart told me that the peace had passed and that the old uncertainty was shaking me.

Harry Underwood, however, gave me no chance for either of what Lillian calls the Spection twins, Retro and Intro. As we climbed the three flights of stairs leading to the roof, for he had ignored the elevator, he rapidly, but in low tones, outlined his reasons for taking me there.

"It's like this!" he said, "I've got to see for myself from which direction that arrow came. I know you got it all right, but there's a snag which I can't get over. Now we don't want to attract any more attention than is necessary, so we'll bat tennis balls against the wall for a few minutes, then we'll casually sit down where you and Olina were sitting when that arrow whizzed by your heads. I know that memory of yours, and I'm counting on it for a photographic reproduction of the spot."

I knew better than to utter any disclaimer of his statement. He was not giving me a compliment but stating his belief, and I answered him simply.

"I'll do the best I can," I said, and he patted my shoulder companionably.

"I know that," he answered. "Here we are. Now prepare for a trimming."

His voice was loud and nonchalant, and for several minutes we served our tennis balls against the wall as if we were wholly engrossed in the practice. Then solicitously inquiring if I were tired, we sat flown upon the seat which Olina and I had occupied, and in pantomime I showed him where the arrow had dropped. He marked the spot and then turned cautiously toward the direction from which it was plain the arrow had come. My eyes followed his and I had hard work to keep back an exclamation of dismay.

In the doorway of the roof bungalow which was exactly in the line of our vision, stood an elderly woman whom I had seen several times in my trips to the roof for exercise. She glared at us for the fraction of a second, then slammed the door vigorously.

How to Keep Well

By DR. COPELAND

Fear of Nose-Bleed Foolish

MANY persons worry over nosebleed. They seem to think it means high blood pressure, "congestion of the brain," weakened blood vessels, cancer and goodness knows what other terrible things.

DR. COPELAND

What lots of things there are to worry over! There seems born in the soul of each of us the fear of death. We are taught that the blood is the very life of the body. If this precious fluid begins to run away, if nothing else happens, certainly there oozes out with it the bravery we ordinarily possess.

This is a foolish fear and unworthy of us. Besides, fear sets the heart beating strongly and this in turn increases the bleeding. You see the heart is influenced by our emotions. The sight of blood is apt to depress the heart action, or else the fear stimulates and excites it.

There are many forms of bleeding. Nosebleed is the commonest. It may result from injury, from local disease, or from some systemic disturbance.

Certain diseases of the kidneys, liver, lungs and heart produce congestion and may cause nosebleed. Some acute fevers have bleeding from the nose as one of the symptoms. Measles, influenza, pneumonia, diphtheria, whooping cough, scarlet fever and especially typhoid fever are such diseases. Anemia and other conditions where the blood quality is reduced may have nosebleed as one of the complications.

A blow on the nose, and catarrh, when there is ulceration within the nose, are common causes of nose-bleed. Almost everybody has more or less catarrh. This is due in many cases to carelessness of the average individual regarding the common cold and its neglect.

Repeated colds are followed by chronic inflammation of the tissues of the nose. Constant blowing and fussing with the nose result in broken tissues inside that organ. There is a little raw spot. Mucus collects on this spot, hardens and forms an annoying crust. The crust comes off before the ulcer is healed and this may be the beginning of obstinate trouble.

In another case there might be what is best described as an enlarged and easily broken blood vessel. In blowing the nose there may be a gush of blood.

But let me make clear to you that nosebleed is almost always founded on some local disturbance, easily accounted for and corrected. Go to your doctor or a nose specialist. He will give you a little treatment and the trouble will probably disappear.

If you are at home where you have access to home remedies you may use any one of several simple remedies in treatment of nosebleed. Cold applications are recommended. They may be used on the neck or over the nose.

Sometimes putting the feet in hot water will force the blood away from the head and thus assist in controlling the bleeding. Pinching the nose between the thumb and finger will sometimes put enough pressure on the bleeding point to control the hemorrhage.

Tannic acid dissolved in water may be applied on cotton. The patient clears the nose by blowing out the clots of blood and a cotton tampon is then pushed into the nasal passage. Peroxide of hydrogen is also a satisfactory agent for controlling bleeding, and one of the best things is adrenalin chloride. This is a solution which is found in many houses and is a marked astringent.

Do not be frightened. Keep cool, do not worry and doubtless everything will be all right after waiting a short time.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, January 30

ALTHOUGH affairs may move along at the usual pace on this day, judging by the lunar aspect to Mercury, yet on the whole there are no auguries of important events in business relations. The emphasis is on the purely personal affiliations which may develop somewhat of the regular, sensational or entirely unforeseen. But these carry the element of gratification or change which should prove to be desirable as well as fortuitous, despite certain small anxieties or delays.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a desirable and beneficial change, probably in their personal relations or environments. These may have some angles of the unconventional and might possibly lead to public recognition or rumor. It is a fair time for writings and general business activity.

A child born on this day should be lively, versatile and possibly ingenious in a degree that might bring it into the public eye. Its leaning may be toward conspicuous artistic or literary recognition.

NO DIET FOR OLD CONGRESSMAN

WASHINGTON, Jan 29.—(INS.)—Defying the usual rules for long livelihood, Representative Charles Manley Stedman (Dem.), of North Carolina, oldest member of Congress and its only civil war veteran, today celebrated his 89th birthday with a record of never having been sick in his life.

He planned to eat three square meals, smoke two or three black cigars and work from 9:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. in his office, with an interval to receive the praises of his colleagues on the floor of the House.

He believes the world is getting better and believes that congress is fully as efficient and able as when he entered the House 19 years ago, but he adhered to his solemn rule to give no interviews.

He refuses to be bothered by a diet, and eats what he likes, including plenty of sweets such as candy and ice cream.

BAMFORD SEES TAX MENACE

"If city and county taxes advance in the future as they have in the last 10 years, it would be a very serious proposition to property owners," J. W. Bamford, renting agent of the Koppers Building, told the South Hills Kiwanis Club at its regular weekly luncheon meeting held in the Mt. Lebanon United Lutheran Church, Acadamy avenue, yesterday.

"It would mean the discouraging of new building projects and the entering of new industries into the city," he said. "Last year alone the Koppers Building paid $190,000 in city and county taxes," Mr. Bamford concluded.

The weekly door prize, donated by W. D. Allison, was won by Frank Dittman. They were 55 members and three visiting "Kimanians" present. Newly elected President Fred Aiken presided.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Jan. 29.—New Castle municipal golf course was open but two months last year, but the city received $2,332.13 from 2,810 players.

Blame Vagrant Dogs for Sheep Killings

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 29—Dogs abandoned by hunters, which have been running at large, are blamed for raids on sheep in the Claysville district.

A large number of sheep have been killed or injured.

KINZER ELECTED TO GRIEST POST

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 29.—(INS.)—J. Roland Kinzer, Lancaster City attorney, has been chosen by a majority of approximately two-to-one to succeed the late W. W. Griest as Lancaster County's representative in Congress.

Kinzer, Republican candidate, received 15,607 votes as against 7,253 for George W. Hensel, Jr., Democratic.

Balloting was unusually light. Neither candidate had campaigned, and no issue was debated before the voters.

Kinzer will be sworn in as Representative of the Tenth Pennsylvania District as soon as the election returns have been certified. He never has held public office.

Tech Expert Joins Soviet Auto Firm

Max Frocht, assistant professor of mechanics in the college of engineering, Carnegie Institute of Technology, has been granted a leave of absence, and will become assistant chief instructor in charge of the technical bureau of the Autostroy Corporation, a Russian concern planning to manufacture automobiles under an agreement with the Ford Motor Company. He will assume his new duties in Dearborn, Mich., Saturday. After preliminary work in Dearborn Prof. Frocht expects to go to Russia.

Monoxide Fatal To Man in Garage

A victim of carbon monoxide, John Mantus, 28, a laborer, was found dead at the wheel of his automobile in his garage at Morgan, today, according to a report to the coroner. He apparently was overcome by the fumes as he was about to back his car out.

COUNTY FAIRS' HEADS MEET

The annual western meeting of the Pennsylvania State Association of County Fairs opened today at the Fort Pitt Hotel with reports of unfulfilled contracts, appointment of the nominating committee, discussion of legislation needed by county fairs and a talk on "Advertising a Fair," by E. L. Freeland occupying the attention of the group.

The convention was to continue throughout the day, ending tonight with a banquet. Discussions of fair problems and the announcement of the dates of fairs in the western part of the state will fill the program of the day.

Allied groups will meet in the Fort Pitt tomorrow, when the Keystone Short Ship Circuit and the Coal, Oil and Iron Circuit convene to discuss problems connected with more concentrated areas.

18 Seamen Killed In Blast on Ship

LONDON, Jan. 29.—(INS.)—Eighteen seamen lost their lives when the trawler Mola sank off Corfu Island following the explosion of a boiler, according to a Central News dispatch received from Rome today. Corfu Island is in the Ionian group lying west of Greece and east of Southern Italy.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to comb or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it; then you destroy it entirely.

To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you may have. This simple remedy never fails.

A clear skin is irresistible!

You can feel the rejuvenating effect S.S.S. brings the body by the increase of red-blood-cells.

A clear, smooth, lovely skin enhances personal attractiveness. Men admire it. Women praise and secretly envy. More happiness and friends may depend upon it.

Thousands have turned to S.S.S. when the appetite first signaled danger. It is a time-tested remedy. Purely vegetable. Easily assimilated. Pleasant to take.

YOUR popularity may depend upon a clear, smooth, lovely skin. It is the accepted way of telling the degree of health a person possesses. Naturally a skin which bespeaks health attracts.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of skin blemishes, lack of appetite, flabby flesh and loss of energy as an indication that the body's power of resistance is low—that there is a deficiency of red-blood-cells.

The way to the skin is through the blood. Strong, healthy blood nourishes the body and promotes smooth, clear skin.

Many thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking S.S.S. It is Nature's own blood tonic for raising the body's power of resistance to infection and disease, improving the appetite, building firm flesh and clearing the skin.

S.S.S. promotes healthy body building. It increases the number of red-blood-cells. It is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and has a successful record of over 100 years back of it.

All good drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

CHICAGO SEEKS SCHOOL CASH

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—The school board turned to New York today for money with which to pay Chicago school teachers and other employes.

A representative of the school board has been sent East in an effort to sell $54,000,000 in tax anticipation warrants which previously have been refused by Chicago banks.

The city and county governments meanwhile awaited the outcome of conferences with the Citizens' Relief Committee to obtain money with which to meet their past due payrolls. Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the committee, was to return today from Washington.

The committee has $20,000,000 available, the money having been offered by large corporations from funds laid aside by them to meet 1928 taxes collection of which has been delayed by reassessments. It is this reassessment which is blamed by city, county and school board officials for the present lack of funds.

A further delay in the reassessment was in prospect as a result of the order by the board of review yesterday for a new valuation of downtown property. If no interruption should occur, the 1928 tax bills probably will be in the hands of taxpayers by May 1.

Dorothy Petgen, lieder singer, and Norman Frauenheim, Pittsburgh pianist, gave a most interesting recital in the auditorium of the Y. M. & W. H. A. last evening. The audience was disposed to laugh frequently at the modern music, and the performers were fortunate indeed not to have been assaulted as some of the composers of this same music have been, when they first presented their works in European festivals.

J. Fred Lissfelt

It was an evening of contemporary German music, but that is a misnomer. The songs and piano works were made by the most radical group in Germany today. Besides Hindemith, Schreker, Tansman and their colleagues, there is a saner party, whose members have taken marvelous hints from the anarchists, but are still writing beautiful singable melodies and enchanting piano and orchestral works in the new vein.

The piano preludes and salon pieces of Walter Niemann, offered by Frauenheim, may have found their way from the pages of Chopin, Schumann, Albeniz and Debussy. Certainly there was nothing original in this music, although it abounds in color. Here Frauenheim is particularly at home, for no matter how much we may differ in regard to his classics, this young man has a strong and deep understanding of latter-day French, Spanish and German music. Tansman's mystic lullaby, and the noisy dances of Hindemith invoked the listeners to hilarity. But rest assured they are written that way.

It would be unfair to give any estimate of Miss Petgen's voice, if we must judge from her singing of these modern songs. They are frankly experiments in the intervals which human beings have forgotten these many centuries, and which young Germany is restudying. They are distorted designs in tone, much as the post-war art of Germany displayed her distress and frenzy in line and color.

You may meet the composers of this music in festivals abroad, and to your astonishment find them to be sincere musicians, excellent performers, soloists or orchestral leaders, and healthy fellows. Their music comes from sane minds, fed up with the romanticism of the last decades, and groping for new ideas.

We congratulate Miss Petgen, therefore, for bringing up this music of the day. For her own sake we hope to hear her soon again in such music that will present her as a singer. Last night she was merely the tool of progress.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

78 DIE IN RIOTS IN KOREA

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Peong K. Yo On, pastor of the Korean Church and Institute here announced receipt of a cablegram from Seoul, Korea, by way of Shanghai, reporting that 78 Koreans have been killed and 17,000 arrested to date in the student disorders in Korea.

The cablegram said the movement, aimed against the Japanese government, has been spreading.

The series of demonstrations began last November in a strike of about 400 students in protest against alleged racial discrimination by Japanese. The strikes spread and during December some 900 students were reported arrested, many of whom still are in prison.

Japanese police authorities in Seoul attributed the source of the disorders to propaganda of Communist organizations, although authoritative sources in Tokio believed the motive was a racial one.

STATE DRY CHAIRMAN SCORES HOOVER

Jude Walks of Pittsburgh

by WILLIAM PFARR

THERE are odds and ends to be disposed of. The odds: A line we wrote on flower-pot judges the other day excited the curiosity of several readers. Flower-pot judges are few and far between today, if any. Years ago when lawyers were scarce a citizen who was learned in the law but lacking in authority was often called upon to sit as the judge. There have been cases, too, of judges calling upon citizens to sit with them in particular cases.

The ends: In our expose of the progress of bowling we wrote that Dead-center Green, a good bowler, was so called because he hit the head pin dear-center—a good enough reason, incidentally. Bowlers have pointed out that Mr. Green couldn't be such a good bowler if he hit the dead pin head-center, or rather the head center dead pin. This is too confusing. There was to be more of this, but we give up.

Mr. Brady McSwigan, the head man at Kennywood Park, would enlist the aid of Sidewalks to clear up any erroneous impressions created by Public Safety Director James M. Clark, who is crusading, so to speak, against the clearing-house pools. Mr. McSwigan, a stickler for correctness, wants the taxpayers of Allegheny County in general and the prospective swimmers in particular to understand that Mr. Clark is not moving against swimming pools, but clearing-house pools.

Mr. McSwigan's friends have been entertaining him with warnings that his Kennywood pool (swimming) will be padlocked this summer, and the telephones in his office are besieged with calls from anxious sympathizers who would post bail for Mr. McSwigan.

Let us, then, straighten out the mess: Director Clark is crusading against clearing-house pools; Director Clark is NOT crusading against swimming pools . . . And now a double-standing, double-sitting twist from the diving board by Mr. McSwigan.

ONE of the most interesting women in Allegheny County is Miss E. Emmelinne Pitt, conciliator for the United States Department of Labor. Miss Pitt is a descendant of William Pitt, the Earl of Chatham, for whom Pittsburgh was named. When she is not settling strikes she looks after her registered cattle and pedigreed bulldogs on her three farms. She inherited considerable money, but she does not value it as the rest of us would.

Miss Pitt is an ordained minister of the Gospel. She spends most of her time in effecting labor settlements. Right now she is active in the taxicab strike. She wears mannish hats. Our authority described her as an intelligent, middle-aged woman possessed of excellent judgment.

Will Rogers Says:

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 29.

These are happy times in England. The whole country is celebrating the victory of King George over Big Bill Thompson and Chicago. It's especially gratifying over here for at one time things looked very bad for the king, as Big Bill had told him to keep his snoot out of Chicago affairs, which was a terrific blow to His Majesty, as he had always taken such a personal interest and pride in Chicago. It was really one of his most cherished municipalities, and to find that they are still loyal to him, though even out of funds, pleases His Royal Highness beyond measure.

Well, the conference met yesterday and appointed a commission to meet today and appoint a delegation who will eventually appoint a sub-committee to draw up ways and means of finding out what to start with first.

Yours

WILL.

Victim

MARGARET SPEER

Margaret, 6, 57 South Nineteenth street, struck by a hit-and-run auto and taken to South Side Hospital in serious condition. She was on her way home from her grade school.

FEARED LIFE, ASKS DIVORCE

Herbert Mocklin, of the United States Veterans Hospital, suing for a divorce after six months of married life, stated in his bill of particulars in Common Pleas Court that he awoke one morning in August last and discovered his wife, Grace Mocklin, of 211 First street, Aspinwall, in a sitting posture in bed with a straight razor in her hand.

"I asked her what she was going to do with it and she replied, 'It's a good thing you woke up when you did or I would not have to bother with you any more,'" Mocklin averred. She threw a cup once and gave him a scar over his eye and on other occasions threw a carpet sweeper, knives, milk bottles or anything within reach at him, he alleged. They were married April 4 and parted September 30 last.

HURT IN FALL, $35,000 ASKED

Robert H. Hartley and his wife, Marie W. Hartley, owners of property at 402 Smithfield street, were made defendants in a suit in Common Pleas Court by Mrs. Elizabeth Wingett, of Wampum, Beaver County, asking $35,000 for serious injuries suffered when she was thrown violently after tripping on a coal hole cover in front of the property October 10, last. Martin H. Wingett, her husband, joined in the suit.

County Demands McKeesport Pay

The City of McKeesport may be forced to pay the approximately $1,000,000 that it owes Allegheny County for joint improvements. The county commissioners at their meeting yesterday authorized County Solicitor W. Heber Dithrich to proceed toward a mandamus execution by which McKeesport will be forced to pay its bills. By this action the county can tie up any unappropriated money of McKeesport.

Traffic Banquet Slated Tomorrow

The annual dinner of the Traffic and Transportation Association will be held in the William Penn Hotel tomorrow night. Speakers will be John M. Fitzgerald, a member of the committee on public relations for eastern railroads, and Count Felix von Luchner, of Germany. Clem W. Gottschalk, of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, will preside and introduce Congressman Harry A. Estep, who will be toastmaster.

Charges Desertion In Divorce Suit

Alleging desertion after 25 years of married life, Mrs. Eva Boehmer, 516 Delmonte street, asked a divorce from John Boehmer, 222 Sterling street, in Common Pleas Court. They were married September 22, 1902, and the alleged desertion occurred June 13, 1927.

Lovejoy Arranges to Meet Steve While Tom Is Out

CHAPTER XIX.

TOM'S luck had taken a turn for the better.

After the Alderson sale the company he worked for began to send him out to sell bonds to their best customers. And for every bond he sold he got something like $2 for his commission, along with his regular salary of $50 a week.

"We sure are in clover these days," he said to Lovejoy late one February night. "I'm going to make pretty close to two hundred bucks this week . . . I really am getting to be a Class A bond salesman."

He said it with a touch of boyish pride that struck her as being pathetic.

His voice sounded tired, too.

"Tom," she said, looking up from her magazine, "you've been at that telephone for over an hour, making engagements for tomorrow. I think you're working too hard—and besides I wanted to go to the movies tonight. I said I did, before dinner."

Tom nodded, dropped down into his chair in front of the fire-place.

"Yes, but you've often told me that you want some money too," he reminded her, reaching for his pipe and his box of tobacco. "And if I'm going to make money I'll have to work nights once in a while. . . . You could have taken Mrs. Bennett to the movies with you."

"Mrs. Bennett!" Lovejoy echoed with scorn in her voice. "She's my idea of nobody!"

The Bennetts were a couple that lived next door in a small yellow house that was the twin of the Nicholson's green one.

Mr. Bennett was a pale, quiet young man who had some kind of a little store of his own somewhere. Mrs. Bennett was small and plain and badly dressed always.

Movies Suggested
Lovejoy Does Not Like The Idea

She had three children who went to school. She made all of their clothes and did her own housework. She did it as if she enjoyed it. Sometimes Lovejoy would hear her singing at the top of her voice when she came out into the back yard to shake rugs or hang clothes on the line.

"Well, cheer up, I'll take you to the pictures myself tomorrow night," Tom promised her soothingly. "It'll be Saturday night, and I can stay up late. And afterward I may go so far as to buy you a soda. We'll have a wild bust!"

He laughed at his mild joke. But Lovejoy ground her teeth . . . The worst of it was that that was exactly Tom's idea of a good time. To take her to the picture show and have a chocolate soda at Schuler's Drug Store on the way home.

"No, thanks. I don't care to go to the movies on Saturday night," she snapped at him. "If I can't do something really gay and startling on Saturday night I don't want to do anything! I'd rather stay at home and read a book or go to bed!"

She stood up and stalked off to her bedroom, now, her eyes bright with angry tears that he did not see.

After 10 minutes she came back to him. She had put on her nightgown and her pink wool dressing gown, and she looked like a lovely half-grown girl instead of a mother and a help-mate. Her face was flushed and her gray eyes seemed to blaze in the firelight.

Married Life
Not What She Expected It Would Be

"Tom," she said and dropped down on the floor at his feet, "Tom, do you ever wish we had taken Aunt Em's advice and waited for a year or two before we married each other?—I think I do, Tom. I wish I hadn't settled down so soon."

She laid her head on his knees so that he couldn't see the tears that were coming into her eyes once more.

She felt his hand on her hair, moving over it gently.

"You don't care for me any more, do you, Lovejoy?" His voice was very low in her ear. "You're sick and tire of me." He seemed to know it.

But Lovejoy shook her head.

"No, but I'm sick and tired of married life," she answered bluntly. "Nothing but these four walls! . . . . Nobody ever coming in to play cards or have a drink! Nobody ever asking us out to dance or to do anything! Much as I love you, Tom, I'd never have married you if I'd known what married life was! Never!"

"Millions of women have been married and haven't cracked under the strain!" Tom came back at her. A note of impatience had come into his voice. "My own mother always seemed to have a pretty good time and she didn't have half the fun that you have—or half the comforts of living. She had to bring in her own water from a well and heat her flat irons on a wood stove, and—"

"She had her own furniture at any rate!" said Lovejoy, almost shouting all at once. She raised her head from Tom's knees and showed him a red and angry face. "And she didn't have to live in a little old back street the way I do!—The way I do—and then you boast of all the money you're making, you tight-fisted—"

Words failed her, and so did her voice. Choking on the lumps that seemed to be rising in her throat, she jumped up and flew into her bedroom. She locked the door behind her and threw herself on the bed, crying and sobbing into the pillows.

She heard Tom come to the door. She heard him say something about "crying over nothing at all." She heard him rattle the doorknob and ask her to let him in.

Calls Steve
Requests Him to Meet Her on Street

But she paid not the slightest bit of attention to him. He went away presently.

An hour later when she unlocked the door he was sound asleep on the sofa in the living room. He had his overcoat over him for a blanket. She let him sleep there all night.

On Saturday afternoon he came home with two pieces of news for her.

He had opened a charge account for her in the best furniture store in town. And he was going to Allen Alderson's to a poker party that night.

"Al's having some men in for dinner and a game," he told her politely. "Aline's gone out of town over the week-end."

Lovejoy wondered where Aline was. She had said nothing to her about going out of town for the week-end.

"Well, Tom, you promised me you'd take me to the movies tonight," she said sharply. "But I suppose you forgot that the minute Al asked you over to his house."

Tom shook his dark head. "No," he answered, "I forgot it last night when you told me you'd rather stay home on Saturday night than go to the movies with me."

Lovejoy bit her lip.

"All right. Go ahead then," she said. She did not speak to him again that evening.

He left the house at seven.

ARTIST WHO PAINTS ON PORCELAIN

MRS. LOIS M. RHEAD HOLDING A SPANISH FIGURINE IN POTTERY AND LUSTER FINISH

ARRANGE FOR NEW CHURCH

The Rev. F. H. Angel, pastor of St. Charles Roman Catholic Church of Sutersville, presided at a meeting of Greenock Catholic workers and a building committee was elected for a term of three years as follows: James G. Wunder, chairman; Philip Schackman, John Büdhauser, John Kane, Maurice Moore and Paul Kiswardy. The committee plans to break ground for a new church on a plot donated by Frank Schnore.

The Rev. Angel announced that he had been advised by Bishop H. C. Boyle, that the parish has been named: "St. John the Baptist" in honor of the former's father, now deceased, whose given name was "John."

Lois Rhead's Porcelains Rivals to Wedgewood

By PENELOPE REDD

Modern descendants holding their own in direct juxtaposition to ancient and honorable ancestors may be seen in the decorative porcelains contrasted with old Chinese porcelains in the charmingly arranged apartment of Lois Whitcomb Rhead.

Mrs. Rhead is the only sculptor in America to work in the rare medium of pate-sur-pate, or sculptured porcelain. Compared with the Wedgewood relief figure decorations, which most nearly approximate her process, the Wedgwood is dull and inanimate.

While the Wedgwood is moulded and the relief may be indefinitely repeated by mechanical means, Mrs. Rhead's reliefs can only be single, master originals. She prepares a medallion in colored porcelain and models her figure subjects usually in white porcelain.

Penelope Redd

Not only is the porcelain very difficult to work in, but the planes in the figures are so delicate that she has invented or adapted all of her sculpturing tools. Their derivations are many and include a revamped orange stick, a splinter of boxwood, a chop stick, and a dental tool with a spear-shaped head.

The medallions are soft as chalk before the first firing in a potter's kiln; after their second firing the glaze imparts a jewel-like quality to the sculpture. They have a rarity that suggests the curious jewels sought by the fastidious early Romans.

Mrs. Rhead has done halcyon portraits of Nijinski and Karsovina dancing. The sculptured porcelain is peculiarly appropriate for intimate portraits which she has done not preciously, but robustly.

Her portraits in porcelain in the round, especially one of a young Italian, suggests the eternal dignity of the Egyptian portraits in basalt.

Lois Rhead allows her appreciation for the casual to find its way into her extraordinarily formal art. She has done many capricious beasts, notably a "Kitten-in-the-Rain" that suggests an Egyptian sculpture cat whose pose has been set awry by discomfort.

Mrs. Rhead's most recent sculpture is a portrait of Boris Galgolin, now in the city. Instead of the conventional pedestal the head is supported from the rear by a model of Galgolin's constructive hand. The dual nature of man is illustrated in the bust by one-half's being the natural torso and the other half's being clothed in conventional, dress jacket.

The portrait has been made for the Russian government which considers Galgolin its greatest producer of Shakespeare.

Mrs. Rhead has shown at the Architectural League and other New York exhibitions. She is now preparing for a special exhibition at the Arts Association in Miami, Florida.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's question—Would amalgamation of all Christian denominations increase the power of the church?

AMELIA M. SCHELL, Elliott, clerk: "When one church attempts to discredit or ignore another little is done except argue and fight. If the churches would organize into one institution big things could be accomplished. The power of combined churches is almost impossible to measure."

Miss Schell

THELMA L. WILSMAN, Sheraden, bookkeeper: "The question of religion plays a big part in our everyday affairs. Hatred often results because of differences in this field of thought. If there were no differences the church would gain strength and no one would feel hesitant in declaring his religion."

Miss Wilsman

WILLIAM F. KENNEDY, East End, copywriter: "I do not believe that amalgamation of all Christian faiths can possibly become a fact. Of course, if it would the power of the church would become many times greater than it is now. Religious hatreds and differences would be forgotten and everybody would work for one universal religion."

W. F. Kennedy

DOROTHY STERLING, Sheraden, artist: "Yes. The churches of today are preaching many different creeds and operating under different organizations. In other words, they are working against each other. If the would consolidate and co-operate in their teaching more could be accomplished. Organization of churches or business houses is a powerful asset."

Miss Sterling

SELMA DERRY, East End, artist: "In union there is strength, as somebody once remarked. This has been proven. There, I believe, is the answer to the question. A chain store system is stronger than several independent stores and can undersell the independent merchants. Would not the same hold true for churches? Undoubtedly."

Miss Derry

BETTY F. FARIS, Dormont, advertiser: "Nobody will doubt that many people working for the same cause can do more and get farther than many people working for several causes. Co-operation is what makes this world of ours move along. The more co-operation the better. In my opinion, amalgamation of Christian denominations would strengthen the church."

Miss Faris

President's Appointments Condemned at Party Meet; Prepare to Name Ticket

Dr. B. E. P. Prugh, of Harrisburg, state chairman of the Prohibition party, declared at the party's convention in Pittsburgh today that President Hoover has not taken a stand for prohibition.

"So far as we have seen," said Prugh, "our President has never said that he himself believes in the principle of prohibition nor has he separated himself from the wet contingent of his party.

"He dared not do so during the campaign for his election and he dares not do so now. He does not speak strongly for law enforcement, even though the Republican platform declares that as long as prohibition is the law of the land it is the duty of all citizens to obey it."

SCORES APPOINTMENT

Dr. Prugh condemned Hoover for placing George W. Wickersham at the head of the Law Enforcement Commission, and for other appointments to the commission. Wickersham and all the other members of the body except Judge William S. Kenyon are, according to Prugh, either "wets" or lukewarm in their "dryness."

"The President," declared Dr. Prugh, "has sent one of the most outspoken wet members of the United States Senate to

FIGHT SCHOOL CROWDING

Protests on the Board of Education's plan to place the freshman class of 719 in the South Hills High School on half-time, due to congestion, and remedies for the situation were to be made to Dr. William M. Davidson, superintendent of schools, by a committee of residents of the South Hills today. The committee is headed by John L. Zelch.

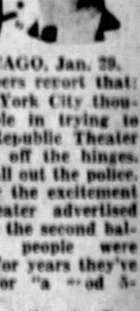
Proposed remedies include transferring of seventh grade pupils now in the high school to the Prospect School, which would permit the use of three more rooms in the high school.

The overload of pupils in the high school next Tuesday when the midwinter freshmen class comes in will be 736, according to R. A. McCiffin, secretary of the committee. The total enrollment will be 2,688.

Drive Against Dogs At Castle Shannon

Castle Shannon police today are preparing to open a campaign against dogs not having 1930 license tags, according to Chief Elmer Zeller. Warnings to owners that licenses must be procured were to be posted this week, he said. Complaints of stray dogs made to Burgess John Mohony spurred police to action, it was asserted.

Eddie Cantor Rises to Say:



CHICAGO, Jan. 29.

THE newspapers report that: In New York City thousands of people in trying to get into the Republic Theater tore the doors off the hinges. They had to call out the police. The reason for the excitement being the theater advertised 5-cent seats in the second balcony. Many people were bruised. Well, for years they've been crying for "a good 5-cents cigar."

At the present time in Berlin, Germany, you can drop a coin in a slot machine and get a fresh caviar sandwich, sausages and beer, either light or dark, or if you prefer, various brands of wine—and we won the war!

In Hollywood, Aimee McPherson, the "Clara Bow" of evangelists, starts a talkie based on her life. It ought to be a tremendous hit, especially if they get in that "kidnaping" episode. However, I don't believe the picture will be true to life, unless they take up a collection after each reel.

COAL AND IRON SHIPPERS ENLIST

Youngstown to Join With This District at Lake Erie to Ohio Hearing

Encouraged by news that Youngstown, O., industrial interests would be thrown into the support of Pittsburgh for the adoption of the $100,000,000 Lake Erie and Ohio River canal project, at the hearing in Washington, February 4, members of the rivers and harbors committee of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce worked until late last night preparing rebuttal testimony to save the canal project at the capital hearing.

Letters to members of the Ohio and Pennsylvania Congressional delegations in Washington were sent out by Secretary Stowe of the Chamber yesterday, urging their attendance with the lay delegates at the hearing.

"We propose to bring to Washington, to emphasize the canal's importance to the entire district, a delegation consisting of representatives of the larger steel and coal corporations and others who appreciate its vital need," states the appeal. "Your own presence at this hearing, together with your earnest support of the project will be genuinely appreciated by us all, and hope is expressed that you will make every effort to attend."

It is understood that tonnage figures, far surpassing those presented at the last canal hearing, will be used in the testimony to demonstrate to government engineers how much the canal may be called on to carry in event of its construction.

SENATOR LAUDS EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM

Walsh of Massachusetts Speaks at St. Vincent's Alumni Banquet Here

The educational program of Catholic colleges was praised by Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, in an address last night at a banuet of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the St. Vincent's College Alumni Association. The banquet was staged in the Knights of Columbus Hall, Fifth and Bellefield avenues.

Senator Walsh declared that the educational program in Catholic colleges gave to poor boys a chance for education and to the church the opportunity to develop leaders. Other speakers were the Rev. Gerald Bridge, secretary of the association; Bishop Hugh C. Boyle, and the Very Rev. M. A. Hehir, president of Duquesne University. John J. Mahoney was chairman and Attorney Leonard M. Boehm toastmaster.

Senator Walsh remained in the city only long enough to attend the dinner. In a short interview he reiterated his sentiments on prohibition. He declared that some solution would have to be found soon for the prohibition problem because of the growing discontent. He said he believes the present law cannot be enforced because it is injurious to our system of government. Some means of modification is necessary, he said.

ENGINEERS VISIT STEEL PLANT

A trip to the Aliquippa plant of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation today will be included in the program of the 23 officers of the Corps of Engineers, United States Army, holding a series of conferences here to determine how local industries could come to the aid of the government in event of war.

The engineers represent New York, Buffalo, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and the Chicago procurement district. The conferences, which are being held in the Keenan Building, opened yesterday. Lieut. Col. Jarvis J. Bain, district engineer, and Capt. H. W. Hill, of the Pittsburgh procurement district, are in charge of the conferences being held each day this week.

Tomorrow the engineers will study the procurement of pipe, using data of local plants. Friday they will visit the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company plant for a demonstration of the oxy-acetylene cutting and welding process as applied to heavy machinery.

Tomorrow night the engineers will be guests at a dinner in the University Club, given by members of the Pittsburgh advisory committee. The American Society of Military Engineers will be hosts at a conference Friday night in the Keystone Athletic Club.

I JUST TOOK MINE OUT— GOT A SURE TIP ON THE MARKET— BETTER PLAY IT WITH ME
—THE WISE GUY AND THE BOOB— WHICH IS WHICH?
Hal Coffman

People have short memories, which is why this cartoon is published.

A few months ago, newspapers were full of the tremendous crash in the stock market, when millions of little fellows were wiped out, and thousands of big fellows along with them.

Some of those unfortunates remember that lesson and will patronize savings banks in the future.

The great majority will FORGET it, and as soon as they get a few dollars together will come back to the slaughter.

You see here one who remembers and one who forgets.

The artist, Mr. Coffman, asks you which is the wise guy and which is the boob. We leave it to you to answer.

HIT BY SHOT, $50,000 ASKED

For injuries claimed from being shot when ejected from a saloon, Charles Boley, of Rankin, asked $50,000 damages from Alexander Bolbat, of Braddock. Rankin alleged proprietor of the saloon, in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court. While being ejected by Andy Fagula, an employe of Bolbat, several shots were fired and struck him, Boley alleged, and as a result crippled him for life.

COUNTY TO BUY PARK LAND

County Commissioners have authorized the purchase of 20 acres of land in South Park from G. E. Flowers, for $14,000.

When the matter was discussed at the commissioners' meeting yesterday, Commissioner Charles C. McGovern raised the question of increasing costs of land in the park and county airport projects.

"Although I entered into sort of a pact with Commissioner Armstrong that the airport land assessed at $80 an acre should not cost more than $250 an acre, the first thing I knew it had jumped to $500 an acre. The county may have to stop building the airport in order to find money," asserted McGovern.

Assistant County Solicitor Mortimer B. Lesher answering McGovern said that opening of the new Lebanon Church road and subsequent high awards by the board of viewers was responsible to a large extent for increased land values.

Fire Truck Ladder Crashes Patrol Windshield

Driver Richard Reatchlous, of the North Side police patrol, leaped from his cab to avoid being struck, as the ladder of a fire truck crashed through the windshield today, at Spring Garden avenue and Vinial street.

A hose truck of No. 53 Engine Company, with Harry Rankin at the wheel, was backing into Vinial street, police reported, when the ladder, with a hook on the end, penetrated the cab.

The firemen and police patrol had responded to an alarm for a chimney fire at the home of Mrs. Stella Dunner, 1027 Spring Garden avenue. Damage was slight.

BUY TAXI LINE, ASK PERMIT

Charles and Fred Graham, who paid A. B. Fitch $10,000 for a garage and taxicab business at Midland, wants the certificate placed in their name.

Examiner W. E. Best went into the financial transaction and found that the Graham's had paid $2,000 down on the sale and had agreed to pay $225 a month out of the profits of the business until the property put into the deal was paid for. They also have agreed not to compete in their call and demand service, with the existing street car company, when the latter has cars in operation.

R. L. Graham, superintendent of the police and fire department of Midland, was a witness for the applicants for the call and demand certificate.

Long Delay on Hall, Seen by Armstrong

That there will be no action on the proposed $6,000,000 Town Hall for several months was announced late yesterday by County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, following a meeting of the commissioners.

"There are many other problems of more importance to the public than the Town Hall," the commissioner said. "These must be given attention first. It will be several months before definite action on the hall will be taken."

Youth Admits Theft Of Auto to Get Job

Richard Getty, 19, of R. F. D. 1, Verona, admitted in Morals Court today stealing an automobile belonging to Philip Fazio, of Clairton, and driving in it to Greensburg in search of work. Getty was held for court by Magistrate T. D. Jones.

FIRE DESTROYS 4 BUILDINGS

Four buildings and three automobiles were destroyed, and Fire Chief Joseph Flood of Bridgeville was injured at a fire at C. Godwin and Sons, florists, of Wingfield drive, Bridgeville, early today. Firemen from Bridgeville, Kerwin, Bower Hill and Glendale combatted the blaze, which caused $15,000 damage, according to Chief Flood.

Firemen were unable to save the garage and three sheds containing farm implements and other material. They succeeded in preventing flames from reaching a nearby dwelling, barn and eight greenhouses. Chief Flood sustained lacerations of the legs when he fell from a ladder while fighting the blaze.

Coal Yard Operator Loses $7 to Bandits

Joe Blashl, who operates a coal yard for Harry Nix, tax collector of Mt. Oliver, was held up and robbed late last night by two masked bandits. The men secured only $7. County detectives believe the men to be the same pair who have held up several drug stores recently.

VIRGIL MAP OF PITT GIRL WINS

The first published contribution to the international observance of the two thousandth year of Virgil has been produced by Miss Eva Ingersoll Long, of 4214 Murray avenue, a senior at the University of Pittsburgh. Her contribution is an illustrated map representing the route of Aeneas in his wanderings. The map has been published by the Silver-Burdett Company, of New York, for the American Classical League.

The celebration of Virgil is being held this year in three continents. Miss Long's map probably will be the best contribution of this district. Dean Anne P. MacVay, of Radleigh, N. Y., declared recently that the classical association had originally planned to ask an artist for a design for the celebration, but Miss Long's map filled the need.

Director James C. Boudreau, of Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, and Prof. L. B. Lawler, of the University of Kansas, two former Pittsburghers, were among the judges who passed on the map.

Saves Wife, Children As Automobile Burns

When his automobile caught fire at Penn and Center avenues, Albert Limbacher, of 417 Camp avenue, Braddock, aided his wife and their children, Sally Ann, 5, and Joy, 2, in alighting from the car. Traffic was halted for 15 minutes while firemen extinguished the blaze. The damage was estimated at $100.

Lady Astor Will Broadcast To U. S.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Lady Astor, Great Britain's American-born peeress and member of the House of Commons, will broadcast over radio to the United States within a fortnight.

Her address will be designed primarily for women of America and will urge them to continue their organized efforts for world peace.

The exact date of the broadcast has not been set, but it will be the first time a woman has participated in a trans-Atlantic feature.

SEIZE WINE IN FREIGHT CAR

Sixty 52-gallon barrels of wine were seized by prohibition agents in a freight car in the Wilkinsburg yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad yesterday after leaks in several of the barrels afforded the agents the clue as to the contents of the car.

The wine, valued by the agents at $30,000, was shipped from Portland, N. Y., and consigned to Felix Blandi, of 402 Larimer avenue, the agents said. It was billed as "unfermented grape juice."

Blandi, summoned to prohibition headquarters, admitted, according to the agents, he had ordered "unfermented grape juice" and expressed surprise when told of its high alcoholic content. The wine tested 9 per cent of alcohol by volume, it was said. Blandi, who was not arrested, was to be questioned further today, the raiders said.

Battering down the door of an alleged speakeasy at 922 James street, prohibition agents last night arrested R. J. Graham, 26, and confiscated 22 pints of liquor, they reported.

John Perino, 32, of 1229 Jerome street, McKeesport, was arrested, agents said, when they seized his automobile, which contained 12 pints of whisky, near his home.

TRUCK PLUNGE INJURES TWO.

Two persons were injured and score of homeward bound school children endangered when driverless truck owned by the Excelsior Bottling Company ran down South Eleventh street and crashed into the office of the Oliver Iron and Steel Company late yesterday.

Ralph Bowen, 20, of 1226 Muriel street, and Mary McDonald, of Orchard street and Knox avenue, employes of the steel company, were cut and bruised when showered by debris, police reported.

John Riehler, 43, 825 Orchard avenue, Avalon, told police he had parked the truck in South Eleventh street, between Bingham and Muriel streets when the brakes were accidentally released.

Seek Auto Driver For Hitting Child

State highway patrolmen of the Parnassus detail today were searching for the hit-run motorist whose machine struck Lubo Milatovich, 5, of Rural Valley, last night. The boy was removed to the Allegheny Valley Hospital, Tarentum, where it was said he had sustained a fractured skull. The boy and his father were walking along the highway near Russellton when the accident occurred, police said.

Historical Society Backs Statue Plan

The Historical Society of Western Pennsylvania has gone on record as favoring the efforts of United States Senator David A. Reed in obtaining a memorial to George Rogers Clark and other pioneers for this district. The society adopted resolutions indorsing Reed's efforts at a meeting last night. The statue, according to a bill presented by Senator Reed, would be erected at the point.

Ill Health Blamed For Man's Suicide

Ill health was blamed by deputy coroners today for the alleged suicide of Michael March, 45, of 815 Woodward avenue, McKees Rocks, who died last night in the Ohio Valley Hospital from a bullet wound in the head.

DRY CHAIRMAN SCORES HOOVER

France as ambassador, to a country which above all others, should have had a man representing the sentiment of his country."

Then turning his attention to Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, Dr. Prugh remarked that "he continues the non-enforcer Mellon, the whisky millionaire, at the head of enforcement and as the latter's right hand man, Ogden Mills, who when candidate for governor of New York against Al Smith, proclaimed himself wetter than Al."

CATERS TO BOTH SIDES

Prescott Gillian, Columbus, O., who brought greetings from the Buckeye state, accused President Hoover of trying to please both wets and drys, since there are wet and dry elements in both parties, with the result, he contended, it is hard to enforce the law.

Elisha K. Kane, of Kane, Pa., criticised Dr. Prugh of an isolation policy. Kane favors a policy of affiliation with other parties in the nomination of candidates which are acceptable to prohibitionists.

The party will nominate a state ticket sometime today.

467 High School Diplomas Awarded

Four hundred and sixty-seven pupils in four city high schools were granted diplomas at the mid-year exercises last night.

Diplomas were granted 137 in the Business High School short course exercises in Carnegie Music Hall. Peabody High graduated 130 at exercises in Memorial Hall; South Hills High 118 at exercises in the school auditorium, and the George Westinghouse High 82 in the school auditorium. Special programs of speaking and music were given at each of the exercises.

CONSOLIDATION UNANIMOUSLY FAVORED

Proposal to Go Before Delegates at Open Session; Noted Speakers Attend

A definite plan of union was being drafted today by committees of the Presbyterian and Reformed Churches for submission at an open meeting tonight to delegates representing 3,200,000 communicants.

Following a banquet in the William Penn Hotel last night, the problem of merger was attacked at executive conferences this morning in the First United Presbyterian Church, Bellefield. Such progress was made, it was said, that a program of procedure was to be drawn up at once.

OBSTACLES DISCUSSED

The desirability of union, basis of merger and obstacles in the way were discussed. No objection was raised, according to clergymen present. The principal difficulty would be in consolidating mission, educational and relief boards of the five bodies concerned, speakers pointed out.

Among the speakers, today, were Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, president of Princeton Theological Seminary; Dr. Cleland McAfee, moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly; Dr. W. R. Dobyns, moderator of the Southern Presbyterian Church; Dr. Malcolm J. MacLeod, of the Dutch Reformed Church, and Dr. R. W. Thompson, United Presbyterian, of West Allis, Wis.

The sessions here have been arranged by the general assembly of the United Presbyterian Church. They are being attended by representatives from five of the leading denominations, four being represented by delegates or commissions appointed to study church unity. The churches represented, besides the United Presbyterian, were the Presbyterian Church of U. S. A., the Presbyterian Church of U. S., and the Reformed Church of America. Representatives of the Reformed Church in the United States are also in attendance but not acting in an official capacity.

UNITY URGED

Dr. William J. Reid, of the First United Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, presided at the banquet last night and introduced Dr. John McNaugher, moderator of the United Presbyterian general assembly. Dr. McNaugher made the address of welcome. In addition to Dr. McNaugher the speakers were Dr. Robert E. Speer, of New York, representing the Presbyterian Church, North; Dr. Raymond F. Clee, of Jersey City, representing the Dutch Reformed Church and the Rev. James I. Vance, of Nashville, representing the Presbyterian Church, South.

Dr. McNaugher in his address said there seems to be no determinative reason why the groups should not get together on a strong and durable basis. He stated, "There will be suspicions as to one another's orthodoxy. But be it so. Whatever is alleged against organic union must be sifted. Hindrances of a so-called practical kind must be challenged as to their validity."

RAISED $5 BILLS SHOW LINCOLN MUSTACHE

Lack of President's Beard Also Leads to Arrest of Two for Spurious Money

A portrait of Abraham Lincoln with a clean shaven chin and a mustache adorns $5 Federal Reserve Bank notes, a number of the bills recovered by United States secret service operatives revealed. They had been raised to $10 and $20 and passed on storekeepers in the Pittsburgh and Wheeling districts.

Joseph Stankowicz, 25, and Stanley Stankowicz, 19, brothers, are under arrest as suspects in the changing of the former president's countenance and raising the bills to spurious denominations.

PARAPHERNALIA SEIZED

After their apprehension, secret service operatives, operating under the direction of William A. Landvoigt, chief of the Pittsburgh district, went to the room of the brothers on Fourth avenue, New Kensington, where they said they seized dyes, crayons and rubber stamps, alleged to have been used in alterating the bill.

The older brother was said to have confessed to altering and passing the raised bills, and exonerated his brother. Both are being held for action by the Federal grand jury.

WIDELY SCATTERED

Some of the spurious notes, according to secret service operatives, were passed at Blawnox, Wheeling, and towns in the Wheeling district.

The changes in the features of the portrait were made to help carry out the deception, and other bills the picture of Lincoln were blurred with ink, making the portrait unrecognizable.

DEBATE TEAMS TO MEET HERE

A team representing the Young Men's Hebrew Association of Pittsburgh will meet a team representing the St. Louis Y. M. H. A. in debate in the auditorium of the local "Y" Sunday evening, February 9. It is the semi-final in a contest conducted by the National Y. M. H. A. Debating League. If the Pittsburgh team wins, it will go to Omaha in March for the final test.

A. E. Leven

The Pittsburgh "Y" will be represented by Albert E. Leven, of 2100 Brighton road, and Harry A. Sherman, 5540 Baywood street, both juniors in the University of Pittsburgh law school. They were members of the university debating team that made a 7,500-mile trip to the Pacific Coast last year, debating with teams of 14 colleges.

St. Louis will be represented by Echeal Finestein and Joseph Chused, Washington University law students.

"We expect stiff competition," said Leven and Sherman, "but we hope to win."

H. A. Sherman

They will defend the negative of the question: "Resolved, that the church has a justifiable place in politics in America."

BUS COMPANY ASKS PERMIT

An application has been made by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company for a certificate to operate a group and party service between Pittsburgh and California, Pa. If the Public Service Commission grants it, the company will be placed in position to conduct a growing business.

Various companies operating bus lines have been applying for a similar service in the Monongahela territory. They have met with opposition on the part of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, which wants to operate a group and party service to Charleroi, Donora, Monongahela, Belleverno and other Monongahela Valley points.

The Pittsburgh company was to have been heard yesterday before the Public Service Commission, but owing to an over sight in giving notice, the application was postponed until February 11.

BRIDGE GAUGE TURNED DOWN

The suggestion by Director Norman F. Brown, that a river gauge be chiseled into the Sixth street bridge pier so that persons on Duquesne way could tell the stage of the Allegheny River, was turned down by the county commissioners at their meeting yesterday.

"Everybody knows when the river is going up or down, and a gauge is no good unless you can see it from the bridge," remarked Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong as the proposition was put aside.

"A man would have to stand on his head too see a gauge chiseled into the pier," offered Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, who suggested one that would have its indicator on the floor level of the bridge.

Commissioner E. V. Babcock just smiled.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Jose Kelly Addresses League

MEXICO is today an advanced peace nation; her people are not a fighting people but they are a brave people, Jose Kelly told the Women's International League for Peace at the luncheon meeting in the Congress of Clubs yesterday. After an impressive recital of his country's oppression under Spanish rule which forced peonage on the people and left them after 400 years, 90 per cent illiterate, Mr. Kelly (he is commissioner of commerce industry and labor for the Republic of Mexico) went on to tell what his government has been doing to better conditions since 1910. He spoke especially of the amazing educational achievements first under older students and now under American-trained teachers. Today Mexico has 17,000 school units with 1,750,000 children and adults as pupils.

Mexico is a dry state and hasn't a prohibition law on its statute books, he stated adding that the children are interested in the question and that they hold anti-alcohol parades. The army of 175,000 which once had 1,200 generals, has been reduced to 50,000 and of these 28,000 are helping build the 15,000 miles of highway now under construction. Experiments with the new criminal code system were also spoken of by Mr. Kelly. Criminals are looked upon as patients and are "tried" by physicians and psychologists.

Mexico is looking to the United States as an example she is taking everything that is good in this country, and is passing up the mistakes. Dwight Morrow's sympathetic attitude, Lindbergh's visit and on top of that Will Rogers', have done much towards bringing about understanding between the two countries. Rogers showed Mexico that this country has a sense of humor and a country with a sense of humor is not dangerous, Mr. Kelly said in conclusion. He was introduced by Dr. Ben G. Graham, associate superintendent of the Board of Public Education.

IN her talk on "Some Difficulties in Being Human," which she gave yesterday before the Council of Jewish Women in the Y. M. and W. H. A., Mrs. Eleanor Rowland Wembridge said that there were two types of difficulties—those that spring from differences and those that spring from likenesses between people. There is no short cut to human differences; people are incurably different from one another, she stated in explaining why it is impossible to group problems in work such as is hers as referee of the Cleveland Juvenile Court. One difficulty arises from the fact that instead of settling on a line of work in harmony with their talents and temperaments, adults are forcing themselves and parents are forcing their children to do things to which they are temperamentally antagonistic.

Mrs. Wembridge, in her amusing and interesting talk, showed how differences between individuals and differences in their social habits and manners (which she spoke of in the Latin term "mores") create difficulties. For instance, what might be considered a perfectly proper procedure in a foreign country would be frowned upon as most atrocious if done by the same people in this country. She stressed the importance of making allowances for differences and said it is folly of minimize anything in human emotions. Try to understand it, she said, then utilize it for constructive purposes.

Mrs. Leo Half, one of the vice presidents of the council, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Raymond Kaufmann, and announced that Mrs. Kaufmann has just been made a member of the National Council's board of directors. Mrs. Louis J. Reizenstein was elected to the local section's board, replacing Mrs. S. S. Klein, who resigned on account of absence from the city. The program yesterday included, in addition to the talk, a group of beautifully sung soprano solos by Mrs. Edith Canter Lazear, accompanied by Miss Gisella Pallos. Society Folk At Morning Musicale

THIS is the time of the year when one has time for hobbies, or to be more elegant, avocations. And music is the absorbing interest of many society folks.

This morning society women who are music lovers and society women who are musicians themselves were found in the home of Mrs. George J. Willock for a morning musicale.

And the program was arranged by Mrs. Taylor Allderdice, Mrs. John E. Nelson, Mrs. Ruth Thoburn Knox and Mrs. Willock.

Mrs. Kate O. Lippa, who has been interested in the musical life of the city for a number of years, played piano solos, and Mrs. Christine Adams Jones, 'cello solos, and Mlle. Berthe Levy gave a French recitation with a musical accompaniment.

ATELIER SKETCHES THE PRESENT BACK OF MODE

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Jan. 29.—Back chat is still of the prime importance in a discussion of the mode. The back of the dress is relied upon to make many a frock that shows the world a very simple front. Seamings, piecings, bows, some of them of bustle proportions, deep decolletages outlined with flowers are some methods that contribute to back interest. Such details are generally intricate and design and handling must be flawless. Despite the most lavish treatments, the svelte line must be retained to conform with the unbroken line to the front of the model, a not always easy achievement for the designer, or for the wearer who has allowed an abundance of flesh to accumulate.

CREPE and satin are effectively used in the newest dinner gowns, with georgette, tulle lace and chiffon as the sheer materials most in demand for resort wear. Pastel shades are to lend glamor to the Southern scene, not only for day wear, but under the silvery light of the translucent Mediterranean moon. Many of the day-time costumes will combine pastel shades with fur trimming, a new note, but an effective one.

ILLUSTRATING the importance of the back of the mode we have had this Patou model sketched to show a very interesting treatment. The fabric is very black sokol crepe and the details of cut and line are intricate and very distinctive of Patou. The long, slim effect favored by this house is achieved by the vertical "empiecements" and snug fitting skirt with its low placed godets, which are scalloped at the edge. The belt is placed well above the hips and the bodice slightly bloused.

PHILIPPE ET GASTON made the other attractive frock for a client who is to winter in Egypt. It is of satin in a lovely shade of aquamarine blue. A bolero effect is cleverly simulated on the bodice by means of a deep fold stitched at the top. The high placed belt is stitched in tailored effect. Circular godets of varying length give an uneven hemline to the skirt, which is, however, long all around.

EXPERT CITES CANCER HOPE

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—A message of hope for cancer was delivered to the Harlem Medical Society last night by Dr. Joseph Colt Bloodgood, of Johns Hopkins University.

"Correct information universally distributed should wipe out cancer of the mouth and skin cancer," he said.

Among some of the more dreaded forms, he went on, the fear and the death rate can be reduced by education.

"From observations of more than 30 years," he said, "on external cancer, the evidence is that it does not begin as cancer, but in a local area of abnormal cells. These cells are of two kinds,—first, those displaced before we are born, giving rise to the well-known black mole, a spot like a pea beneath the skin; second, normal cells irritated by an injury, such as a sore spot on the skin or a white patch in the mouth.

DISTINCT CAUSES

"In the mouth in fully 97 per cent of the cancers of which I have definite records, two distinct factors clearly preceded the area of irritation in which cancer ultimately develops, and they are tobacco in any form, including snuff, and ragged, dirty teeth.

"Smokers who are very careful to keep their teeth clean and smooth and who stop smoking the moment they notice the white patch or experience the sensation of a sore mouth never get cancer. I feel confident that my students within 15 or 20 years will not see cancer of the mouth, but will only read about it, as I have read about cancer in chimney sweeps."

Dr. Bloodgood explained that formerly a special type of cancer prevailed among chimney sweeps in England. In almost entire absence of provisions at that time for bathing, he said dirt and soot collected upon them, and finally the irritation developed into cancer.

"I am confident," he continued, "that cleanliness will protect and practically prevent cancer of the skin.

"As men and women grow older and age thickens and wrinkles the skin, it needs more attention, and in addition to soap and water there must be added some toilet water containing alcohol of at least 70 per cent, and some application of an oil substance like vaseline, cold cream or cream and almond oil, because the skin loses its natural secretion. Individuals exposed to dirt, sunlight and weather must be more careful of the exposed skin as they grow older.

ENCOURAGING FIGURES

"We are beginning to get some very encouraging figures about cancer of the bone. Before discovery of X-rays, no cases of cancer of bone were cured, because only the X-rays will detect this in time for a cure. In 1921 the chance of cure after amputation of the limb was less than 5 per cent. In 1929 it was more than 35 per cent. We are reducing the fearful mortality of cancer of the bone simply by telling the people through the daily press and other means of communication of the importance of an immediate X-ray examination the moment a child or adult has the least symptom or sign of trouble in the bone.

"We are rapidly learning that the danger of cancer of the stomach is still greater than any other internal cancer that is accessible and curable by operation. This is due to the fact that indigestion or any type of discomfort in that region is so common in all adult ages that the majority pay no attention to the lesser types. As cancer in the beginning has the same symptoms as all other conditions which are not cancer, there is usually delay."

Three Meet Injury In Auto Accidents

SHARON, Pa., Jan. 29.—Two Sharon youths and a Girard, O., man were injured in automobile accidents in this section. Robert Nevin, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Nevin, was struck by an automobile while coasting; John Rendick, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Rendick, was knocked down by a machine while crossing a street and Harry Vanderworth, Girard, was hit by an automobile. None were seriously injured.

Pioneer Driller Is Buried At Meadville

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 29.—Henry Rogers, 83, who drilled the first oil well in the McDonald field 35 years ago, was buried yesterday at Meadville. The McDonald No. 1 well started developments on a large scale in the Panhandle district, the pool being one of the richest in Southwestern Pennsylvania.

Mr. Rogers entertained William Jennings Bryan in his home when the Commoner visited McDonald.

WORKER DEATH TOLL DROPS

HARRISBURG, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Accidents in Pennsylvania industries took the lowest toll of life last year since 1925, although the number of accidents was the highest for the last three years.

The annual report of W. H. Horner, director of the Workmen's Compensation Bureau, to Peter Glick, secretary of Labor and Industry, showed a total of 2,012 deaths occurred in industrial accidents. There were 166,669 accidents of all kinds reported during the year.

Fatal accidents totaled 2,063 in 1928, and the previous high for the total number of cases was 180,400, reported in 1926.

Compensation amounting to $6,275,000, the highest total since 1919, was paid to 1,510 awards to dependents of victims of fatal accidents. The average per case was $4,156, the highest since the inception of the workmen's compensation law in 1919, due to the increased grants allotted in the 1927 amendment to the compensation law and the greater number of accidents last year.

"In considering the increase in the number of accidents reported for 1929 as compared with 1928," Horner said, "it should be remembered that the industrial activity in 1929 was greatly in excess of that of 1928 and that undoubtedly the increase in the total number of accidents reported was largely the result of the increase in employment."

The compensation payments for last year were approximately 7 per cent above 1928. Permanent injuries increased over 6 per cent, while the time lost in the average temporary disability case dropped 10 per cent.

Mannufacturing led all other classes of industry with a total of 52,855 accidents occuring during the year, coal mining being a close second with 25,890 reported from the anthracite fields and 23,123 in the bituminous.

The total bill for compensation, including deaths and all types of disability, was $16,281,751, bringing the aggregate since the start of granting compensation to $166,075,267.

The report also revealed that beginning June 1, the state placed in the state workmen's insurance fund the liability for injury and death of state employes instead of granting compensation outright.

FILIPINO EDITOR URGES PEACE

SAN RANCISCO, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—The "hoodlum class" of American residents was blamed by Gabriel G. Arellano, president of the Philippine Civil League, with branches in Washington, New York, Chicago and San Francisco, for the recent anti-Filipino disturbances here and in San Jose and Watsonville, Cal.

"In the face of the present race riots, the Filipinos of San Francisco are anxious to avoid all trouble," said Arellano, who is editor of the Philippine Journal here. "We know that aside from a religious war or riot, race riots are the worst form of lawlessness that humanity is given to, and we view, therefore, with deep regret, the racial troubles that have broken out between Americans and Filipinos.

"At heart the Filipinos are peaceful and law-abiding citizens, and in this present crisis we want to prove to the people of the community that we know how to keep cool and fight for peace. Certainly we can die fighting, but there is absolutely no use of that. While we are under the stars and stripes, we are under the protection of the official authorities. It is our desire to help the peace officers and avoid trouble, so that this 'flare up' will die out quickly."

Dynamite Gorges Looking for Body

WEST BRIDGEWATER, Pa., Jann. 29.—Dynamite was used in the ice gorges at the mouth of the Beaver River here in the hope of finding the body of Louis F. Neil, New Brighton, gasoline service station owner, missing since January 18.

Neil's hat and false teeth were found along the river bank and friends believe he was robbed, murdered and thrown into the river.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 29.—Loss of $2,000 was caused when fire swept through the Irwin Floral Company's greenhouse near Irwin.

SCHOOL CHURCH STUDY URGED

HARRISBURG, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—The Sunday school is educationally incompetent, the Rev. Dr. Luther A. Weigle, of New Haven, dean of the Yale divinity school, said here in an address at the Pastors' State Convention.

This remark was made during Dr. Weigle's presentation of the question of religious education under that branch of the platform of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches, which was sponsoring the convention.

"By co-operating with each other," Dr. Weigle said in referring to the various denominations, "we can make it possible for public school authorities to co-operate with us in forming a religious education program which will be educationally competent.

"If churches can get over the suspicions which they have of each other it will be possible for the public schools to co-operate with them in a religious education program for the public schools are willing to co-operate if they can find anyone to co-operate with."

John the Baptist was just a preacher, he said, but Jesus was more. He was a preacher and a teacher. The church was created for a great educational mission, its task is educative. Evangelism out of touch with the educative processes of life will be fruitless, the future of the church lying in a joint evangelistic-educative method of teaching the gospel.

During the discussion period following his talk, Dr. Weigle, in answering questions of various pastors, said that week-day religious teaching with or without time given from the public school period, vacation Bible study schools and Sunday schools are all being studied by church councils with a view to making them all educationally competent. Week-day schools are possible for religious study and teaching without time necessarily being given from the public school period but, it is important to have this time given by the public school authorities to show the recognition of the public educators of God, religion and the church.

Shallow Sands Yield Heavy Gas Flow

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 29.—Striking of gas in the Murphy sand on the Clarence Van Kirk farm, five miles south, is one of the most interesting developments of drilling operations in this section recently. It is producing 500,000 cubic feet daily.

The Murphy is a shallow sand and the well is the only one producing at that depth in this area.

The perfected loaf

that you, yourself, would ask us to make for you

IF YOU should ask us to make a perfect loaf of bread for you, a loaf that in every respect would be all that bread can be, you would say:

"I want a golden brown, tender crust. I want a smooth, even texture so that it will slice perfectly and butter easily. I want it to be good and nourishing, and to have the real bread taste—not a borrowed flavor or a flavor exaggerated by too much of any one of the ingredients. I want it to toast perfectly and—to be always the same."

That is just what we have been working at, and that is what we have in the new perfected Mother Hubbard.

We have not tried to make Mother Hubbard outstanding in any one particular. We have not tried to give it an over-rich flavor that you might be highly pleased with at first and soon tire of, but we have given you the perfect balance—tenderness, good slicing quality, good toasting, full nourishment and the real taste that belongs to bread that you would want to produce in your kitchen.

Have we succeeded? If we have, Mother Hubbard Bread is something you want very much. Get a loaf of Mother Hubbard at your dealer's today.

PATSY BRANNIGAN LIVES TOO SOON

THE huge sums drawn down by some of the modern boxers for comparatively little work has given old-time fighters many a headache in recent years. In the bygone they had to fight harder and much more frequently; they were not privileged to pick their opponents, they underwent many hardships in training and traveling; training quarters and the halls in which the bouts were held lacked the facilities, accommodations and comforts that are general today; battles were fought sometimes in mere barns with leaky roofs and heatless improvised dressing rooms.

Primo Carnera

And for all their hard work the boxers received such meager returns that at the end of their careers they had little to show for their years of fistic effort except their old gloves, a lot of scars and the memory of the plaudits of the crowds.

Little wonder that there is a fresh epidemic of headaches among the old-timers right now in view of some of the figures published in conection with the ring activities of Primo Carnera.

IT'S still an open question as to whether Carnera can fight a lick, as measured by accepted Queensberry standards. Yet solely on account of his immense size the giant Venetian was paid more than 17,000 for one minute and ten seconds of work in his first American out. For going to the floor four times in the same affair, Big Boy Peterson received more than $10,000.

And that's only the beginning for Carnera. Next Friday night he will make another rich haul for appearing in a scheduled 10 round out at Chicago with Elzear Rioux, Canadian heavyweight, and after that you may look for a series of barnstorming performances that will carry the Italian Colossus rapidly along the road to wealth.

PARTICULARLY will Primo's financial success be assured if some of the boxing commission adhere to the absurd view that such a capable man as Johnny Risko, who probably would knock him kicking, is "not big enough" for Carnera, and that only fighters near his size should be permitted to meet him. All of the men near Carnera's size are of the cheese variety as far as fistic ability is concerned.

When fighters of the Carnera type, still unproved, can rake in small fortunes for a few appearances in the ring, the absurdly small purses paid to first-class glove workmen in the old days present a more striking contrast than ever.

Patsy Brannigan

JUST imagine what a fighter like Patsy Brannigan would be able to earn these days. Patsy fought more than 600 battles during his career of 20 years, but his earnings were pitiably small in comparison with the standards of today. With one of the best boxoffice fighting names in history, and a fiery, whirlwind battling style that would lift modern fans out of their seats there would be hardly any limit to the little Pittsburgher's earning capacity if he were starting out right now with 600 fights in his system. A mere circus attraction, such as Carnera, pulls down more for one appearance than real fighters used to make in a year. Truly Brannigan and the other tireless workers of the old days lived too soon.

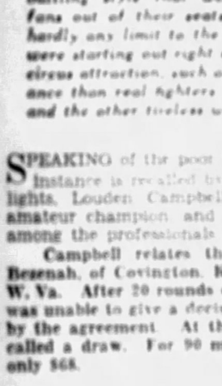
SPEAKING of the poor pay received by the fighters of yesteryear, an instance is recalled by another of Pittsburgh's former Queensberry lights, Louden Campbell. Louden was this city's first National amateur champion and later carried on very successfully for years among the professionals.

Campbell relates that on August 2, 1898, he fought Eugene Besenah, of Covington, Ky., before the Bridgeport Club, of Wheeling, W. Va. After 20 rounds of hard milling, Referee Leslie Pierce said he was unable to give a decision and ordered 10 more rounds, as provided by the agreement. At the end of the thirtieth round the battle was called a draw. For 90 minutes of actual fighting, Campbell received only $68.

ANOTHER of Art Shires' dreams is likely to be shattered if he is correctly quoted in a dispatch from Dallas which tells of his departure from that city yesterday for his home in Italy, Tex., for a month's rest before reporting for baseball training.

"I'll draw more money at the gate than any player in the American League with the exception of Babe Ruth," Shires is quoted. "The White Sox can pay what I am asking and still net a nice profit on me." Shires is reported to have said that the White Sox owners offered him a $20,000 contract. Many a fan would like to have the difference between that sum and what he'll really get.

MEET the youngest vice president and treasurer who ever held those offices on a major league baseball club. It is no longer merely Treasurer Dreyfuss, of the Pirates. It is now Vice President and Treasurer Samuel W. Dreyfuss. In addition to being re-elected treasurer of the club, an office that he has held for several years, the son of the Buccaneer president has been elevated to the vice presidency and hereafter will carry both titles. It is another step forward in an executive baseball career that promises to be an exceptionally brilliant one. Sam is a true son of his father in baseball knowledge and ability. Not only do both stand out in an executive sense, but they know the playing end of the game to an extent that is rare among magnates in this era. To the distinction of being the youngest man in the big show ever to hold such important offices, Sam adds the quality of being one of the most capable baseball men of any age in the country.



Sam Dreyfuss

IN releasing John Stoneham, young outfielder obtained from McCook in the Nebraska League, to Columbia in the South Atlantic League, under option, the Pirate management merely took a step to reduce for the present the number of players in a department that was overstocked with timber.

There was nothing to be gained by carrying so many as nine outfielders on a club which has two of the three picket positions filled beyond question and on which there are more experienced men than Stoneham available for the third berth. The release cuts the Pirate crew to 26 men—15 pitchers, five catchers, eight infielders and eight outfielders. Four of the 15 hurlers are lefthanders. Two more young pitchers and two rookie infielders are likely to be added soon.

OF the last seven captains elected for Pitt football teams all except one filled line or end positions, but in making his first selection under the appointive system Coach Sutherland goes into the backfield for his man. His choice of Quarterback Eddie Baker for the post looks like a wise one. The Nanticoke boy, though he accomplished little on the freshman team of 1927, has developed in impressive fashion since the close stages of the 1928 schedule. He ought to prove an able leader.

The appointment of a new assistant coach to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Charley Bowser, who will be head coach

BOSTON, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Although the Boston Bruins played ragged hockey they had little difficulty smearing the Pittsburgh Pirates by a 6-to-0 score here last night. The contest was the dullest played here this season.

The Pirates appeared woefully weak and failed to make any kind of a threatening gesture. If the Bruins had taken advantage of every chance their goals would have mounted to double figures. Dit Clapper netted two of the Boston tallies. Cooney Weiland assisting on each.

The others resulted from the sticks of Marty Barry, Bill Hutton, Mickey Mackay and Harry Oliver. Hutton's score was the most stirring incident of the night. He grabbed the rubber deep in Boston territory, sped straight down the ice and fired as he crossed the Pittsburgh line. He then squeezed through Fraser and McKinnon, the Pirates' defensive pair, in time to play his rebound back into Goalie Joe Miller's net for his first goal of the season. There were only four penalties called on each team. The lineup:

Bruins—6.		Pirates—0
Thompson	G.	Miller
Hutchins	L. P.	Miller
Coen	L. P.	MacKinnon
Barry	C.	Fraser
Oliver	R. W.	Lowery
Galbraith	R. W.	Darragh

LES CANADIENS COPS

MONTREAL, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—In a game in which penalties played an important part, Les Canadiens, of Montreal, defeated their local National Hockey League rivals, the Maroons, here last night, 3 to 2. It was their first victory in four games this season and kept the Maroons from clinching the George Kennedy Cup, emblem of the city championship.

After a scoreless first period and a 1-1 tie at the end of the second, the Maroons got three penalties in a row, one of them a major to Hooley Smith. The lineup:

Canadiens		Maroons
Hainsworth	G.	Wentworth
G. Mantha	R. D.	Boucher
Burke	L. D.	Dutton
Morenz	C.	Stewart
Weiche	R. W.	Smith
Joliat	L. W.	Siebert

TOMORROW—"THE BIRTHDAY OF 600,000,000 PEOPLE."

BAN ON RISKO UNJUSTIFIED BY RECORD

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

The New York State Athletic Commission appears to be exhibiting unwarranted solicitude for the welfare of Johnny Risko, the Cleveland Doughboy, in refusing to o. k. him as a fit opponent for Victorio Campolo, the South American giant, in Madison Square Garden, Friday night of next week.

"He's not big enough," says the commission of Risko, evidently trying to square itself for the Primo Carnera-Big Boy Peterson atrocity of last week, when Peterson, the commission choice, after the board had ruled out Carl Carter, a formidable Negro boxer, as Carnera's first opponent in this country, went down four times in the first round from pushes and finally took the count in 1 minute 10 seconds against the overgrown European, who couldn't put away Franz Diener in 16 rounds or hold his own with Young Stribling in two six-round bouts overseas.

If there is anybody who needs no protection from the big fellows it is Risko, who, although he is short and roly-poly and scales only about 190 pounds, has wrecked more aspirations and bouts-in-the-making than any other heavyweight who has appeared on the scene in recent years. It finally got so bad that the late Tex Rickard named him "The Spoiler." Every time Rickard got his heavyweight eliminations moving in a given direction, Risko came along and upset the works.

BIG ENOUGH FOR GODFREY

As for being big enough to fight Campolo or Carnera or any of the other stumbling giants, didn't Risko beat George Godfrey, the big, bulky Black Menace, whom few of the good ones want to

Ernie Peters' Wife Says He Used Her for Target

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Ernie Peters, hard punching Chicago flyweight, made her the target for many of his hard smashes, Mrs. Margaret Peters charged in a bill for divorce in Superior Court yesterday.

Immediately after their marriage, Mrs. Peters charges, the boxer employed his trade upon her so consistently that she became sore and bruised. Mrs. Peters said her husband's income from fighting was $5,000 annually. She asks the court to restrain his manager, Sam Plan, who was named as a defendant in the case, from paying money to Peters and asks that Peters be ordered to support her.

They were married in 1927 and separated last December.

BRIDEN SOLD BY PIRATES

The Pittsburgh Hockey Club has sold Archie Briden to the London (Ontario) club and has recalled Ren Manners from the same aggregation, Manager Frank Frederickson announced today.

Briden was obtained from the Philadelphia Arrows at the start of the present campaign and has performed at center and wing on the Bucs' spare front lines.

Manners, rookie center, who helped the Philadelphia Company to win the local amateur title last season, was farmed to London a few weeks ago.

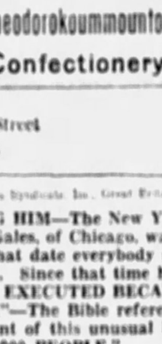
The transfer is to take place immediately.

SHIKAT WINS ANOTHER

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Richard Shikat, who is recognized by the New York and Pennsylvania Athletic Commissions as heavyweight wrestling champion, defended his title successfully against Ulrich Garibaldi, of Italy, in a finish match last night. Garibaldi slipped after 15 minutes and fell through the ropes to the concrete floor. He was stunned by the drop and unable to continue and Shikat got credit for a fall.

HONUS WAGNER SPORTS DINNER SPEAKER

The big indoor sport festival to be staged by the local chapter, Baseball Writers' Association of America, received a heavy impetus today when John (Honus) Wagner, often regarded as the greatest all-around star in baseball history, notified the committee that he would be present and would respond to a toast. The affair will be staged in the William Penn Hotel, Thursday night of next week.



Honus Wagner

The famous Flying Dutchman is loath to put himself in the limelight, but Wagner has assured the writers that he will be on hand. His informal talks given at dinners in his honor more than 10 years ago are still remembered as being high spots in the matter of appeal.

Wagner grinned when he learned that Hack Wilson and other stars of the diamond had signified their intentions of being present.

"He's a great Hack!" exclaimed Honus. "But don't think he can't play the old game. And off that field Wilson is a fine boy. We surely get a kick out of him when he plays at Forbes Field, don't we?"

Honus and Ty Cobb were the two greatest players of the game in the days when one or two balls would suffice for a nine-inning game and at a time when the pellets had to be well-spanked before they would reach the fences. Despite these handi-

Anderson Named Lieb's Successor At Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Reports that Tom Lieb would not return to Notre Dame next fall were strengthened yesterday when it was revealed Hat Hartley (Hunk) Anderson would replace him as assistant to Coach Knute Rockne head Notre Dame football coach.

Lieb, who has been mentioned as a probable successor to Coach Clarence Spears, of Minnesota, and as the next coach of Auburn College, refused to discuss the announcement, neither affirming nor denying that he would leave Notre Dame.

GRAND FORKS, N. D., Jan. 29.—(AP.)—C. A. West, head football coach at the University of North Dakota, yesterday said he was considering an offer to accept the position of football coach at St. Louis University, St. Louis, Mo.

West said, however, that he expected to remain at North Dakota.

SUTHERLAND TO NAME EDDIE AT BANQUET

By JESS CARVER

The umpty-umph annual football banquet, tendered the moleskin wearers of the University of Pittsburgh by the alumni association of that school will be hatched in the ballroom of the Hotel Schenley tonight, the hatching program to take place promptly at six p. m.

In past years, the big feature Eddie Baker of this Pitt banquet has been the election of the captain for the coming year. This feature has been eliminated by the royal edict of Coach Jock Sutherland, and in the place of balloting by the players, Coach Sutherland tonight will appoint Eddie Baker, of Nanticoke, regular quarterback last year, to succeed Luby DiMeolo, as captain.

Sutherland said he had considered all of the eligible players before making his choice and that scholastic proficiency as well as football ability and qualities of leadership were factors in his selection of Baker. Eddie has maintained a consistently high average in his scholastic work, studying dentistry, since entering Pitt. Likewise he is one of the cleverest quarterbacks the Panthers have ever had.

EXPECTS BIG YEAR

Sutherland is quoted as having said: "Baker is a student of football. He has initiative. He is aggressive. He likes to play football. I think he will have a great year. The responsibility of the captaincy will not affect his play and it is an advantage to a team to have the captain call the signals. The captain is in charge of his team, and if he can direct the attack as well, so much the better."

The man Coach Sutherland will officially appoint tonight has had only one year of football, and that under Frank Chickanoski, former star at Lafayette. He was a splendid basketball player while in high school. In 1927 Baker did not play at a regular berth for Pitt. The following season he played for a time at center, later being shifted to quarterback.

The 19 members of the 1929 squad who will be awarded letters and the 24 members of the freshman team who have been recommended for numerals also will be introduced tonight by the Pitt head coach.

The varsity letter-winners, who are selected by the Pitt athletic council follow:

Those recommended for numeral awards are:

MAY NAME COACH

There is a possibility that Coach Sutherland also will make known the name of his new assistant coach, to replace Charley Bowser. Bowser, you know, has signed to coach at old Bowdoin, where they are long on culture and apparently rather short on football players. Speaking editorially, just for a line or two, it might be said that this apparent shortcoming at Bowdoin will not worry Charley, as he is credited with being able to make a good tackleo ut of most any biological specimen.

Pitt has been holding football banquets for years and years, too many to count up all at one time. It doesn't make much difference, however, for a hard bun tossed in 1930 lands with the same "plunk" as one flung in 1897.

Dr. Carl Wallace Petty will serve in the capacity of toastmaster, which insures a peppery evening. The principal speaker is

Sport Vignettes

Just when all of the colleges were beginning to think of discarding their publicity men, figuring they no longer needed their services, the Carnegie Foundation has folded up on them. Oh, well!.....You can't convince Commissioner Landis that there's Art in those Shires.....Maybe the Carnegie Foundation is at work now on pro football, trying to claim the clubs are palming off a lot of amateurs on the public.....Sergt. Sammy Baker and Joe Trippe do their repeat number at Motor Square Garden next Monday night and tradition has it that it CAN'T be as good as their first meeting. And it won't have to be more than half as good to be a swell fight.....Our hockey Pirates have proved that they can lose as well at Atlantic City as at home. Ain't 'at sumpin'?..... All the Big Men of sportdom will attend the baseball scribes' dinner next week. Except Primo Carnera, who is taking up the clowning where the Great Shires left off.....Pitt holds its annual football dinner tonight, minus the California sunshine that was promised .....Maybe we'll get a load of lowdown on what happened out there, if anybody knows.....Who can remember when the Coliseum was a fight club for a night?.....Football headline: Minnesota Coach Spears New Job.....No Annie Oakleys for the baseball writers' banquet.....You know, duckets with holes shot through 'em to signify they're comps.....Or, as Fuzzy Pfarr puts it, tickets with the ends bent.—HARRY KECK.

FRED, EDWARD, JOSEPH, SR., MRS. MARY ZIVIC, PETE, JOE, JACK

The Zivic family, of boxing fame, yesterday held a farewell dinner for Brother Jack, who is leaving to return to New York, where he resided for a few years prior to returning here. Jack plans to continue his boxing in the East. Two sisters, Jean and Helen, also were gathered around the festive board in the home of their parents, 4741 Butler street. Brother Joe is a baseball player of note; Pete, the eldest of the boys, like Jack is a veteran boxer, and Fred (Fritzie) is a boxer in the amateur ranks.

caps, this pair dotted the landscape with extra-base hits.

There are no players in the game today who could run the sacks like Honus and Ty. The advent of the lively ball took a premium off good baserunning and this to the detriment of the game in the opinion of many.

The committee also has been notified that Lloyd Waner, convalescent outfielder, would be there. Lloyd is still confined to the Presbyterian Hospital following an operation for appendicitis. The wee ball hawk will sit at the Pirate family table.

Many newspapermen from other cities also have accepted invitations.

Cantillon Holds Off Grim Reaper

HICKMAN, Ky., Jan. 29.—(AP.)—The condition of Pongo Joe Cantillon, was practically unchanged here today as the former baseball player, manager and umpire, clung to life by a slim thread. Physicians were amazed at his resistance, but said there was no hope for him. He is unconscious and under the constant administration of opiates.

During his baseball career of 46 years, Pongo Joe managed nine clubs, umpired in several leagues and served as both scout and player.

GROVE CITY BEATS GENEVA QUINT, 29-28

BURKE SCORES WIN IN FINAL SECONDS

GROVE CITY, Pa., Jan. 29.—Eight seconds before the gun barked, Burke sank the shot that gave Grove City a 29-28 victory over Geneva here last night after the Crimson had trailed all the way.

Geneva held a seven-point lead with 10 minutes to go and seemingly had the game on ice as the Grovers were shooting badly. Two field goals by McCann and an accurate toss by Stasiulitsky put the home team in the game. Geneva's lead was increased to three by a charity toss, but Burke cut the net and the score was 28-27. Five Crimson shots rolled off the hoops before Burke's toss dropped through seconds before the gun.

The game was played at lightning speed and produced many fouls. Both teams missed many shots in the first period due to the fast pace. Ransom and Montgomery sparkled for Geneva, Burke and McCann were best for the Grovers. The lineup:

Grove City—29		Geneva—28
Pedley	F	Montgomery
McCann	F	Hexter
Reeves	C	Ransom
Stasiulitsky	G	Fulton
Boan	G	Martin

Substitutions: Grove City, Rankin, Burke; Stasiulitsky, Stanislaw, Lyle, Hyde. Geneva, Hand for Reeves, Wilson for Hexter, Rademacher for Ransom, McCandless for Martin. Referee, Stanislaw. Umpire, Burke. Scorer, Miss Helen Gehres. Field goals—Grove City, McCann 2, Reeves 3, Burke 3, Stasiulitsky, Pedley. Geneva, Montgomery, Ransom 4, Fair, Friedman, Martin. Foul goals—Geneva, Montgomery 2. Grove City, 11 out of 18. Referee, Morgan.

Third period scoring: 3, Canadiens, Morgan (Lafleche); 4, Boston, Smith (Morenz), 1 (4). 5—Montreal, Smith, 9 (3). Penalties—Boucher, Siebert, 2; Mantha, Smith (2), one a match.

BLACKHAWKS WIN, 2-1

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 29.—(AP.)—The Chicago Blackhawks sped to a well-earned National League Hockey victory over the Ottawa Senators here last night, 2-to-1. The visitors came from behind to win on goals in the second and third periods after the home club had taken a lead on Hec Kilrea's tally in the opening period.

Gottselig tied the score in the second period and Art Somers won the game on a three-man dash eight minutes before the end of play. The lineup:

Chicago.		Ottawa.
Gardner	G	Connell
Graham	R. D.	Clancy
Shmyr	L. D.	Smith
Duff	C.	Lamb
Ingram	R. W.	Kilrea
Arbour	L. W.	Finnegan

Chicago spares: Lowrey, Ryder. Ottawa spares: Boucher, Murdoch. Referee, Hewitt. Judge of goals, Hewitt. Time of periods, 20 minutes each. Second period scoring: Chicago, Gottselig (Arbour), 8:10. Penalties, Cowley, Connell. Third period, 3—Chicago, Somers (Ingram), 12:05. Penalties—Adams, Clancy.

RANGERS TOP AMERICANS

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—New York's two National Hockey League rivals, the Rangers and Americans, ended last night with the most unusual of hockey occurrences, an awarded goal which gave the Rangers a 4-to-3 victory in an overtime period.

After battling on even terms for 75 minutes of speedy and occasionally rough play, the winning goal was given to Butch Keeling, of the Rangers, without making a shot. Joe Simpson, American defense man, threw his stick in an effort to halt Keeling's rush, while the Americans were a man short in the middle of the overtime period, and for this violation, the goal was awarded. Simpson protested that the stick had been knocked from his hands.

A goal apiece in each of the three regular periods brought the teams to a 3-3 tie that probably would have been the final result, except for this happening. They were almost perfectly matched. The lineup:

N. Y. Rangers		N. Y. Americans
Roach	G	Worters
Brumpton	R. D.	Simpson
Johnson	L. D.	Bridges
Boucher	C.	Hinds
W. Cook	R. W.	McVeigh
F. Cook	L. W.	Burchell

Rangers spares—Thompson, Murdoch, Keeling, Hextall. Tarbo, Goodfellow, Foster. Americans spares, Boyd, Burch, Holmes, Masterson, Patterson, Goupley. Time of periods, 20 minutes each. Referee, Chauvin. Judges of goals, Chauvin and Boudreau. First period scoring: Americans, Burchell, 4:25. Penalties, Clancy, Connor. Third period, 2—Rangers, Romnes (unassisted), 12:05. Penalties—Adams, Clancy.

ASK DAD—HE RECALLS HIM

Back in 1908 a little department store clerk of New York named Johnny Hayes startled the world by winning the Olympic Marathon race in London. Dorando, the Italian favorite, fainted and had to be carried across the finish line. Hayes became the lion of the hour. Here he is as he appears today at his desk in the sales office of a canned goods company in New York.

MENNIGKE MADE GOLF PREXY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Walter H. Mennigke, of the Chartiers Heights Country Club, founder and president for several successive years after the organization of the Hotel, Club and Restaurant Men's Golf Association, was elected chief executive again after a two-year absence from the chair, at the annual meeting of the body held in the Union Club.

John J. (Jack) Dillon, well-known South Hills Country Club links artist, was elected vice-president, and Charles K. Schmidt was re-elected secretary.

It was decided to hold the annual dinner dance of the association at the Chartiers Heights Country Club on St. Patrick's Day, March 17.

L. A. Hubach was re-elected president of the Shannopin Country Club at the annual meeting Monday. F. L. Stout was named vice-president, O. C. Butts secretary and A. J. Markland, treasurer. Elmer B. Thomas succeeds P. E. Riley on the board of directors.

The Burke Glen golf club, on the William Penn Highway, is building an additional 18 holes to its semi-public golf course, which when completed will give the club 27 holes in all.

MARTIN MEDALIST

EDGEWATER PARK, Miss., Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Russ Martin, of Chicago, yesterday shot a medalist score of 73 in the qualifying round of the third annual Pan-American golf tournament on the Edgewater Gulf golf course.

Martin is a former Western amateur runner-up and former Chicago city champion. He waded through a field of stars that included Chick Evans, Chicago; Jack Westland, French amateur champion, and a score of others.

Today's championship flight pairings: Upper bracket: Martin vs. Armstrong; Lehman vs. Schearer; Westland vs. Bowber; Hafer vs. Evans. Lower: Lamprecht vs. Cozard; Pritchett vs. Novotny; Welch vs. Justin and Schneider vs. Sam Perry.

Championship flight matches will be over 36 holes, and the lower flights will be over 18 holes.

MISS MORRISON QUALIFIES

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 29.—Miss Helen B. Morrison, of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Emmett French, of Youngstown, both made the first division in the third annual women's Mid-South open championship here yesterday, the only golf tournament in which women pros and amateurs can compete together. Miss Helen Hicks, of Hewlett, L. I., won the medal with 40-39—79. Miss Morrison scored 49-51—100, and Mrs. French, 52-49—101. Mrs. G. A. Magoon, of Pittsburgh, scored 55-57—112 in the second division, and Mrs. W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Oakmont, 60-57—117 in the third.

TOD BEATS SCOTT

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 29.—After a hip and tuck struggle, which was not decided until the final putt was holed out, C. M. Scott, of Pittsburgh, was finally eliminated in the first match round in the Lagorce-Bay Shore championship golf tournament over the Lagorce course here yesterday. He succumbed to Fred Tod, of Youngstown, O., by 1 up.

Petrolle Beaten By Jackie Purvis

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Jackie Purvis, Toronto welterweight, outpointed Billy Petrolle, of Fargo, N. D., in a 10-round slugging match last night.

A hard right ripped a cut over the left eye of Petrolle in the sixth. Petrolle had not fought since last September because of an injured eye.

FAIR LEADERS NAME BODY

Harry White, of Indiana, Pa., president of the Pennsylvania State Association of County Fairs, this morning announced the nominating committee for the coming season at the opening of the two-day session being held in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Those chosen on the committee were Joseph McGraw, Washington, Pa.; B. J. Fike, Myersdale, Pa., and M. I. Gardner, Clearfield, Pa. This committee is scheduled to report tomorrow.

The members of the association will hold their second meeting in the Adelphia Hotel in Philadelphia, February 12 and 13.

Delegates to the conference will discuss dates and classifications to be used this season. The Keystone circuit includes tracks at Carmichaels, Waynesburg, Washington, Wheeling, Indiana, Dawson, Myersdale and Bedford.

The Coal, Oil and Iron loop includes tracks at New Castle, New Brighton, Butler, Ford City, Dayton, Clarion and Stoneboro. This circuit held its meeting several weeks ago.

LA BARBA VICTOR

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Fidel La Barba, former flyweight champion, now graduated to the featherweight class, decisively defeated Johnny Tyrus, Los Angeles, in a 10-round bout here last night.

GALLATIN MAY WIN NATIONAL CROWN

By TOM BIRKS

The success of the Gallatin club of the American Soccer League has been the outstanding feature of the local soccer season and the winning of the West Penn senior championship last Saturday was a foregone conclusion to many critics of the game.

The Gallatin team, following the Heidelberg style closely, should make a big showing in the national amateur cup, and should it keep up the form already displayed, has an excellent chance to write its name on the national trophy already copped a couple of times by the Greek and Gold of Heidelberg.

Harry Sickles has a well-balanced outfit, composed of a few veterans and a few newcomers into big-time soccer. Pat Murphy, star fullback, did his stuff with the Arden, Victory Hill, Roscoe and other championship outfits. Sickles played with Gallatin in the Monongahela League when soccer was soccer. Victory Hill, Dunlevy, Roscoe, Manown and Cokeburg had teams when rivalry was intense and great crowds watched the battles. Frank Broggi and Grilli played with Heidelberg, Gallatin and Dunlevy, but the other members have yet to see hectic battles such as were played then.

Th. Benick boys, Paterlini, Begonde and Peckovitch have all come into the game since the hard upriver battles and Paton, the sterling halfback, figured by many followers of the club as the best half in Western Pennsylvania, is just over from Scotland.

Secane is a veteran, but he never strayed very far from Gallatin for his soccer. The makeup of the team armed with the West Penn cup should follow Heidelberg's footsteps and win the American League together with the national amateur trophy. The team looks weak at two places, but these can be taken care of before the out-of-town battles come in the National race.

BAN ON RISKO UNJUSTIFIED

tackle? And didn't he just get through beating Riccardo Bertazollo, a week ago? And hasn't he plastered Ernie Schaaf, Jack Sharkey, Tuffy Griffiths, Jim Maloney, Tom Heeney and all of the others a-plenty? He goes at his best against big men; the little fast ones box around him.

'Tain't doing right by our Johnny Risko, and the New York commission ought to go and kick itself around the block for making him pay up for its blunder in nominating Peterson, a third-rater, to act as a foil for Carnera in the latter's first one-real comedy in this country.

Between Rounds

California Joe Gans, of Gary, Ind., clever Negro lightweight, has been signed to appear against Sammy Dukes in the main bout of a show to be held at Franklin, Pa., Friday night of next week.

Howard Mayberry, veteran bantamweight of Toledo, with victories over Jack DeNoir and Johnny Wilks to his credit at the Moose Temple and New Castle within four nights, is back in his best stride and is joining Sammy Dukes and Benny Schwartz in clamoring for a crack at Jackie Rodgers, who is in line for the top spot at Madison Square Garden, February 10. Mayberry already holds two victories over Dukes, scored at the Moose Temple and McKeesport last year.

Tiger Indian West came out of his bout with Henry Firpo at New Castle Monday night with a cut over his left eye which he says will not bother him in his window tussle with Young Guido, of Sharon, at the Moose Temple Friday night. He also came out of the Firpo joining with a struggle or no preference. He says he doesn't remember anything that followed his nine-second knockdown at the very start of the bout until he responded to the bell for the fifth round. The blow that floored him put him in a daze and he fought on instinct. When he finally got his bearings he made matters interesting for Firpo.

BILLY SCHOLES BACK

Billy Scholes, the battling mule wagon driver of the North Side, who fought as a featherweight several years ago and has been keeping his hand in the game since in the gyms and through exhibitions, will go after the pro again. He has placed himself under the management of Cy Siebert, who handles Frank Novak, the heavyweight, and will be ready for bouts within a few weeks, scaling 130 pounds.

Armand Emanuel will be on the sidelines for about a month because of injuries suffered in his bout with Jim Maloney at Boston last Friday night. Maloney won by a knockout which Emanuel claims really was a foul.

Ralph (Kid) Wagner and Vince Quinlivan of Philadelphia improve right hands, and Freddie Miller meet in Cincinnati tonight.

Mickey Holmes is training in Youngstown for his bout with Gene Moretti, of Atlantic City, at McKeesport Wednesday night, and his manager, Eddie Wergant, reports that the fans will find him punching harder than ever before. Holmes dropped a close 10-round decision to Al Tribbett of Philadelphia at Johnstown last Monday night, and it was his first reverse in 30 starts barring the loss of a bout on a foul. Included in this string of victories was his upset knockout victory over Buck McTiernan at the Moose Temple recently.

Gene Moretti arrived in town this morning with his manager, Frank Taylor of Atlantic City, brother of Herman (Moggy) Taylor, Philadelphia and Atlantic City promoter, for Gene's bout with Mickey Holmes at McKeesport tomorrow night. They were met by Happy Altbacher and Tom Judge, friends of former days in Atlantic City. Moretti will leave on Friday for Reading, Pa., where he hooks Johnny Roberts of Lancaster, next Tuesday night.

ROCCO WITH AL ZILL

Al Zill of Youngstown is the new manager of Emmett Rocco, Edwood City heavyweight, whose ineligible point for Chuck died recently. One of Rocco's first bouts under the wing of Zill will be with K. O. Christner in Ohio.

Sergt. Ramon Baker, of New York, and Joe Trippe of Rochester, N. Y., will meet at exactly the welterweight limit of 147 pounds when they clash in their 10-round return bout at Madison Square Garden next Monday night. Baker has not fought since their recent sensational first mill here, while Trippe has tangled with Jimmy Goodrich, former lightweight champion of Buffalo. He lost the decision in a hard fought battle.

Freddie Fitzgerald, of Youngstown, and Jimmy Grace, of Cleveland, have been signed to box the eight-round semi-final to the Champion Sammy Mandell-Joey Gould man 12-round non-title bout at Cleveland next Monday night. Benny Bourke, of Cleveland, knows Billy Shaw, of Detroit, and Louis Nykanchuk, of Lorain, O., needs no introduction to Billy Edwards, of Erie, in six-round preliminaries, and Tom Martin, of Cleveland, is in with Ralph Cauthorn, of Cleveland, for the four-round opener.

Paul Berlenbach, former light-heavyweight champion, will box an opponent to be named at Lorain, O., February 17.

CONRAD TO BOX EBBETS

Dan Conrad, victor over Rene DeVos, hooks Harry Ebbets in the semi-final to the Al Singer-Stanislaus Loayza bout in Madison Square Garden, New York, Friday night. Dom Vingone, English light-weight, meets Louis Quarrino, Italian, in another 10-rounder.

Bobby Young returns here from Detroit for his bout with Rolling Gross at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, with a ring record centered in the Middle West. He has knocked out Kid Arnot and Tommy Rose, Herman Perlick, Sammy Lopez, Nick Roberts, Vic Sheridan, Harold Knopp and Tony Pelegrino.

The McKeesport card for tomorrow night was concluded today with the signing of Sammy Faris, of the Hill, and Joey Angelo, of Braddock, to box the second six-round bout.

Amateurs to Box At Equitable Smoker

Amateur boxing bouts will feature the smoker and entertainment to be staged by employees of the Equitable Gas Company at the Moose Temple, Penn avenue, tomorrow evening. The boxing card is as follows:

118-pound class—Mike Tyburski, Duke O'Hara Club, vs. Kuzmaier, 27th Ward A. C.

126-pound class—John Montabano, Braddock Library, vs. Pat Powers, Lawrenceville Triangle Club.

135-pound class—R. McCormick, Willow Club, vs. Eddie Hafner, Clairton A. C., or Dick Pritchard, Pittsburgh Lyceum, vs. Tom Fairful, Wilmerding Y., vs. Marty Gornick, Duke O'Hara Club.

160-pound class—Mike Chaymak, Willow Club, vs. Max Kummer, Oakmont Boxing Club; R. McDowell, Willow Club, vs. Herman Modil, Oakmont Boxing Club.

Heavyweight class, John Orb, Willow Club, vs. M. Lewis, I. R. S.

BOUT FOR CARNERA

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Primo Carnera, giant European heavyweight, will meet an opponent as yet unnamed in a 10-round bout at the Arena Sports Club here, February 11 under an agreement reached last night with his manager.

INDIAN TIGER WEST

Cherokee Indian middleweight boxer, who meets Young Guido, of Sharon, in the main bout at the Moose Temple Friday night. He came out of his fight with Henry Firpo at New Castle last Monday night with a cut over his left eye, but it is not serious enough to prevent him from fighting again this week.

MULDOON MAY COUNT OUT SCHMELING

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—If Max Schmeling defaults, the Sharkey-Scott winner at Miami, Fla., February 27, will be declared the heavyweight champion of the world, per se and without further ado!

William Muldoon, who has established a one-man protectorate over the kingdom of the heavyweights, so declared today in an interview in which he outlined the status of the heavyweight situation for the benefit of the writer. For the benefit of Schmeling the third person in the championship triangle, he issued the peremptory warning that if for any reason he fails to meet the Miami winner at an early date the German will be considered to have defaulted his rights and the championship will ride with the decision at Miami.

"Schmeling had his chance last summer and wouldn't take it," the dictator added. "We are giving him another chance this summer. If he again shows a disinclination to fight his logical opponent the Sharkey-Scott winner will be named champion and his name will go on our memorial with those of the nine former champions already inscribed upon the trophy."

MAX MAY SEE BOUT

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 29.—(INS.)—The possibility that Max Schmeling, the elusive German, would be at ringside when Jack Sharkey and faltering Phil Scott meet in the renewed Battle of the Palms here a month hence was suggested today. Frank Bruen, general manager of Madison Square Garden, said Joe Jacobs was en route to Germany to collect Schmeling and bring him here for the combat.

BAKER TO LEAD PITT ELEVEN

to be Charles A. Locke, of the alumni council.

TARTANS, TITANS CLASH

Carnegie Tech is running opposition to the Pitt banquet tonight, sending its varsity cagers against Westminster in a ball game slated to begin at 7:30 p. m.

Unfortunately, Bethany sliced some of the edge from this game by knocking the Titans out of the unbeaten class Saturday night. The United Presbyterians boast a fine record, despite this defeat, and have won about 85 per cent of their games during the past three years. The percentage may be higher, but 85 will do.

It is just such a game as the one tonight, with the Tartans desperate for a victory and the U. P.'s inclined to be a bit cocky, in which an upset can occur. Coach Hogan has been prepping his boys strenuously for this one. Maybe he'll take it!

Other contests on tonight's card include the Salem-West Virginia game in Morgantown, Marshall's battle with New River at New River, and the St. Vincent's-Slippery Rock fracas at Slippery Rock.

The Tip-off

By getting close to the time for Ira Rodgers to begin worrying about defending that state amateur golf championship he won last year.

Bruce one emptied a watchasket yesterday and among the dope that fluttered out was that John Ireshar will be reappointed captain at Carnegie Tech this year.

Syracuse is credited as being the only team in the East capable of stopping Pitt.

Bob Schmidt, erstwhile Tech line star, has been mentioned as a possible successor to Howard Harpster at Shady Side Academy.

Jimmy Clark, Pitt fullback, wishes to publicly deny that he became lost at Alumni Hall t other day.

Recommended for those who enjoy wow talks: Bob Waddell's "Courage" speech.

And George Gray's description of the dinner party at Tait's on the Beach, San Francisco, at which Hooks Warner took pot shots at the chandelier with a glass of water.

Also Beggs Snyder telling how tough it is to get Hull Brown to take a day off from work.

Which is just about enough.

PROUD OF EDDIE

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Jan. 29.—(AP.)—This community is more than holding its own in representatives as captains of college football teams. Eddie "Baker" Butkiewicz, of Nanticoke, named today as captain of Pittsburgh for next fall, is the fifth local boy honored at colleges of the East in the last three years. The list includes Johnny Utz, Penn, 1929; Bill Sherwood, Lafayette, 1929; Eddie Halicki, Bucknell, 1928.

Two former Pittsburgh grid stars are also Wyoming Valley boys, Ralph (Horse) Chase, all-America tackle four years ago, and Bill Kern, guard in 1926. Baker, or Butkiewicz, received his early football training from Frank Chicknoski, former Lafayette star, who is coach at Nanticoke High School. The new Pitt captain stood first in his class work for four years at high school.

Lomski, Braddock Draw 'Reversed' In Leo's Favor

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—(INS.)—Leo Lomski, light-heavyweight boxer, today holds the distinction of having [illegible] with James J. Braddock 11 days after it was fought.

The encounter, which was fought here at the Coliseum, January 17, was entered on the records as a draw just as it was announced from the ring immediately after the fight.

Yesterday, however, the Illinois Boxing Commission decided the score card additions were in error and thereupon awarded the verdict to Lomski.

The commission's move, it was shown, was not reversal of decision but a correction of the decision given by Dave Miller, referee.

While commission members were busy explaining the change, the betting interests here were in a quandary trying to collect on paper profits. Braddock entered the ring a 7-to-5 favorite and the wagering was brisk.

McGraw Gets Clarke As Pitchers' Coach

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Thomas A. Clarke, for nine years a catcher with Cincinnati, and later a minor league manager, will assist Manager McGraw with the Giant pitchers at the San Antonio training camp.

Clarke was with the Chicago Cubs in 1918 and was waiting with a bat in his hand to make his first world series appearance when the game and series ended.

He was formerly a manager in the South Atlantic and Virginia leagues and last year was manager of Chambersburg in the Blue Ridge League.

Battling Criss Stops Browne in Second

DETROIT, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—Battling Criss, whose proposed bout with Arthur Shires stirred up the White Sox first baseman's troubles in Michigan, knocked out Bill Browne, of Pontiac, Mich., in the second round of a scheduled eight-round contest at the Dearborn Athletic Club here last night. He will fight George Trafton in Chicago, next week.

BASE, TURFMAN, DIES

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 29.—(AP.)—William Base, 78, former trainer of harness horses and close friend of the late Pop Geers, famous driver who was killed in a spill at the Fair Grounds here in 1924, died yesterday at the Ohio County Infirmary.

PIRATES DROP STONEHAM, ROOKIE

By CHARLES C. DOYLE

One of the youngest of the Pirate rookies was dropped off the squad yesterday. The recruit is Outfielder John Stoneham who was transferred to the roster of the Columbia Club, of the South Atlantic League. This team is controlled by the Pittsburgh owners, so that Stoneham will be working under a Pittsburgh string in the Sally circuit.

The young fly-chaser was purchased from the McCook club of the Nebraska State League where he proved to be the leading hitter in two successive years. He batted .410 last year and in the previous season he hung up a mark of .396.

Chick Fraser followed Stoneham long enough to become convinced that he was destined to play in a better circuit. The lad is only 21. His passing will hardly interfere with the plans of Manager Ins who has eight other outfielders under his wing.

LOCAL AMATEUR BOXERS LOSE

The Cleveland Athletic Club's amateur boxing team defeated Keystone Athletic Club millers, 4 bouts to 3, in their inter-city show at the K. A. C. last night. Jimmy Taylor, Ohio state champion decided the verdict when he defeated Mike Choymak of the Willow Club in the final setto. Al Becker, of Willow Club, stopped Charles Gornick, of Cleveland, in the first round, for the only knockout of the night. The summary:

112-pound class—Joey Kuhner, Aliquippa and city champion, won over Jack McGuire, Willow Club, Pittsburgh, by technical knockout, one round. Time, 2:27.

126-pound class—Don Schaefer, Cleveland, won over George Arcia, Willow Club, three rounds. Major Welch, Willow Club, won over Fred Andy, Cleveland A. C., three rounds.

135-pound class—Bob McCormick, Willow Club, won over Ken Disch, Cleveland A. C., three rounds.

147-pound class—Al Becker, Willow Club, knocked out Charles Gornick, Cleveland A. C., in first round. Time, 1:17.

BUSINESS GETS OVER ATTACK OF NERVES

Evidence of Return to Sane Thinking Seen in All Parts of Country

By MERLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—The American business community has experienced a recovery of its nerves, which were temporarily shaken by the late October-early November panic in Wall street.

Evidence of the return to sane thinking is by no means limited to the environs of the New York Stock Exchange. It is to be seen in all parts of the country. John G. Lonsdale, president of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Company, St. Louis, is stationed near the economic center of the country. Mr. Lonsdale, who is also president of the executive committee of the National Business Survey, which was set up at President Hoover's request, stopped over in New York, and told me:

"My contact with leaders of trade and industry in recent weeks has disclosed that in general there is no longer any hesitancy in going ahead with conservative operations in the production and distribution of goods. In nearly every line orders are flowing in in satisfactory volume. There are many strong indications of confidence respecting the business outlook. The demand for commercial funds is showing a healthy trend and banks are co-operating fully in the movement to meet prudent requirements."

STRAIGHT THINKING

"This is a time for straight thinking. Business has experienced a drastic recession from the abnormal peak attained early last summer. The decline gained momentum through the closing hours of 1929. Offsetting factors are already beginning to operate, and numerous observers believe that the setback will prove a short term correction or recession rather than a protracted industrial depression. There is increasing hope that the record chapter in business will prove only a temporary interruption of the long term post-war prosperity on a high plane, in which consumption proceeds at an unprecedented pace.

Fakers in the field of finance usually succeed only because legitimate agencies are failing to provide services required. Loan sharks thrived as long as propertyless individuals had no better place to turn for credit accommodations. The most effective weapon against the sharks has been the organization of reputable loan societies, but even they have operated on a basis that has been only relatively less exorbitant for the needy borrower. The entrance of several important banks into the field has further reduced the cost of credit without collateral. The development of non-profit making credit unions has also been of great social usefulness in the limited sphere in which they operate.

In New York, after the exposure of the ravages to which working people have been subjected, leading corporations assumed a responsibility in tiding their employes over emergencies. The Merchants' Association's survey shows that 108 companies, representing all branches of business, had loaned their employes $2,000,000 or more in the last two years.

BIG STRIDE FORWARD

This new policy of helping out employes in time of emergency is a step toward enlightenment. Formerly the employer thought that his duty stopped with turning over the weekly pay envelope. Progressive companies now go further, and seek to give their employes economic wellbeing — not merely wages. Recognizing that employes will not measure up to full efficiency if they dissipate their pay on fake investments, for example, the Western Electric Company employs a specialist to give its employes expert financial counsel. Other companies have been invited by the Better Business Bureau to co-operate in setting up similar services.

The current unemployment emphasizes our backwardness in dealing with this supremely important human problem, for which Senator Wagner's bills suggest a remedy. There ought to be a permanent machinery for enabling government and industry to co-operate to regularize employment. President Hoover initiated steps in this direction after the panic, and his moves will doubtless be helpful in the present emergency. However, inasmuch as there was no machinery in existence, the remedial measures were applied belatedly. It was hoped that a permanent business council would emerge, but of late the White House, evidently sensitive to potential congressional opposition, has discouraged thinking of the Barnes committee as anything more than an emergency body.

Politics should not be permitted to bring suffering to millions of American citizens. It would be well for the President to let Congress in on the party, and to ask for a resolution indorsing his efforts to set up machinery for modifying the business cycle—and stabilizing employment. Enlightened corporations meantime ought to devise their own means for taking better care of the human element in their business, regularizing employment as far as is feasible, and setting up unemployment reserves for the benefit of competent employes who are laid off through no fault of their own.

Developments Which Will Aid Cheerfulness

By B. C. FORBES

UNOFFICIAL Certain high-ups in General Motors say that demand has improved to such an extent this month that—combined with economies effected—they now believe that net profits for the current quarter promise to match those of the first quarter of last year.

That statement will astonish many. Human nature having a tendency to go to extremes, there has been as much undue pessimism since the stock market panic as there was undue optimism before then.

THE appearance daily of reports and statistics of all kinds covering December tends to have a depressing influence. December was much the worst month of 1929. In almost every direction comparisons with the previous December are bad.

Many writers and other individuals attach exaggerated importance to last month's figures. Admittedly they were poor; but the vital question is, what has been happening since then?

HAPPILY, there are multiplying indications that things have been going distinctly better this month. Revived buying of automobiles is only one sign, although an extremely significant one. The rebound in the steel industry has been marked. We have the government as authority for the statement that there has been unmistakable improvement in employment.

The steadier action of the stock market is by no means the least cheering symptom.

THOSE depressing December reports will shortly be out of the way. They will be followed by annual reports. And most annual reports will make a far better comparison with the previous year than December reports make with the previous December. That is revealed by such 1929 statements as have already been issued, and quarterly reports have made it possible to gauge reasonably accurately what many other corporations will show when their annual reports are published.

NEXT month we will begin to have January figures. They will not record decreases equalling those uncovered by December comparisons. Of course it must be kept in mind that things were very active during the first part of last year and that, therefore, few actual gains are likely to be achieved this month.

On the whole, however, the January comparisons will do something to tone-up sentiment by proving that the business setback precipitated by the Wall street upheaval has been already arrested.

FOR this country to be headed in the upward direction within two months of the culmination of the severest stock market debacle ever suffered, is a supremely encouraging fact.

SOME people are impatient because the stock market has not "snapped back." Those of us whose experience has covered a quarter of a century and more do not share this impatience, this disappointment. We feel, rather, that the market has been behaving sensibly, all things considered.

Suppose the market had "snapped back" in a jiffy to levels approaching those reached before the break. It would have meant the creation all over again of unsound, unsafe conditions. It would have meant, too, that the purging process would have had to be gone through all over again.

THE sane view to take is that stock speculation had come to absorb an abnormal share of public time and attention, as well as an abnormal share of the world's money and credit. It was distinctly unhealthy for the country that every Tom, Dick and Harry, in city and hamlet—to say nothing of Harriets—should be dabbling in speculation, buying stocks about which they knew nothing, their sole motive not investment, but to get something for nothing. Daily duties were being neglected in practically every walk of life. The stock ticker had become for several millions the most thrilling thing in life.

NORMALCY has been restored. The likelihood is that the volume of dealings on the New York Stock Exchange and on the many other stock exchanges which have been established throughout the country, will increase. The time unquestionably will come when, instead of the current 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 share days, we will witness a daily turnover of twice and even three times that volume. Indeed, looking farther ahead, it is a foregone conclusion that even the 16,400,000 record-breaking day will be surpassed quite often, if not regularly.

But, for the present, it is healthy, not unhealthy that speculation should not become spectacular. It would not hurt, of course, to have the market become somewhat more active. Nor would it hurt were prices for good stocks to advance rationally in price.

My guess is that we shall shortly witness both.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Despite the relative easiness of money rates, the bond market was dispirited in the early hours of today's session, and prices moved irregularly in slow trading. EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stock Demand Grows — Local Stocks Narrow

STOCKS GAIN AS DEMAND INCREASES

Marked Absence of Bear Attacks Noted—Pools Again Become Active

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—A broadening demand for stocks was noted in today's stock market, with gains in the active issues running from 1 to nearly 10 points. A few soft spots cropped out from time to time, but there was a marked absence of the "bear" attacks which featured the sessions earlier in the year. Trading was moderately heavy in volume, with pools again active in a wide assortment of issues.

Except for the report of a further falling off in freight car loadings, the day's business news was rather cheerful in character. Publication of an excellent earnings report by the United States Steel Corporation after the close of yesterday's market was followed by the Iron Age weekly summary which stated that "the rapid recovery of the steel industry has been a surprise to consumers and producers alike." At Chicago the mills are reported to be operating at 80 per cent of capacity, with the industry generally around 75 per cent.

STEEL JUMPS

United States Steel common was marked up 4 points to a new high on the current recovery at 181, which is within 2 points of the high reached after the November break in prices, and 12 points above the price at which stock recently was offered to employes under the partial payment plan. Vanadium Steel also advanced 4 points with smaller gains for most of the other independents.

J. I. Case soared 10 points in response to reports of a brisk inquiry for farm implements. International Harvester advanced 4 points. Columbian Carbon was run up 9¼ points to 192¾ and Vulcan Detinning jumped 9½ in anticipation of a resumption of dividends at today's meeting.

Resumption of dividends by Colorado Fuel after a lapse of nine years was followed by a moderate advance in that issue. Liggett and Myers issues also responded to the declaration of extra dividends and the offering of stock subscription "rights."

GOOD GAINS MADE

Anchor Cap preferred, Brooklyn and Queens preferred, Underwood Elliott Fisher, Celotex, American Tobacco B, Worthington Pump, Mullins Body, National Lead, Warren Bros. and Union Carbide sold 4 to 6 points higher.

Otis Elevator broke 8 points, International Combustion preferred 8, and Manati Sugar preferred lost 4 points of its 24-point gain of yesterday.

Commission Opens P. W. Va. Hearing

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Arguments opened today before the Interstate Commerce Commission on the application of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad to construct an extension from its Connellsville branch to Donora.

The proposal has been opposed by the Pennsylvania Railroad on the grounds that through its connection with the Southern Railroad it is supplying adequate facilities to the section.

Aggregate Phone Income Is Larger

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—The November net income of 98 telephone companies in this country amounted to $23,233,444, compared with $22,019,487 in the corresponding month a year ago. For the 11 months the net income aggregated $252,58,771, against $235,081,677 for the same period in 1928.

A. P. I. Oil Figures Down for Week

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—The daily average gross crude oil production in the United States decreased 46,050 barrels for the week ended January 25, totaling 2,615,600 barrels, says the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute. The daily average production east of California was 1,913,400 barrels, a decrease of 52,950 barrels.

WALL STREET HEARS

That large blocks of the amusement stocks have been taken out of the market.

That American Can may be split up on a 2½-for-1 basis at the March meeting.

That the Schrafft chain of stores will be increased from 36 to 60 within the next 18 months.

That the Humble Oil and Refining Company, which recently reduced crude petroleum prices, will return to the old schedules, provided other producers would agree to curtailment of production.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—Foreign selling here, together with weakness of Winnipeg and Liverpool quotations, led to a decided early setback in Chicago wheat values today. Russia was said to have disposed of a fair amount of wheat abroad, whereas demand for wheat from North America appeared flat. Opening ¼c to ⅝c off, Chicago wheat afterward underwent sharp additional downturns. Corn, oats and provisions were also easier, with corn starting unchanged to ⅜c lower, and subsequently declining all around.

Increased depression of the Liverpool and Winnipeg wheat markets today after recoveries from an initial setback was promptly reflected by wheat prices here. Leading commission houses were conspicuous sellers, and talk was current that foreigners were also taking a hand on the selling side of the Chicago market. Ensuing downturns in values were in the face of assertions that a liberal quantity of wheat is to be moved out of Chicago before long to make room for corn.

Meanwhile, business in North American wheat for shipment to trans-Atlantic countries was reported as consisting of only a few parcels sold here and there. Advices received said that breadstuff supplies in Europe were gradually commencing to decrease. Today's Liverpool dispatches stated, however, that British millers' inquiries were small, and that Russia was pressing wheat everywhere in greater volume, and has sold wheat to Hamburg, Venice and Genoa.

1929 EARNINGS FOR U. S. STEEL SET RECORD

Profit of $197,531,349 Largest Ever Made During Any Peace-Time Period

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(AP.)—The United States Steel Corporation, the country's largest industrial organization, has reported record peace-time profits of $197,531,349 for the year 1929.

This figure, which includes a special year-end credit adjustment of $9,972,358 is equal to $21.18 a share on the common stock against $12.50 a share on the smaller capitalization in 1928. Without the special credit the per share 1929 earnings are $19.96. Profit in 1928 was $114,173,775.

$4.14 IN FOURTH QUARTER

U. S. Steel's net earnings for the fourth quarter of 1929—the period of the stock market break—were $56,385,334. This compared with $70,173,713 for the September 30 period and $53,186,079 in the last three months of 1928. Net profit for the last quarter was $39,972,358 against $51,575,350 in the previous three months and $30,739,896 for the corresponding interval of 1928. Per share earnings on the common in October November and December of last year amounted to $4.14 a share against $5.57 in the preceding quarter and $3.43 in the last quarter of 1928.

DIVIDENDS INCREASED

The corporation's net earnings for the year totaled $258,659,889 compared with $193,304,927 in 1928. Surplus was $108,908,233 against $39,140,453. Payments in dividends on the common stock which was increased to $132,340 shares from 7,116,235 shares amounted to $63,408,440 compared with $49,813,645.

Net earnings by months for the last three months of 1929 compared with earnings for the same periods in 1928 and 1927 were:

STEEL DEMAND INCREASING

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow will say:

The rapid recovery of the steel industry has been a surprise to consumers and producers alike. Still skeptical of the duration of the current rate of activity, a number of the larger mills have hesitated to increase their operations as fast as business seemed to warrant. Yet bookings have continued to grow and with most buyers pressing for prompt delivery, further expansion in production has been unavoidable.

At Chicago the upturn in demand has been so rapid that mill deliveries have not kept pace with the requirements of buyers.

Producers making automotive steels have experienced the sharpest gain in bookings. One large independent making light rolled products has received specifications in the past fortnight at the rate of 140 per cent of capacity and is now operating its plants at 100 per cent.

The Steel Corporation rate has risen to 75 per cent and the average for all producers is fully that high. A year ago the operations of the industry ranged from 85 to 90 per cent.

Demand for pig iron is also growing, notwithstanding the extreme caution of buyers. Deliveries to automotive foundries in Michigan are 90 per cent of those in January 1929.

Price weakness has not disappeared, but reductions are in diminishing numbers, suggesting that stability may be approaching. Mills are unwilling to take second quarter contracts at present figures and, as their bookings increase, speak more confidently of the possibility of advancing the market.

Steel bars, after resisting price pressure longer than the other heavy rolled products, have finally given ground and are now quotable at 1.85c, Pittsburgh, a reduction of $1 a ton.

Scrap still has no definite trend. Heavy melting steel has declined 25c at Pittsburgh to $16.50, but is stronger at Cleveland and unchanged in other markets.

Although most buyers of finished steel and pig iron are limiting purchases to early needs, an exception must be made for the automobile industry, which is ordering further ahead as its production program becomes more definite.

The Iron Age composite price of finished steel has declined for the third consecutive week, now standing at 2.305c a pound compared with 2.362c the first week in January. It is now at the lowest level since November, 1927. Pig iron is unchanged at $18.17 a ton.

Freight Loadings Lower for Week

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Revenue freight loadings for the week ended January 18 were reported by the American Railway Association to have totaled 847,353 cars. This was a reduction of 15,838 cars under the preceding week and a decrease of 84,508 cars under loadings for the corresponding week a year ago.

Steel Makers Report Record Profits

BY GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE reports of three of the largest steel companies made public yesterday showed that the earnings for 1929 were at peak levels, but that profits in the last three months were smaller than in any of the preceding three quarters of the year.

Profits for the December quarter were slightly greater than the earnings of the corresponding period of 1928 for most steel companies. Circumstances in the final quarters of the two years were entirely different in spite of the fact that the net return showed little variation. Steel activity was on the upgrade at the close of 1928 and the momentum was carried into the new year. But at the end of 1929 the trend was downward. October, 1929, was a good month for the steel companies, but November and December sank to lower levels than the corresponding months of 1928.

While steel mill operations are gaining, profits for the first quarter of this year are not likely to show any pronounced degree of improvement over the three months for which reports have just been issued. Lower prices will be one important factor in keeping down steel mill earnings. The present quarter will show a large decline in comparison with the first quarter of last year.

Dividend Action

IF DIVIDEND action represents an estimate of the future prospects for the industry, the outlook is somewhat mixed. The directors of the United States Steel Corporation declared the regular dividends. Inland Steel common was put on a $4 annual dividend basis. The former rate was $3.50. On the other hand, the directors of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation omitted the extra dividend of $1 a share on the common stock which they have been in the habit of paying, but declared the regular quarterly payment of $1.25 a share.

The omission of the extra on Jones & Laughlin came as a surprise in view of the fact that the company reported record earnings of $29.04 a share on the common stock for the year. For the final quarter the company earned $4.90 a share, which would have covered the regular and the extra dividends more than twice. Extra payments of $1 were made in December, 1928, and in June, September and December of 1929.

Directors of Jones & Laughlin have always been exceptionally conservative in their attitude towards dividends. This policy has been responsible for the progress the company has made in building up its physical properties and in reducing its funded debt. It has placed the company in the strongest financial position of any of the large independents and has enabled the organization to achieve costs which are believed to be among the lowest in the industry.

Gains for the Year

THE extent of the improvement in steel mill profits this year can be seen from the following table of net profits and earnings per share for the past two years:

	1929 Net Profit	1929 Per Sh.	1928 Net Profit	1928 Per Sh.
U. S. Steel	$197,531,349	$21.18	$114,173,775	$12.50
Bethlehem	42,242,980	11.01	18,585,922	6.52
J. & Laughlin	20,848,749	29.04	15,568,687	19.99
Inland	11,712,374	9.76	9,334,297	7.63
Gulf States	1,310,300	5.93	924,554	6.28

The extent of the slump in the final quarter of the year which, however, did not carry profits to an exceptionally low level in comparison with the preceding year, can be seen by the following table of net profits for the final quarter of 1929, the third quarter of 1929 and the final quarter of 1928:

	1929 4th Quarter	1929 3rd Quarter	1928 4th Quarter
U. S. Steel	$39,972,358	$51,575,350	$30,739,896

STEEL FOUNDRY UNION TRUST NET GAINS ELECTION

Pittsburgh Steel Foundry Corporation reported a sharp increase in its earnings for 1929. Net profit after depreciation, interest, taxes and all other charges for the year was $336,715, which was equivalent to $5.08 a share on the 60,000 shares of common stock after deducting dividends on $660,000 of 5 per cent preferred stock.

This compares with corrected net profit of $137,168, or $3.47 a share, in 1928, after crediting federal tax refunds.

The balance sheet of December 31, 1929, showed current assets of $1,138,253. Cash of $292,585 exceeded current liabilities of $177,402.

Fixed assets were carried at $2,491,758 after depreciation. Total assets were $3,635,620. Against this, funded debt amounted to only $363,000. The 60,000 shares of common stock were carried on the balance sheet at $2,100,000. Surplus amounted to $335,227.

At the stockholders' meeting yesterday Herbert May was elected a director.

Directors of the Union Trust Company elected the following officers: Henry C. McElDowney, president; Richard B. Mellon, vice president; Scott Hayes, vice president and assistant to the president; John A. Irwin, vice president and secretary; Sidney S. Liggett, Ralph S. Euler, George E. Benson, Clarence Stanley, Carl R. Korb, David I. Parkinson, vice presidents; Augustus K. Oliver, assistant vice president; Edward Crede, treasurer; William L. Church, James A. Komer, S. Philip Gerst, Daniel C. Becker, assistant treasurers; William I. Berryman, Carrol P. Davis, William W. Grinstead, trust officers; Charles E. Young, Frank O. Over, assistant trust officers; William A. Robinson III, Florence J. Hill, Charles W. Prosser, B. I. Patton, assistant secretaries; William E. Scheibler, auditor; Karl H. Held, assistant auditor; Raymond W. Ross, manager safe deposit department; John E. McKirdy, manager of publicity; Charles H. Matthews, Jr., manager bond department.

Mr. Stanley and Mr. Korb formerly were assistant vice presidents. Mr. Parkinson has been assistant treasurer for some years.

Dillon, Read & Co. Awarded Bonds

The Canadian National Railway Company has awarded an issue of $18,000,000 40-year 5 per cent guaranteed gold bonds, due February 1, 1970, to a group consisting of Dillon, Read & Co., National City Company, Guaranty Company of New York, Bankers Company of New York, Bank of Montreal, Canadian Bank of Commerce, Royal Bank of Canada, Dominion Securities Corporation, Wood, Gundy & Co., Inc., and A. E. Ames & Co., Ltd.

The proceeds of these bonds will be used in the retirement of $18,000,000 principal amount of the company's obligations, which mature on February 15, 1930. A portion of the issue will be withdrawn for offering in Canada.

Western Rail Link Gets State Support

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Additional support of the proposal of the Great Northern and the Western Pacific railroads to connect their lines by constructing a section between Klamath Falls, Ore., and Reddie, Cal., was given today by three western state organizations.

They were the Arizona Corporation Commission, Public Utilities Commission of Colorado and the Public Utilities Commission of Idaho, all of which asserted the additional transportation facilities should be permitted.

Building Contracts Decline in Week

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—During the week from January 16 to January 24, there was $57,289,400 worth of new building and engineering work contracted for in the 37 states east of the Rocky Mountains, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation. The past week's total brought the volume of contracts awarded since the first of the year up to $266,980,200, a daily rate of 10 per cent above the daily rate for December, 1929. Although the contract volume of the week was somewhat lower than that of the preceding week, the amount of new work reported as contemplated showed an enormous increase, totaling $749,882,000. Of this amount, $495,000,000 is to be expended for new subways and vehicular tunnels in New York.

Deere and Company To Increase Shares

MOLINE, Ill., Jan. 29.—Directors of Deere & Co. voted a five-for-one split-up of both the common and preferred stock, subject to the approval of stockholders at the annual meeting April 29.

It is proposed to change the par value of the preferred stock to $20 a share from $100 and the common to no par from $100. Five new shares will be exchanged for each share of respective issue outstanding. The company has issued 315,000 shares of preferred and 189,713 shares of common, the proposed split-up therefore calling for the issuance of 1,575,000 new preferred shares and 945,869 new common shares.

Wins Medal

Mr. Hellmund, chief electrical engineer of Westinghouse Electric, who has been awarded the Lamme gold medal for his contribution to the design and development of rotating electrical machinery.

Hazel Atlas Glass Profit $5.31 a Share

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 29.—Quarterly report by Hazel-Atlas Glass Company for the three months ended December 28, 1929, reflects the curtailment in the glass industry's activities during the last quarter of the year. The corporation reported net income of $150,047, equivalent to 38 cents a share based on 396,478 shares of $25 par value stock outstanding. This compares with a net income of $268,123, or 68 cents per share, for the corresponding period of 1928.

Net income for the full year as compiled from the quarterly statement amounted to $2,104,405, equivalent to $5.3, per share. This compares with a net of $2,206,324, or $5.81 a share for the full year of 1928, a decrease of $101,919 or 4.6 per cent.

C. F. I. Common on $2 Annual Basis

DENVER, Jan. 29.—The board of directors of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company voted the declaration of a regular 2 per cent quarterly dividend on the company's preferred stock and a 50-cent dividend on common stock, of which there are 342,000 shares outstanding. The dividends are payable February 25 to stockholders of February 10 record. This is the first dividend to be declared on the C. F. and I.'s common stock since 1921.

Inland Dividend Raised; Profits Up

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—The Inland Steel Company reports for the year ended December 31, 1929, net income of $11,712,374, equal to $9.76 a share on the common stock, compared with $9,334,397, or $7.36 in 1928. The company declared a dividend of $1 per share on common, placing the stock on a $4 annual basis, payable March 1 to record of February 14. The previous rate was 87½ cents quarterly.

Addict

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.

SLOWLY the hurt has healed—there for a time
I wore our love as one might wear a brand;
You would come back like some delightful rhyme,
Imperious and ready to demand.

My days and nights—why even when I slept
Your lovely ghost was mistress of my dreams;
You were in each dark corner where I crept,
You were a part of all my waking schemes.

Now I have won—It was a bitter fight,
I own a score of scars that will not heal;
Spring can come on—I'll take it in full flight,
Youth's blood is not so easy to congeal.

[illegible]
I am free now—but when the warm winds start—
I am afraid it will break my heart!

Kid Assassin.

THINGS TO WORRY ABOUT

"BROADWAY must be articulate," says an editorialist. "It can never express itself sans the bass drum or the baser 'Whoo'pee.' It does not understand the tribute that lies in the deep silence of the soul—the crown of glory woven in the quiet recesses of our lives." though it is no different in this respect from the mob on the Boulevard des Italiens or Unter den Linden or Nevski Prospekt, except that always in its childish simplicity it attempts to transmute its boisterous values into rhyme, forgetting that a smiling singing singing mass is in itself a poem.

And some people like spinach.

OLD, BUT CLEAN

A group of actors at Dutty Moore's were discussing theater managers which naturally reminded one of them about a dog story. It concerns the Jewish fella who was running along the street when a hound leaped out of a vestibule and threw him. When the ambulance finally arrived the doctor said: "I'm afraid you'll have to come with me—that dog's mad."

"Such a motive," complained the victim, "he's mad yet."

A FORM OF CRITICISM

IF you're passing through the White Light Sector when the unemployed actors are grouped along the pavement you might overhear chatter like this:

"I saw J. J. Blank's new revue break in at New Haven."

"Yeah, how does it look for New York?"

"It's just another umbrella show—open an' shut."

AND THEY HANG PICTURES!

Russel Crouse's pet George S. Kaufman silly goes like this. Mr. Kaufman was saying that he frequently reads aloud to his very young friend the story of the three bears.

"And how are you getting along?" Kaufman was queried.

"Terribly," was the retort. "I can't make clear the difference between Mama Bear, Papa Bear and Camembert!"

THE SHOP-TALKERS

Not all of us are able to keep from talking shop if we are the least interested in our labors, but in show business they talk about it incessantly. Take the case of the acrobat whose wife ran away with another. A mutual friend met the stranded husband and said: "Well, I gotta give her credit. She picked out a good-lookin' guy."

"What the hell is that?" yipped the acrobat, "he can't even do a handstand!"

YES, INDEEDY

IT WAS over at the Mayfair in the Ritz the other night. An old gent, the president of a well-known bank in New York, was swapping gab with friends when he observed Peggy Joyce at her usual table. "Ah," said the bank president, "there is a delightful woman, that Peggy Joyce!"

"Oh, yeah?" kidded his listeners.

"Now don't misunderstand me," he replied in the dignified manner, "I don't even know her. I assure you. I merely admire her from a distance. She has no attraction for me, considering my age, and I'm sure I have none for her."

"My dear fellow," interrupted a flip-cracker, "Miss Joyce is always interested in anyone who is connected with a bank."

LIVE AND LET LOVE

One of the dialecticians from the Go-Ghetto District, who always aspired to mix with Ziegfeld girls, finally met one whose contagious looks floored him. It appears that she had just broken off with her gunman sweetie, but he Wouldn't Know About That. The tough guy, however, checked up on the East Sider and decided to scare him away. In relating his horrible experience with the gorilla the pants presser breathlessly said: "So he culled me hop on mine telephun and hollered somting tarrible on me. And wuz I med! I wuz boiling and surf has henytin'. But he culled me doity names and believe me was I med!"

"So wot deed you done?" panted his listeners.

"So wot deed I done!" he esks me," replied the shoulder-shrugger, "so I hung hop on heem."

S-EX-IT

THIS ex-cess of novels is actual—

Ex-Husband, Ex-Mistress, Ex-Wife

Every month brings an ex-alted genius
Ex-pounding his ex-quisite life

But before this ex-ploiting ex-pures
Clara Bow really should do her bit
And ex-plain her ex-otic ex-istence
To us in a book called Ex-It.

—Estelle Hapedorn.

IN FEWER WORDS

Meredith Nicholson not long ago flayed New Yorkers in a New York newspaper and remarked in part: "... the columnists of the metropolitan dailies are great only to one another."

Pardon his reportorial inaccuracy. Some of our best friends are third-rate columnists.

PUN MY SOUL!

Jack Roche wants to spoil today's column with sentences containing the words "Abyssinia" and "Nocturne like this: "Well, Abyssinia later!" and "My girl wouldn't neck so I nocturne in the head with a wrench."

EVENING THINGS

IT is supposed to have happened in Hollywood. Sammy Lee, the dance director for a movie company, was called on the phone. An "extra" girl was looking for a job. "Anything today, Mr. Lee?" she cooed.

"No!" thundered Lee.

"Any hope of anything, Mr. Lee?"

"No!"

"But, Mr. Lee, you never give me any jobs!"

"Oh, don't bother me!!."

"Very well, goodbye, Mr. Levy."

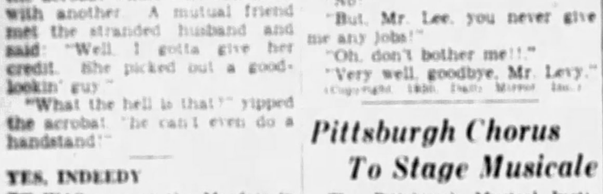
Pittsburgh Chorus To Stage Musicale

The Pittsburgh Musical Institute chorus and soloists will present "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast" in Carnegie Music Hall, Monday night, February 17, under direction of Charles N. Boyd. The soloists will be Roland T. Kaufman, tenor; Marian Clark Bollinger, pianist; Cass Ward Whitney, baritone, and Roy E. Shoemaker, violinist. The entertainment will be free to the public.

Religious School To Stage Program

A program by a class of the Bellevue Weekday School of Religious Education will be given tonight at the midweek services of the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church, the Rev. Dr. John R. Magee pastor. The exercises will be in charge of Mrs. J. M. Bailey, general superintendent of the religious school and Mrs. A. J. Holman, teacher of the class.



TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

THE NEBBS — Just a Lovers' Quarrel — By Carlson

I SEE YOUR EX-SWEETHEART SYLVIA IS SHINING UP TO FLINT A BIT— ITS FUNNY HOW MUCH DIFFERENT A MAN LOOKS WHEN HE'S GOT MONEY
SHE AINT NO EX SWEETHEART— I'M STILL COURTIN HER AND I GOT DOUGH TOO AND I DON'T THINK IT MAKES ME LOOK FUNNY
OH I'M SORRY I SAID ANYTHING ABOUT MISS APPLEBY— I DIDN'T KNOW YOU WERE STILL INTERESTED— I JUST NOTICED SHE WAS SPENDING AN UNUSUAL AMOUNT OF TIME AROUND THE HOTEL AND FLINT BEING THE ONLY UNMARRIED MAN AND RICH I NATURALLY SUPPOSED THAT WAS THE ATTRACTION BUT I MUST BE WRONG—FORGIVE ME
WHAT YOU HANGIN AROUND HERE FOR DRESSING UP LIKE IT WAS SUNDAY?— THERE'S SOMETHIN' BACK OF THIS
WHO WANTS TO KNOW AND WHOSE BUSINESS IS IT?— IT SEEMS YOU TAKE A LOT FOR GRANTED
I ASKED THE QUESTION SO IT MUST BE ME THAT WANTS TO KNOW BUT I CAN GUESS A BIT— ITS THAT FELLER, FLINT AND ITS CAUSE HE'S GOT MONEY— FUNNY HOW MUCH DIFFERENT IT MAKES A MAN LOOK— I GOT MONEY TOO JUST MEBBE HE AIN'T GOT AS MUCH AS I GOT— JUST MEBBE.
I NEVER COUNTED EITHER ONE OF YOUR WEALTHS BUT HIS IS SOMEWHAT IN EVIDENCE WHILE YOU'VE GOT THE MOST MODEST AND RETIRING FORTUNE IMAGINABLE— I NEVER QUESTIONED THE FACT THAT YOU HAVE MONEY— IF YOU EVER HAD IT, YOU'VE GOT IT.

DUMB DORA — A Run on the Bank — By Young

MY ONLY CHANCE OF GETTING MONEY TO GO TO COLLEGE IS FROM UNCLE ANDY MC MIZER, AND HE'S AS TIGHT AS THE CAP ON A JELLY JAR..
IT WON'T HURT TO ASK HIM..
NO!
OH, NOW, UNCLE... YOU'LL LET ME CALL YOU UNCLE, WON'T YOU? YOU SWEET OLD THING... WHAT A KIND, GENTLE FACE, YOU HAVE... A PERFECT REFLECTION OF LOVE AND GENEROSITY...
NOW WE'VE GOT TO RUSH TO THE BANK AND CASH THE CHECK BEFORE HE REALIZES WHAT HE'S DONE AND STOPS THE PAYMENT ON IT.

When Thinking Is Costly

By McManus

MAGGIE-IT'S SO NICE OUT I WUZ THINKIN' ABOUT TAKIN' A STROLL.
VERY GOOD AND YOU CAN TAKE POM-POM WITH YOU AND STOP AT THE DRUG STORE AND BRING BACK SOME COLD CREAM AND NAIL POLISH.
DADDY WHILE YOU'RE OUT WILL YOU MAIL THESE LETTERS AT THE POST OFFICE?
AN' I SUPPOSE YOU'RE GONNA LET ME PUT THE STAMPS ON 'EM, TOO?
NOW WHAT?
YOUR WIFE SAYS THAT ON YOUR WAY YOU CAN TAKE THESE PACKAGES BACK TO THE STORE AN' THEY'LL GIVE YOU SOME TO BRING BACK.

"Light" Expense

By Westover

THERE'S REALLY MORE WORK AROUND HERE THAN I EXPECTED. DON'T YOU THINK I SHOULD GET A RAISE?
GREAT SCOTT! GIRL, I JUST KEPT YOUR SALARY FROM BEING REDUCED
YOU WOULDN'T FOOL ME, WOULD YOU, MR. WHIPPLE
SAY, YOU DON'T KNOW WHAT A BATTLE I HAD. MISS JONES WANTED TO REDUCE YOUR SALARY.
BUT I WOULDN'T STAND FOR THAT WELL, THAT WAS REAL SWEET OF YOU TO DO THAT FOR ME
THAT'S ALL RIGHT, MISS ELLIS, WE HAD TO CUT SOMEWHERE SO I TOOK THE REDUCTION IN SALARY
GOOD HEAVENS! WHERE'D YOU GET THAT DESK LAMP, TILLIE?
I BOUGHT IT WITH THE MONEY WE SAVED WHEN YOU CUT YOUR SALARY

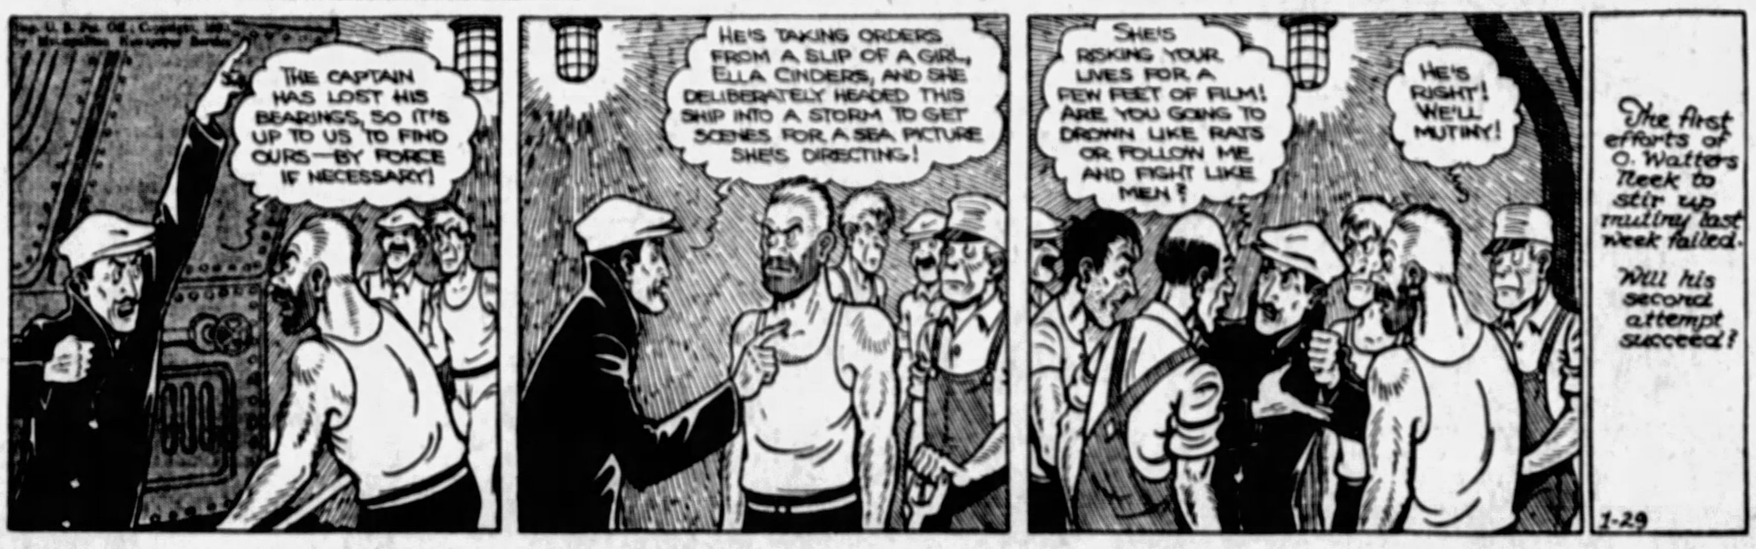
ELLA CINDERS

Paging the Mutineers

By Plumb and Conselman



THE CAPTAIN HAS LOST HIS BEARINGS, SO IT'S UP TO US TO FIND OURS—BY FORCE IF NECESSARY!
HE'S TAKING ORDERS FROM A SLIP OF A GIRL, ELLA CINDERS, AND SHE DELIBERATELY HEADED THIS SHIP INTO A STORM TO GET SCENES FOR A SEA PICTURE SHE'S DIRECTING!
SHE'S RISKING YOUR LIVES FOR A FEW FEET OF FILM! ARE YOU GOING TO DROWN LIKE RATS OR FOLLOW ME AND FIGHT LIKE MEN?
HE'S RIGHT! WE'LL MUTINY!
The first efforts of O. Walters Reek to stir up mutiny last week failed. Will his second attempt succeed?

A Light in the Window

By Tuthill

IT'S AWAY AFTER NINE O'CLOCK. I CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHY PONTOON ISN'T IN YET. HE ALWAYS WENT TO BED SO EARLY. I WONDER IF ANYTHING COULD HAVE HAPPENED TO HIM?
LET ME THINK.....? SUCH LUCK! WELL I'M NOT GOING TO WORRY UNTIL LATER—ONE O'CLOCK OR SO.
TEN THIRTY AND.....THERE'S SOMEONE IN THE HALL NOW—COMING TOWARD THE DOOR. HE STOPPED.....NO, HE'S PASSING. ONLY ANOTHER DIZZY NEIGHBOR. AND—THERE'S ANOTHER TALL MAN ON THE FAR SIDE OF THE STREET.....WHICH WAY IS HE GOING? HE ISN'T MOVING. MAYBE HE—OH IT'S ONLY A POST.
TWELVE O'CLOCK! MY WORD, WHAT A FINE KETTLE OF FISH. I'M CATCHING COLD, TOO. I SHOULD HAVE WORN—THERE'S A TAXI COMING.....IT TURNED THE NEXT CORNER. SUCH LUCK!
IT'S AFTER ONE O'CLOCK AND PONTOON ISN'T IN YET. WHAT DO YOU MAKE OF THAT, JO?
IMAGINE! WELL GEORGE, I DON'T WANT TO WORRY YOU BUT WHEN I CAME TO BED I DOZED FOR A FEW MOMENTS AND DREAMED ABOUT SOMETHING I CAN'T REMEMBER I'LL BET ANYTHING IT MEANT TROUBLE.

SHE'S A MYSTERY SHIP ALL RIGHT. THREE WEEKS AN' WE DON'T SEE NOBODY, THEN ALL AT ONCE THIS MONSTER POPS UP
YES, AND THERE'S MORE ABOARD THE BLACK BARNACLE TOO, IF YOU'RE ASKIN' ME—CAN'T YOU HEAR VOICES POPEYE?
VOICES IN ONE OF THE CABINS AFT—SURE! SURE AS HECK! CAN'T YOU HEAR 'EM?
I'VE STOOD PLENTY O' THIS! I'M GONER BUST IN AN' SEE WHICH IS WHICH!
NO CAN DO!
WELL—BLOW ME DOWN!

Almost an Antique

By Carter

WHAT IS THE VERDICT? MY FATE IS IN YOUR HANDS
HEY, MISTER BRANNER
I'M GONNA WIN THE SPELLIN BEE ON FRIDAY AN' DO YUH KNOW HOW I KNOW?
I DON'T LIKE TO SEEM IGNORANT BUT I DON'T KNOW
I FOUND THIS LUCKY HORSESHOE THAT'S WHY I'M SURE TO WIN!
MY BOY—YOU DON'T WANT TO BE TOO SURE THAT YOU'LL WIN JUST BECAUSE YOU FOUND A HORSESHOE—WHEN I WAS A BOY I HAD TWO HORSE-SHOES—BUT I NEVER WON A SPELLIN' BEE
I KNOW—BUT WITH ALL THE AUTYMOBILES AROUND TODAY A HORSESHOE IS MORE LUCKIER THAN IT USED TO BE!

COOK-COOS by Ted Cook

(Copyright, 1930)

Annoyed by both long and short skirt fanatics, chorus girls have organized the Ziegfeld Charm Club to fight for moderation.

But small as the movement will be, the organizers seem quite serious. They have even promised to abstain from excessive emotion.

Which would be an even more constructive move if they would also agree to abstain from inspiring it.

But the strangest part of it all is the curious phenomenon of a press agent thinking up a moderation campaign.

This is Mrs. Ambrose G. Doakes, who has created something of a furor in judiciary circles by suing Miss Goldie MacGillicundy for alienating the affections of Mr. Doakes for his bank account.

* * *

N. Y. Commissioner of Police Whalen says, "I don't know whether a man should stay much longer than a year on a job like this."

Things do sort of pile up on one.

And the work of fact finding commissions wouldn't be nearly so hard if they didn't have to decide which facts to overlook.

FRISBY SETS NEW STYLE FOR SOCIETY

WASHINGTON. — Congressman Frisby has joined the fashionable and exclusive bridlepath colony at the national capital. Any Sunday morning he may be seen riding his spirited motorcycle. He wears a silk hat, while riding, and thus attracts considerable attention among the younger set.

HUMAN NATURE STUDY

Consider, now, the porcupine,
With needles all along his spine—
Pray, what arrangement could be neater
When he meets a robust greeter
At the jungle luncheon club—
The over-ardent jovial dub
Will hesitate instead of thwack
A porcupine upon the back!

President Hoover might promote considerable optimism if he would come out in favor of more oil in wildcat oil wells.

This is the wealthiest country on the globe, but there will always be more or less depression so long as ventriloquists appear before the public.

DRAMA!

(News Item)

"Marshal Shepherd swore out two warrants as a result of the Slyker fire. The marshall has been warning those who gather at a fire not to stand on the hose. Monday afternoon, at the Slyker blaze, the marshal said Herman Cook and Will Wright both stepped on the hose."

Says Geneieve the kitchen cynic—

"We may be an idealistic nation, but most of the population seems to be looking for the wetter things of life."

* * *

But the most important difference between bootleggers and prohibitionists is that the latter's efforts to eliminate drinkers are more unpleasant.

Adam Scoffaw's Journal

Up and finde my poor wretch worrit by a whamble, or pensy pain, whenever she lean over the washboard, and she whimper and whine and says such labour doth misguggle her spine, and beg for me to fetch her to a handsone chiropractor—but I silence the zaney with drammock of horseradish wine, and when I leave for the printery she cry "Yowie!" and say she never felt better in her life for which Heaven Be praised.

Mayor Mackey Is Firm In Attack on Blue Law

Mayor Harry A. Mackey, of Philadelphia, deserves commendation for his courage in standing by his guns under attack by clergymen for having delivered a temperate address before an association for young men in which he made a plea for a more liberal Sunday than is legally permitted by the old blue law.

"The 1794 blue laws are out of date and out of harmony with the present-day needs of this city's population," he asserted, elaborating his stand as expressed in his original appeal. "I won't retrace a single step in the direction I have taken. The broadcasting of sermons is against the strict letter of the law."

Of course, Mayor Mackey is right in his contention, but the "strict letter" of the law is not observed and could not be observed. The illogical thing in the stand of the supporters of it is that they make no protest upon it being ignored except as it applies to things they have no inclination toward, but do not want others to enjoy. So they insist upon the power of the old law to ban simple, innocent amusements and sports, denied to the poor, but open to the rich in their clubs.

Mr. Mackey ridicules the claim that he is "holding up to scorn the God-fearing citizenry of the city." He asks if cities (meaning Washington, specifically,) are unfit to live in and if "God-fearing citizens there are humiliated because its citizens permit an open Sunday such as I want for Philadelphia." And he says that his accusers virtually are accusing President Hoover of living in a wicked city and sponsoring its wickedness.

We repeat that Mr. Mackey deserves commendation for taking a courageous stand. Heretofore few men high in public political life, although knowing that a majority would favor a more liberal Sunday, have dared to defy opinion that, though undoubtedly in the minority, is powerful through being strongly organized. We may say that we believe Mr. Mackey has broken the ice and that heads of other forward-looking cities, disgusted with the incongruities of a law that is enforced on one hand and ignored on the other, will no longer hesitate to declare themselves in an equally emphatic way.

Crowded School Problem Serious in South Hills

Pittsburgh has a crowded school problem. Unless something extraordinary is done it may continue indefinitely. Growth of population, shift of population and a let-down in building at the request of the government during the war, a lapse that it never has been possible to take up, are said to be responsible for abandonment of school space in some districts and overcrowding in others.

Because of greatly increased population, the South Hills High School, built to accommodate 1,950 pupils, has to care for 2,400 at the present time. This congestion will be made more acute with the midwinter grade school graduations in February. Many more will come from grammar schools than will go out as South Hills graduates, and the excess is estimated to increase the number of pupils in South Hills High School to 2,600.

To care for this number the Board of Public Education will adopt the expedient of dividing the pupils into two groups, each to attend school at different periods. Naturally, this has caused censure of the board by parents, who contend the situation should have been foreseen and provided for. It is stated that even if work were to begin now on the Knoxville Junior High School and the Union Junior High School in Brookline, it would be two years before South Hills could be relieved, and in the meantime the demand on its facilities would continue to increase at the present rate.

Surely the Board of Public Education has a serious problem that is only aggravated by the fact that shifting populas made necessary the abandonment of school space totaling 292 rooms throughout the city. It appears evident that Pittsburgh must prepare for a spurt in building schools. Also to find some way whereby the $1,500,000 limit for yearly construction may be expanded.

Our Nation Is Striving To Crush Opium Traffic

They found a big San Francisco drug peddler guilty one day last week. "Black Tony" Parmagini was tried on five counts, found guilty by a jury in 40 minutes and he and his chief lieutenant were fined $24,000 apiece and given 17 years in a federal prison.

When "Black Tony" was arrested nobody dreamed anything would happen to him. He was too big. He wasn't a little peddler. He was a wholesaler, and everybody thought he had a "drag." He'd get out of that scrape all right and somebody would suffer for daring to arrest him. Even "Black Tony" was not worried. Dapper, powerful "Black Tony" in one of the dirtiest businesses on earth, couldn't POSSIBLY go to prison. But he's going there, and he'll stay there and he'll do no more peddling.

Some people who really care about the ghastly evils of the world opium traffic are pessimistic about its suppression. They've followed the meetings of the opium committees of the League of Nations and they've seen what happens in them. They've read about how the committee adjourned for tea whenever the delegate from China makes an embarrassing speech. They've seen how the opium bloc manages to envelope and suffocate any REAL effort to suppress the miserable business.

And, seeing these things, they sometimes lose heart and lose hope that the big drug-peddling nations—the big national "Black Tonies" of this world—will ever be forced out of the business. They can't see much hope in sending a "Black Tony" of the Pacific Coast to jail as long as the Black Tony nations keep making, selling, exporting and smuggling drugs for profit.

But, they need not lose heart wholly. The opium committee is meeting in Geneva this week, the same efforts are being made to thwart the suppression of the opium traffic—but there's a difference now, and a hopeful difference. The opium bloc can't work in the dark any more. The "addict nations" are louder than ever in their insistence that something be done. They DEMAND a change and they have the sincere help of the delegates from such countries as Italy and the United States—and sooner or later they will GET that change!

Evil things cannot be frankly done any more. Black Tony nations can no longer boast of their opium profits. They cannot be bold, as San Francisco's little Black Tony was bold. The little Black Tony goes to prison and within a few years, at the most, the Black Tony nations will be FORCED to raise wheat instead of poppies, to make bread instead of poison.

And with all the strength of its great heart, this nation is helping the coming of that day.

THE TOILS AND SPOILS OF VICTORY

By Herbert Kaufman

ENGINEERS in charge of the vehicular bridge now building across the Hudson have ascertained that wire cables, even under the negligible heat of January suns, expand one inch in four thousand feet.

Therefore, to obtain ABSOLUTE precision in their work, the human spiders, delegated to spin those tremendous threads, now begin their task at three o'clock A. M.

There's no such word as GOOD-ENOUGH in the lexicon of physics.

The scientific mind takes nothing for granted. Which is one reason why universities plan to discourage the tendency of students to follow purely cultural courses.

Collegiate education increasingly protests against the preference of undergraduates for superficial finishes. Literature, the classics and philosophy aren't stern enough DRILL MASTERS—they're too indulgent with unpolished mental buttons.

THE future has constantly less opportunity to offer individuals, who know a phase of everything and nothing MUCH of ANYTHING.

Its blueprints won't be intelligible to SMATTERERS. There are no big jobs waiting for sloppy thinkers, approximators and detail-neglectors.

We've entered business partnership with the electron, the atom and the ether. Industry is knocking piths, gases and essences apart, to recompose them into cheaper and more efficient structural materials.

Tomorrow's calculations are splitting hairbreadths and molecules, and persons who don't know what it's about must abandon front-rank hopes.

Last week we learned how to manufacture better steel at less cost and a fifteen per cent reduction in waste.

Yesterday a Cooper Union experimenter placed tempered gold at our disposal, and thereby completely revolutionized dental technique.

A FRENCH chemist, pursuing his researches in Switzerland, has finally run down the clue to motion pictures in FULL natural colors.

No line is so tangled but what some cunning fingered fact-fisherman will straighten the kinks.

Progress has been chiefly served by two widely different types—the imaginative and the tenacious.

Theory seldom proceeds beyond a contemplation of possibility; then relinquishes the half-gnawed bone to BULLDOG PATIENCE which cracks through to marrow.

There has been little of the spectacular, nothing of wizardry, in careers which have permanently enriched our stores of experience and substance.

Their primary characteristics prove so similar that the lives of Harvey, Bacon, Archimedes, Marconi, Bessemer, Edison and Crile alike may be epitomized in one revealing phrase, "He was not a half-way man."

THE main trouble with YOU, as well as the AVERAGE doctor, lawyer, merchant, salesman, carpenter and stenographer, is that you MISS oftener than hit—it lies in lack of coherent application.

You're probably industrious enough, but your industry lacks concentration and AIM.

The reason why we behold so many later arrivals prospering where their predecessors were unable to eke out an existence, is because the failures had no PARTICULAR OBJECTIVES, and their successors were intense SPECIALISTS.

You're getting nowhere because there's no fixed DIRECTION to your efforts.

Percentage indicates that ninety-five folk out of a hundred, who will read these lines, are searching for the NATIONAL IMPOSSIBLE—a road to the top without a soul-trying, witteasing barrier EN ROUTE.

The spoils and toils of victory are inseparable.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD! ∴

By Elsie Robinson

SOMETHING fine has happened in our town!

Our town lies on the Mother Lode trail . . . empty shafts and rotting hoists edging sleepy lanes . . . Persian roses and clove pink tangling across the old, flagged walks. Sunlight slips thick as honey through the pines . . . quail call at dawn . . . the great stars blaze, at midnight, like white flares above the little homes.

That's Sonora. And now something fine has happened in our quiet lives. This way—

There's a tumble-down house across the street from the post-office and in it two people and a little girl have made their home. Thoughtful, friendly people, named Rice, who nod at you across the dusty sunlight of their work room. Interesting work . . . wrought iron, done with honest craftsmanship and rare beauty. Not just a job to them . . . much, much more than a job . . . an adventure in beauty, though they'd never call it by any such highfalutin name. But I'm sure that's how they feel about it—

A while back, a great idea came to them. They felt they wanted to make something more than wrought iron . . . the first pewter ever made in the Sierra—

There are tricks about pewter, it seems. This thin, shiny, modern stuff . . . our Revolutionary fathers would have tolerated no such trash. Their metal was of-a-piece with their lives . . . stout, honest material that would last through the generations. The fine, old alloys . . . the lovely, old lines . . . the Rices searched, studied, experimented . . . then watched thought shape itself on paper, in wood, in clay . . . in a thin, molten stream that flowed like a dream into the mold . . .

Just before Christmas they finished the first two candlesticks, and told me to come.

Shadows were flooding the big, barny room as I came in at the door. Outside, the first star hung above the darkening street and the scent of the pines and the wet earth came into the room with me and filled the place like incense. There, on a cleared shelf, set apart from the confusion, the candlesticks stood . . . shining softly through the dusk. From base to cup they rose, one simple, singing line . . . like a pure note, sustained . . .

We did not speak. There seemed no words to say. Quietly we stood . . . as if before a shrine . . . the mother held a light . . .

The flame burned straight and pure . . . like a small prayer . . .

The radiance spread . . . and wrapped us in its peace . . .

We stood as reverently as though at mass . . .

It was a mass . . . a mass to Beauty . . .

Once more Beauty had been given, to gentle people, in a little town.

* * * * * *

Coming home, later, through the empty street, I thought how Beauty always is a great event—

That comes in answer to some secret prayer—

As though we reached our hand, through darkness, up to God—

AND FOUND HIS TOKEN, LIKE AN ANSWER, IN OUR PALM.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

EACH object is a unit, either a polyp or a fixed medusa, and they specialize in the performance of various duties; some, not unlike the Obelia polyps, are feeders; others, having no mouths and a single long tentacle very richly provided with stinging-capsules, are soldiers; the medusa, clustering like dark blue grapes, bear sexual cells; from the whole there depend particularly formidable tentacles, up to 60 feet in length and with a sting that can raise welts on a human being, like the sting of a giant nettle, and give him fever for several days.

Other Siphonophores are differently planned and colored. We may note that, although a Siphonophore is conveniently described as a colony of specialized individuals, those individuals are not nearly so sharply defined as in Obelia—they are continuous with each other, and it is often very hard to say where one begins and the other ends.

H. G. Wells

The second class of Coelenterates, the Scyphozoa, includes all the larger and more familiar jellyfish. The medusa of a Hydrozoan is like a miniature jellyfish in its general appearance, but the Scyphozoan medusa is more complex in its organization.

The Scyphozoa are all marine, and most of them float at the surface of the ocean; they are generally transparent, with patches of purple, blue or orange, especially on their reproductive organs; the deep-water forms are often red or brown.

Many are phosphorescent. The greater part of their bodies consists of a structureless jelly that is in fact mostly sea-water; only about one per cent of the weight of a jellyfish consists of organic matter.

One or two species are curious, not swimming but living on the sea-bottom. Lucernaria, has the structure of a jellyfish, but leads the life of a polyp, attaching itself to weeds and the like.

Many jellyfish develop directly from the egg, but in some species there is an intermediate stage reminiscent of the alternation found in Obelia.

In Aurelia, for example, the commonest jellyfish of our shores, the eggs hatch into tiny planula larvae like the larvae of Obelia, which settle and give rise to a single feeding polyp.

The polyp later divides itself into a series of discs, like a pile of crumpets which sprout tentacles, detach themselves one by one and grow into jellyfish.

The third class, the Actinozoa, includes the sea-anemones and corals. These animals exist only in the polyp phase, no medusa being known, and their polyps are more highly and elaborately organized than those of any other group.

Some, like the sea-anemones of our shores—the beadlet, the plumose anemone, the sea-dahlia and the rest—remain solitary through life, but in most cases notably among corals, there is extensive budding, which results in the formation of more or less enormous colonies.

The sea-anemones, like Hydra, have a mouth surrounded by stinging tentacles; in many species peculiar threads covered with particularly active stinging cells can be shot out through the mouth, or through special portholes in the side of the body.

The larger kind—such as the dahlia anemone—can even capture pawns and small crabs.

The corals make a hard skeleton of lime round which, and sometimes inside which, they live; they are nearly always colonial, and may build fan-like structures, rods like the pink "dead man's fingers" of our coasts, or massive reefs.

The great Barrier Reef of Australia, over a thousand miles long and 50 miles across, is the work of myriads of tiny coral-polyps.

The Actinozoa are also remarkable for the brilliance and intensities of their coloration. Anybody who has prowled a rocky shore at low tide will know how varied the colors of sea-anemones can be.

The tropical corals are even more striking; there are pink-yellow, green and purple corals; corals with green polyps and crimson skeletons; bright blue corals; corals with scarlet, finger-like skeletons fringed with white polyps.

A fourth class, the Ctenophores, is sometimes classified with the coelenterates and sometimes put in a phylum by itself.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—New York's fabled Four Hundred has ballooned to Fifteen Thousand. At least that is the number of names in the new Social Register—the official "Who's Who" of the swells. No one is ever dropped. Those who seem to be have merely not filed applications.

Many names in the tome are not actually in society. They are appended as wives or husbands of the favored. Col. Charles Lindbergh, who has a habit of landing in strange places, landed in the Register over night. He attained, without effort, what others vainly sought for years.

The only person ever to ask withdrawal was a celebrated dowager who objected to the advertising mail her appearance in it inspired. Any person with the social urge may make application, but having it accepted is something else again.

There is an Advisory Committee which decides upon the fitness of the ambitious. The personnel of this august body is shrouded in deep mystery, although it is reputed to have six members. When they turn down an application, there is no appeal.

So eager are some of new rich to achieve the illustrious classification that one enthusiast is said to have offered $100,000 to the person who could secure him the recognition. The book is sold for $6 and anyone may purchase a copy.

The Social Register grew out of what the mauve decade knew as "The List." This was prepared in the beginning by Maurice V. Mintern from his mother's visiting list and was circulated privately. There were not then 400 who qualified.

The biggest sale of the volume is reputed among brokerage and financial houses which found it valuable in investment promotions. Eleven cities outside of New York have discontinued Social Registers, chiefly because of a lack of interest.

In the past two years, 386 unknowns have had first books published. Among authors were three sailors, two marines, a chorus girl, a speakeasy proprietor, the proprietress of a bordello, a dishwasher, a hotel night clerk, eight press agents, a valet, typewriter salesman and a theater ticket taker.

But the most conspicuous success of all was that of Chic Sale, who had never written a line for print until he turned out "The Specialist." This book has passed the million mark in sales and Chic's last quarterly royalty statement—I saw the check—was for $25,000.

One of the by-products of Mr. Sale's authorship is a $6,000 a year post on the board of directors of a company manufacturing—we give you four guesses—a certain product.

Public eagerness for the robust output of untrained scribblers has resulted in a more careful scrutiny of all manuscripts in magazine offices. The penciled chirographic horrors written on both sides of the paper that used to be tossed aside with a glance are now receiving several expert readings.

Three gentlemen have been publicly slapped by ladies recently because the latter felt they had been scandalized by gossip. Two of the victims took it on the cheek with blushes and hurried away, but the third sagged into a chair at a nearby table and had a good cry.

In old Martin's one night a beautifully gowned actress walked up to a table and slapped a famous architect, who was sitting with his wife. He dropped on his knees and crawled under tables until he reached an exit, which is my notion of super-diplomacy.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

DO YOU feel that you are not accorded the respect to which you are entitled?

Your age, your position and what you have accomplished should bring you a greater degree of deference from the general public, you think.

You try to give the impression wherever you go that your thoughts and attainments are superior to your associates, don't you?

The very fact that you find it necessary to conduct yourself with studied effect to get respect shows that you don't deserve it.

The person who is finally most honored is the one who creates a position of credit to himself or herself without any thought of so doing.

Most folks are placed where they belong by those who know them.

It is difficult to deceive people for any length of time.

If you are not given the value you think you deserve it is foolish to try to make yourself over into another sort of person.

Of course you should see to it that you don't bring disgrace on yourself or your family. But don't try to pretend to be a superior sort of person.

If you are that, it will be found out sooner or later, so be yourself. It is the only way by which you may establish a solid foundation.
